CITRUS PRICES ARE BLAMED ON THE RETAILERS

Western Fruit Jobbers' Association Hears Report Showing Ultimate Seller Gets Third of Each Dollar Public Pays

Interesting figures on citrus shipping—the result of nationwide investigations, were given out at the meeting of the Western Fruit Jobbers' association this week in Los Angeles, according to President Walter Hill of the produce company of that name, who returned yesterday.

It was shown by J. L. Powell, manager of the Southern California Fruit Exchange, that for each dollar the public pays for oranges, The producer gets 26.7c Paid out between producer and consumer 73.3c

Those figures were startling enough, according to Mr. Hill, to warrant investigation, almost on the part of one who does not know the conditions, and indeed, it was only the fact that Mr. Powell is a man whose statements carry unquestioned weight of authority and accuracy, that enabled the majority of the delegates to believe the astonishing total of loss between producer and consumer.

The firms Powell represents shipped last year twenty-eight thousand cars of California oranges and lemons. For the past two years it has been intensely interested in traffic problems, and Powell was set to make a wide investigation of the relative cost of getting oranges to the consumer.

It is discovered that the 73.3c paid to get a dollar's worth of fruit to the consumer is divided into the following apportionments: Picking and delivering to packer, 2.4c Cost of packing 7.4c Freight and refrigeration 20.5c Cost of selling 15c Middleman or jobber gets 8.2c Retailer, alleged to get, 23.2c

The interesting points are that in face of the great hoard regarding the high profits of the middleman, investigation showed that he only gets eight cents of the dollar for all his risk and labor—he gives a service which Mr. Powell admitted cannot be dispensed with.

The target of attack was the retailer's profit of one-third of the dollar, yet it is admitted that under former methods the losses due to the credit system and lack of efficiency in administering the business, that the retailer was not getting more than six cents.

The leading retailers of Phoenix have abolished credit and are now working on a cash basis and are distributing fruit and produce at least on very conservative margins, in some instances less than ten per cent.

The Los Angeles meeting was certainly a fine one. Over two thousand delegates, the largest number ever assembled, met to discuss fruit jobbing problems.

As they consider themselves by far the greatest source of revenue for the railroads, the jobbers thought it especially fitting that President William Sprague of the Southern Pacific Railway company should be on hand to deliver an inspiring speech on "Transportation Problems." The address was a masterpiece. One man recognized everywhere as a leader in his field of activity.

RAILROADS TO BOOST RATES TEN PER CENT

Price of Tickets to Arizona from the East to be Increased $4 March 1 Under New Tariffs—Commission to Fight Raise

New passenger rates, adding four dollars to the price of every transcontinental ticket to Arizona, will go into effect March 1, unless a suspension of the proposed tariffs is granted by the interstate commerce commission. That the new rates from the east are more drastic than at first appeared, was made known yesterday, when copies of the tariffs were received and checked over by the corporation commission.

Early advice from Washington and from the commission of western states conveyed but little information as to the extent of the proposed changes, which appeared to add but $1 to the cost of transportation westward from Oklahoma points. With the arrival of the complete tariffs as published by all roads operating west of the Missouri river, it became known that a flat increase of ten per cent on all classes of transportation is not only contemplated, but will take effect in the next ten days unless a suspension is secured.

From Kansas City and other southern Missouri river basing points the price of a ticket to Phoenix, which for the last twenty years has been $17.25, will be $21.25. The Tucson, the rate from those points will be boosted from $38.89 to $42.95, an increase of over ten per cent. The rate to Bisbee will be raised from $27.65 to $31.70, and the increase on the cost of a ticket to Nogales from Leavenworth and other points will be from $10.40 to $14.60. Prescott, Flagstaff, Yuma and every other town in the state will be proportionately affected by the increase. Eastbound, the rates will be raised to the same degree.

An immediate protest against the new tariffs and a request that they be suspended until a hearing may be had in the case will be filed with the interstate commerce commission by the corporation commission, which will join with other western states in fighting the proposed raise in passenger fares.

Aimed at State Commissions.
"While the immediate object of the proposed increase is undoubtedly more revenue, the effect of the new tariffs may have an important bearing on the future state of state rate-making boards," said Chairman F. A. Jones of the corporation commission, yesterday. "In case the increase goes into effect, and state commissions attempt to lower rates in the various states, it is probable that their action will be attacked on the ground that it interferes with interstate tariffs. Although we have just received the published tariffs, which were supposed to have been filed at least three days before the date when they take effect, we will at once take action to request the suspension of the proposed rates until a hearing can be held before the interstate commerce commission."

The regular weekly meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held yesterday afternoon with the usual number in attendance and several strangers present. An interesting devotional was led by Mrs. Pinkerton, in which several others took part by giving their choice verses or chapters in the bible.

In the business session, Mrs. Custer, the president Mrs. Stevens, were elected officers for the corporation. A motion to purchase new song books was passed. The program was of unusual interest. Mrs. Nolan handling the subject "World Wide Peace" with much wisdom and construction. Mrs. Bachelman's talk was full of interest to white filleters. She thinks that Arizona standing for prohibition has done much to help along the movement for national prohibition.

MRS. CHRISTY'S ANSWER TO SUIT OF W. C. MILLS

The Tragedy of the Late Madame Ariola Recalled

An answer has been filed by Mrs. Shirley Christy, head of the Arizona School of Music, to the suit brought against her by William C. Mills, who was for some time connected with the school as a member of the faculty having charge of the vocal department. The plaintiff withdrew from the school under an alleged breach of contract by Mrs. Christy and brought suit for unpaid services.

The answer alleges that the plaintiff was the first to forfeit the contract, a copy of which is attached to the answer. In consequence of the withdrawal of the plaintiff from the school, it is alleged that its efficiency was so impaired until the society could be filled, that the defendant suffered a loss of $350.

The answer brings in the name of the late Madame Ariola, a woman who created something of a furor here a couple of years ago, ending her spectacular career in this city by suicide. It states:

"Defendant further alleges by way of counterclaim, that on or about the 1st day of March, 1914, said plaintiff, William C. Mills, introduced to defendant a certain woman as Madame Ariola, whom plaintiff represented to defendant as a woman of great wealth, and stated to defendant that the said Madame Ariola desired to purchase the Arizona School of Music, and said plaintiff urged defendant to enter into negotiations with Madame Ariola and procure an abstract of title of the Arizona School of Music property. The plaintiff further representing to defendant that, in the event of the consummation of such purchase, the plaintiff would be placed in charge of said School of Music by the said Madame Ariola; that the said defendant, acting upon the request of plaintiff, procured an abstract of title of said property and delivered the same to plaintiff, to be used by him in consummating the sale of said property; that defendant expended for said abstract the sum of $25.50, which plaintiff promised and agreed to pay."

The answer cites various advances of money to the plaintiff for which she should have credit and in conclusion prays that the plaintiff take nothing by her action but that the defendant be given judgment in the sum of $44.15.

WICKENBURG ROAD CONFERENCE TODAY

Delegation Comes to Discuss Ways and Means of Betterment With Chamber of Commerce.

To discuss means of bettering the highway from Phoenix to Wickenburg with state and county officials and with the chamber of commerce, a delegation from the town on the Has-sayampa will arrive this morning. The road from here to Wickenburg, long notorious as the worst stretch in the entire road to Prescott, is becoming especially obnoxious now that the season for the annual fitting to the northern playgrounds is but a few months away. The best way to spend the summer vacation, many declare, is to motor to northern Arizona. The road through Wickenburg, therefore, is of first importance, and it is to see what can be done to put it into shape for the summer travel that today's conference is being held. The committee on roads of the chamber of commerce will cooperate with the Wickenburg party, probably getting together with them at luncheon today.

Co-incident with the movement for the improvement of the Phoenix-Wickenburg stretch, Secretary Harry Welch has been instructed to gather all the available data on the northern counties for the information of the schools. In this way information regarding desirable camping places and vacation spots will be disseminated.

church, the judge had been president of the board of trustees here and a liberal contributor to religious enterprises. He was a member of the order of Elks and a Mason in high standing, being a charter member of Phoenix's masonic center, those R. T. He was a member of Elks, the Temple, N. M. #.

Judge Johnstone was born in Louisville, Ky., March 1, 1845, and received his education in the schools of that city. At the age of eighteen he entered upon a career as a railroad man, a line which he followed for more than twenty years. In 1866 he removed to Phoenix and taught in school about three miles northwest of Phoenix, where he lived for a year; he then taught the Phoenix "Gazette" and remained that journal for five years. They became interested in horticulture, he located upon a forty-acre ranch north of the city, and starting an orange orchard, tended it until it was in full bearing condition, when he disposed of it. He then moved to Phoenix and was admitted to the bar under Judge Baker.

Judge Johnstone was in 1897 appointed to the important post of treasurer of Arizona under Governor McCard, a position in which he served until a change of administration. Even in decidedly democratic districts he was again and again re-elected by his majority, that testified to his efficiency and popularity as a citizen and official. Coming to the Salt River valley in the early days, Judge Johnstone made good investments in city property from time to time, and his undertakings were largely crowned with success. Probably few men in the city and state were so well known and held in so high esteem.

Always interested in athletics, Judge Johnstone was a lion lover of the national game, and was one of the organizers of the first baseball league in this country. During the Civil war he served as a colonel of militia, and was affectionately known by many of his friends under that title.
