PLUMBING INSPECTOR MILLER PASSES AWAY

Was an Efficient Official and Spanish American War Veteran
 City Plumbing Inspector James W. Miller, died yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Sister's Hospital where he was taken several weeks ago, after having been stricken with a series of hemorrhages. From the first it was felt that his chance of recovery was slight and by many it was considered remarkable that he lingered so long. James W. Miller was born in Irvin, Ky., 38 years ago. Early in life he engaged in the plumbing trade and later went upon the road as traveling representative of a large plumbing supply house. About two years ago he came to Arizona. He was appointed to the office of plumbing inspector in July and filled the duties of that office with credit to himself and his superiors.

During the Spanish-American war he enlisted in the Fourth Kentucky Regiment, in which regiment Policeman Thurman of this city was also enlisted. His regiment was sent to Anderson, Alabama, but was no nearer the front, because of the short duration of the war.

His father, three sisters and two brothers survive. All are living in Kentucky. His brother, Clarence, who had been notified of his serious illness, is expected to arrive here today, having started from his home several days ago. The body is at Esterling & Whitney's chapel awaiting funeral arrangements. The remains will probably be taken back to Kentucky for burial. The deceased was at one time a member of the B. P. O. Elks. He was unmarried.

the state of destination, and the other forbidding their importation from abroad. The Burnett immigration bill, with its literacy test, is ready for action by the senate.

The president is expected to renew his advocacy of the ship-purchase bill, which will meet with hard sledding in both branches. An important house bill seeks to place all water transportation under the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission. Resale prices, patent legislation, the labelling of manufactured goods, with reference to adulteration and misbranding, the licensing of warehouses, the admission of state banks to the federal reserve system—there are only a few of many important subjects for legislation which may be considered during the term of President Wilson, if not in the coming session.

The contest over the rivers and harbors bill may be renewed, although it can be said that the spillover is in a somewhat chastened mood. So far, President Wilson has not announced his attitude toward this measure. But, with the necessity of economy staring him in the face, it is expected he will ask for its close pruning.

EL ZARIBAH TEMPLE ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

At the meeting of El Zaribah Temple Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, held last evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Shirley Christy, Phoenix, illustrious potentate; Harry A. Morgan, Wilcox, chief rabban; Neil Bailey, Jerome, assistant chief rabban; A. G. Hulett, Phoenix, high priest and prophet; Epes Randolph, Tucson, oriental guide; George H. N. Luhrs was elected treasurer and J. J. Sweeney recorder.

J. J. Sweeney, Shirley Christy and George A. Manik were elected representatives of the imperial council and Vernon L. Clark as trustee. Through the courtesy of Manager Richards of the Columbia, the troupe of entertainers from that show house made their appearance after the business session and added much to the enjoyment of the occasion. The meeting concluded with an elaborate repast.

AMUSEMENTS

The Call of the North.
 The last days of Robert Edson and the wonderful picture, "The Call of the North" will be made at the Arizona tonight, and all those who have not heretofore seen the great picture, will thus have another chance to see it. "The Call of the North" is based upon George Broadhurst's great book, "The Conjuror's House" and details the intimate side of life in the northwest, the country of almost perpetual snow. The photography is splendid, so much so that people have marvelled at it. The clearness of the pictures and the expressions thus obtainable in the picture of the actors and actresses adds greatly to the great silent drama.

The Plaza.
 "The Crystal Ball," a three-reel Warner feature picture, will be the chief attraction at the Plaza Theater today, and today only. The picture deals with that mysticism of India that is being drawn on to such an extent at this time by movie directors for the spectacular and weird visions obtainable by the camera-man's art. It is well acted and worth the journey to see it. "The War Bonnet," a Kalem Indian picture, "Pie for Sop He," a western Essanay, and one other good picture complete the program.

PERILS OF PAULINE OT LION.
 A six-reel program and every picture first-class, is the announcement from the Lion theater today. "The Perils of Pauline" comes first, and its two reels of good entertainment. Pearl White as Pauline continues to give semi-monthly perils, and Harry saves her as usual. "Out of the Air" is another two-reel film and holds the interest every second it is on the screen. It is a combination aeroplane and railroad story, and a man drops from an aeroplane on a railway train and stops it in time to prevent an accident. Two comedies furnish the laughs, one a Komeie with Fay Fincher in the lead, and the other a Keystone called "He Loves the Ladies," ending one of the best diversified programs in a long time.

The weird genius of Edgar Allan Poe will find visualization tomorrow and Saturday at the Lamara theater when "The Avenging Conscience," produced by D. W. Griffith, will be projected. The present work is said to eclipse in thrilling interest any of Griffith's many successes, not excepting "Judith," "Battle of the Sexes," "Home Sweet Home" or "The Escape." Two of Poe's masterpieces are utilized in the photo play "The Telltale Heart" and "Annabel Lee." A gripping love story drawn from Poe's poem, and the psychology of conscience drawn from "The Telltale Heart," are blended by remarkable feats of photography never before successfully attempted in motion pictures.

Blanche Sweet is cast in the role of the sweetheart, and Spottiswoode Atherton will be seen as the wretched uncle. The program today will be the same excellent diversification that prevailed yesterday.

Rebel" should attract not only those who know the hardships and privations of the loyal southerners, who stuck to their beloved south in the face of its greatest trial, but to those who were enlisted with the other side, for it deals with the love of a daughter of the sun-kissed land of Dixie for a gallant blue-coated officer of the north, and the romance buries the rancor of the factional hatred in a pretty screen story of the days of yesterday. Stirring battle scenes and daring consummated to a degree is the watchword of "The Fair Rebel."

THE REGALE.
 J. Warren Kerrigan comes again today at the Regale theater, 210-212 East Washington street, in one of the most sensational single-reel Victor dramas he has produced. "There is a Destiny," is the title of this offering and in it Kerrigan is given full opportunity to avail himself of his versatility. The picture is well worth while. Mary Pickford is also billed at the Regale today, taking the leading role in "Mr. Burglar, M. D." an Imp drama that cannot fail to please. There are two comedy offerings, "Willie Walrus, Detective," a Joker, and "The Newlyweds," a Nestor, being of the order that provokes laugh after laugh. All in all, today's is one of the best of the Regale's superior offerings.
