STOCK GROWERS GREAT MEETING

Call Issued for Eighteenth Annual Convention of the American National Live Stock Association at San Francisco, March 24

A call has been issued for the eighteenth annual convention of the American National Live Stock Association to be held at San Francisco beginning March 24. This will undoubtedly be the most important and most largely attended convention in the history of the association. The call follows:

To Members and All Live-Stock Associations and Live-Stock Producers.

Call is hereby made for the Eighteenth Annual Convention of the American National Live Stock Association, to be held in Hall A, first floor, of Exposition Memorial Auditorium, San Francisco, California, March 24, 25 and 26, 1915; convening at 10 o'clock a. m. on Wednesday, March 24; morning sessions only.

At our last annual meeting it was decided to hold our 1915 convention in San Francisco during the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, at a date to be fixed by the executive committee. It has been customary to hold our annual meetings in January, but, owing to the fact that the exposition does not open until February 20, 1915, it became necessary to fix a later date, and the executive committee, after considering the dates of other annual live-stock meetings to be held early in the year, selected the above as the most convenient for the majority of our members.

The live-stock industry was never confronted with more serious problems. It is passing through a very widespread attack of foot-and-mouth disease. Railroads are proposing largely to advance their rates on live stock and its products. Range conditions are yearly becoming more unsatisfactory. The cost of raising and maturing live stock has increased. Importations of meats have affected prices. The war in Europe has seriously disturbed all commercial conditions in this country.

Among the many subjects for consideration at our convention are: federal control of the semi-arid, unappropriated, public grazing lands; various land bills before congress; administration of forest reserves; railroad rates and service; delays at terminals; cases pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission regarding live-stock rates; valuation of foot-and-mouth and other infectious diseases, and appropriation by congress for same; sanitary regulations; meat inspection law; importation of live stock and meats; inspection of imported meats, hides, and wool; prohibitive tax on oleomargarine; financing of live stock loans, reports of officers and standing committees.

These and other questions will be discussed by men prominent in the live-stock world. An unusually interesting program is being arranged. Officers of the Bureau of Animal Industry and the forest service, and other federal officials, will be present at our convention.

Hon. Woodrow Wilson, president, will probably attend one of our sessions and deliver an address.

Only morning sessions will be held, which will leave the afternoons and evenings for sight-seeing.

Very low rates have been granted to the exposition by the railroads from all points. Tickets on sale from and after March 1, return limit three months from date of sale. On all tickets the railroads will grant a side trip to San Diego, California, where another exposition called the Panama-California Exposition, will be held during the entire year of 1915.

The California Cattlemen's Protective association will hold its annual meeting at the Exposition Memorial

Methodist Revival Yesterday Resulted in Over-Seventy-five Conversions — The Services Extended Through This Week

Yesterday was one of the biggest days in the revival services Phoenix has ever seen. The revival at the First Methodist church conducted by Evangelists DeLaye and Pfaffenberger reached a high water mark both in interest and direct results. All during the past week the interest has been growing and intensifying and a large number have taken a definite stand for Jesus Christ. Yesterday four large services were held resulting in a forward movement of over one hundred and fifty persons with over seventy-five out and out conversions.

In the morning a special service was held for the Sunday school and Evangelist DeLaye made a strong appeal for decisions for Christ which resulted in a large number of conversions. At the regular morning service DeLaye spoke from the text: "What will you then do with Jesus?" The large congregation was greatly affected and a number responded to the call. At 2:30 DeLaye delivered his sermon on "Mother, Home and Heaven," to a great congregation of women only. Again a number of decisions were made for Christ. Then at the night service the evangelist spoke of the "Prodigal Boy." His appeal was especially strong and quite a number walked forward and surrendered their lives to Christ—among the number was a large majority of men.

The solo work of Mr. Pfaffenberger is splendid and his appeals in song never fail to reach the hearts of all. As leader of the choir he has succeeded in organizing what is perhaps the finest and largest chorus choir ever heard in the city. The music is always inspiring. At the morning service Mr. Pfaffenberger sang as a solo: "That Sweet Story of Old." At the women's service he sang: "Just for Today," and at the night service his solo was, "Lead Me All the Way."

A few of Mr. DeLaye's remarks follow: "I am not going to ask you why you came here in sin but I am going to ask you why you will leave here in sin."

"I don't give a snap of my finger whether you like the way I preach or not. If I thought that soothing syrup would save a man I'd go get the whole output of Mrs. Winslow's factory and then at every service I'd take up a collection to get more soothing syrup. The most of you don't need any soothing syrup you need the devil beaten out of you."

"The 'I wills' are going to heaven—the 'I won'ts' are going straight to hell."

"I hate the devil. I'll hit him every chance I get. If I can't get in a lick on his head I'll slam him on the tail."

Services will be conducted every night this week at 7:30 at the First Methodist church.

Noted that the commission's endorsement of the plan.

When the existing law taxing the capital stock of building and loan associations went into effect a year ago the Phoenix association transferred its affairs to the Home Builders and ceased doing business. The three other associations in the state, at Tucson, Bisbee and Nogales, are still in operation, but have been severely handicapped by the new law.

As soon as the new measure is prepared, it will be submitted to the tax commission for approval and then introduced in the legislature. C. F. Ainsworth, R. H. Greene, Vernon L. Cook, and J. L. Gust represented the former building and loan association at the conference with the commission.

GAS MEN MUST ENJOY THEMSELVES SOMETIME

And that is Why the Half Hundred P. G. & E. Folks Got Together for the Spread Saturday.

If Art Rick hady batted in and kicked about the lights being out at the Empire, everything would have been perfect. But it was a lovely party in spite of Rick, that dinner of the Pacific Gas & Electric company employees at the American Kitchen Saturday evening.

More than fifty were there. Everybody who works for the gas company and was not kept away by unavoidable duties at the plant, was right on deck with his hair in a braid. Even the boys at the plant enjoyed an overflow of the festivity, for enough cigars to keep them smoking for a week were sent down.

It was some feed followed by some entertainment. The entertainment was put on by the gas men themselves with no outside assistance except that given by Miss Drena Muck, who sang "Tippary" and a few other of her famous "Yip" songs.

Albert H. Fitz was the toastmaster. Everybody who remembers the popular music of a few years ago remembers the name of Albert H. Fitz, composer of "Won't You Be My Honey in Honeysuckle Time" and dozens of other famous hits, but the big world back east does not know that he is working for a gas company in Phoenix. He is and he was the witty, bubbly toastmaster of that dinner last night. He sang several of his own songs, one paraphrased to give a humorous twist to the troubles of the P. G. & E. collector.

Talks were made and stories were told. C. Hornberger, John Downey, George Kindred, George Lewis and others. Everybody agreed that it wouldn't be long before they got together for another dinner, entertainment and general talkfest just like it.

"ZUDORA" IS COMING TO THE LION THEATER

Headed by the beautiful actress, Marguerite Snow, and with a supporting company of 1000 people, "Zudora" will make her bow to Phoenix next Wednesday and Thursday, and every week thereafter for twenty weeks.

Daniel Carson Goodman is the author of "Zudora" which has been novelized by Harold McGrath and produced by the Thanhouser players.

"Zudora" is different from most serial films, inasmuch as it is composed of 20 episodes of two reels each week, but each episode is a complete story with a master plot running through the entire series.

Every installment will reveal a complete episode from the life of beautiful Zudora—the mystic, girl detective whose powers of deduction and scientific analysis seem superhuman. In each of these 20 episodes you will witness the baffling mysteries which develop in Zudora's life. You will see the cunning Zudora display more genius than Sherlock Holmes or Leecoq. You will see her use the newest methods of science—the X-ray, liquid air, novel electrical appliances—in her daring attempt to solve weird mysteries. These scenes will not only be an extraordinary record of adventure, but an education as well.

"Zudora" will begin at the Lion theater on Wednesday and Thursday, January 20-21, and the entire series will be shown at the Lion and always on Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

Homestead patents will be available this morning for eight sturdy tillers of the soil, who have qualified for the ownership of portions of the public domain. Register T. F. Weed of the general land office has a stack of patent papers in his office for Robert R. Nelson, W. J. Flake, Maude McCade, the heirs of Hilda C. Marissen, M. J. Daniels, Joseph Bell and F. Bunker.
