WHO'S WHO RETURNS—Jo Conners, candidate for the legislature, after having spent a couple weeks in the north, campaigning among the Prescott and other resorts, has returned to Phoenix. Having covered sixteen legislatures, as correspondent, Jo is a strong believer in the printer's ink and will do a lot of campaigning through the newspapers.

KATE FLANAGAN BACK—Miss Kate Flanagan, who counts her friends in Phoenix with the number of her acquaintances, has returned from her summer vacation which she spent in New England, and she will resume her duties at her cigar stand at the Ford hotel, beginning this morning. Miss Flanagan enjoyed her vacation greatly but returns to the southwest a more loyal Arizonian and Phoenixian than ever.

THE STRAY CHICKEN TROUBLE—On the complaint of a neighbor, William Small was before Judge Parker's court yesterday to clear himself on the charge of willfully allowing chickens to stray from his pens into the grounds of complainant. Supporting complainant were other neighbors who testify to the nuisance. However, defendant was able to convince the judge that he had done all possible to prevent the trouble, having fenced his garden. Following his policy of pacification, Judge Parker got the parties together and established good terms, deeming this a better course than further deepening the strife, and accordingly passed a suspended judgment.

CANDIDATES' SECTION—Considerable space in the Republican will be devoted to the different candidates—state, county and precinct—in the issue of September 7, the day before the primary. This will be Labor day and hundreds of voters will be in Phoenix on that date. Owing to the statewide circulation of the Republican, many candidates in other counties will avail themselves of this opportunity to tell the voters who they are, and for what they stand. The same state used in the Republican will be used on placards and these will be posted in every precinct in Maricopa county. The placards will contain instructions to voters, and will be issued several days before the paper containing the same information.

SENATOR SMITH AT PRESCOTT

Hurried Trip to Mile High City—Real Estaters of Phoenix Fail to Hear Speech Because of the Journey

Hon. Marcus A. Smith, candidate to succeed himself in the United States senate, an election which he expects at the hands of the democrats in the state and all the people in Maricopa county, left hurriedly yesterday morning to fill a speaking engagement in the Mile High City, and in consequence the real estate men, who had gathered several hundred strong at the New Palace Cafeteria to hear the senator on the irriteria bill that bears his name, extending the time of payment of the Roosevelt project to twenty years were disappointed. Instead of Mr. Smith appearing at the dinner yesterday at the noon hour, Vernon L. Clark stated to the gathering that a speaking engagement at Prescott necessitated Mr. Smith's presence there much to the general regret.

To all of this there hangs a tale. Proprietor Smith of the Cafeteria met Senator Smith in the lobby of the hotel on the day of his arrival and stated to him there that the real estate men were meeting at his cafeteria the next day (which was yesterday) and that he would be glad if the senator would accept an invitation to be present and talk upon the twenty year extension bill. Senator Smith heartily thanked Mr. Smith for the invitation and stated that he "would be there." That being settled, the gathering was well advertised at the expense of the well meaning Mr. Smith.

In the meantime some disagreement had arisen between Proprietor Smith and the Cooks and Waiters' union, and a committee representing the union is said to have called on Senator Smith, and warned him if he went down there the unions would oppose him. No notice was sent to Mr. Smith that the senator would not go, but Mr. Clark showed up and explained the fact of the schedule interfering, a schedule that was made out in the senator's room on the night after the speaking engagement at the Y. M. C. A. outdoor court.

The senator will not stay in the north this time but will hurry back to Phoenix this morning so as to fill his Tempe and Mesa dates before Sunday.
