

THE FLORENCE TRIBUNE
PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

FLORENCE, ARIZONA, OCTOBER 14, 1902.

F. D. Haddock has rented Judge Benson's residence, on Main street.

At last accounts the health of Mrs. Frank Shields was slowly improving.

The Florence Hotel is crowded with guests. On Thursday over 130 meals were served.

Mrs. J. F. Burns is spending a few days with her husband on their river ranch at Dudleyville. She reports the fall crops as very fine.

Andy O'Connor left Tuesday for San Francisco, where he will enter a sanitarium, and it is hoped he will speedily recover his health.

Phoenix defeated El Paso in the game of base ball played Tuesday afternoon, thus winning two out of the three games to be played.

Rev. H. B. Mayo, while in Phoenix last Tuesday, was called on to unite in marriage Mr. David Care and Mrs. Grace Baird Young, of Congress.

Miss Reid, court stenographer, returned Tuesday from Solomenville. She was quite ill, and necessarily was compelled to give up her work for a time.

The Arizona Consolidated Stage and Livery company has bought out John Parker's line between Florence and Casa Grande, and the fare has been raised to $2.50.

C. G. Powell has sold his residence adjoining the hospital to the county for the sum of $500, and has bought the Lanou home on Main street, now occupied by Judge Doan.

Dr. Spongie and bride who were married in Tucson this week, are registered at the Florence Hotel. The doctor was lately in charge of the California Asylum for the Insane.

Rev. H. B. Mayo and family came in from Phoenix Tuesday and are now located in the parsonage. Mr. Mayo will occupy the pulpit of the Presbyterian church to-morrow morning and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Angulo and Mr. and Mrs. Will Whitlow left Thursday for Arivaca by way of Tucson, and expect to be gone a week or two. The gentlemen of the party have a cattle deal on hand in that vicinity.

Nine United States prisoners were brought in from Globe this week and lodged in the Federal jail. The November term of court promises to be a heavy one, and a large number will be in attendance, testing the capacity of our town to accommodate them.

Isaac Higgins, of Jamestown, N. Y., who is largely interested in the copper mines north of the headgate, arrived in Florence this week and has been looking over his property, with which he seems well pleased. Mr. Higgins is an old Comstock miner and made a fortune in the west.

Mr. Will Dodenhoff stepped high last night when the doctor informed him that it was a girl. Whether the little one came in honor of the arrival of its auntie from Germany or because Billy wanted a boy is not said, but any way there is a family of three where before there was but two.—[Phoenix Gazette, 12th.]

The young gentleman of Florence gave a return party to the married people last evening at Keating's hall, which was one of the most successful social events of the season. The music by the Ollivas orchestra was all that could be desired; the management was excellent and the refreshments delicious. It went to prove that Florence is alive in society as well as business matter.

Mr. W. A. Driscoll, of Los Angeles, general manager of the L. W. Blinn Lumber Co., came over from Casa Grande Thursday and left for Mineral Creek the following day in company with Fernando Maldonado, his Casa Grande agent. They evidently aim to secure their share of the business of that lively camp, and as they represent the pioneer lumber company of the territory, are entitled to a hearing. The advertisement of the company which appears in this issue shows that it does not intend to hide its light under a bushel.

Our community was shocked this morning by the death of Mrs. R. A. Irion which took place at her home on Eighth street. She had been in poor health for some time but no one had any idea that the end was so near. Mrs. Irion was a charming woman, loved and respected by all who knew her. She was a liberal patron of charities and all benevolent institutions. Dudley I. Craig, son of the deceased woman, is here, but her husband is at his ranch in Pinal county, to which place a courier has been dispatched. The funeral will be held at 3 o'clock to-morrow afternoon. Interment will be made in the Double Butte cemetery.—[Tempe News, 9th.]

A Visit to the Ray Officials.

W. Y. Price and C. D. Reppy, who were delegated by the citizens' meeting to visit the officials of the Ray mine and learn the intentions of the company regarding the projected railroad from that property, performed the duty imposed upon them last Saturday. They were cordially received by General Manager Alexander Hill and his able assistant, Mr. H. P. Winslow, who assured them that the matter of railroad building, except the narrow-gauge between the mines and the concentrating mill, some six or seven miles, was a matter to be determined in the future by the directors. The proposition to grant right of way over the county roads, made by the supervisors, Mr. Hill considered a liberal one, and he expressed himself as pleased with the spirit of the resolutions adopted by the public meeting, and he would be glad at any time to meet the people of Pinal county half way on any proposition for the advancement of its interests. He would lay the whole matter before the directors of the company, a number of whom were expected here from London in November. He had little doubt that when a railroad is built it would come to Florence, and from that point to either Casa Grande or Mesa. In the meantime the Ray company will build its narrow-gauge to a place where traction engines can be used. When it can be shown that the volume of business will warrant it, either the Southern Pacific or Santa Fe will build the road. Mr. Hill thought it would be advisable for all interested to collect data of amount of business the new railroad would obtain and submit the matter to the officials of the big trunk lines. One or the other would certainly see the advantage of securing the business of this great mining and agricultural section.

The meeting with the Ray officials was a very satisfactory one, and effectually disabused a previously formed opinion on the part of one of the committee at least that Tucson's influence was paramount. Let it be understood henceforth that the Ray Mines, Limited, are a Pinal county institution.

While some men were driving cattle from the round-up yesterday about four miles the other side of Chino Arvizu's ranch they discovered the dead body of a man lying about thirty feet from the old Picacho road. It was that of a gray-haired man with gray chin whiskers who had evidently been dead two or three months. Near the body was a suitcase, a mason's trowel, a pocket-book containing a letter addressed to Theo. Danham, and some other articles. Justice W. H. Benson went out to the place yesterday evening and held an inquest on the body. The coroner's jury returned a verdict that the body was that of an unknown Mexican, aged about 65 years, who came to his death about the last of July from natural causes.

A. B. Rich, of Los Angeles, died Wednesday morning in Phoenix of heart failure, brought on by acute stomach trouble. Mr. Rich was of the firm of Reuck & Rich, compilers of "Arizona and Its Resources."

Here from London.
[From the Tucson Star.]

C. L. Lance and Keith A. Daniel of London are guests at the New Orndorff. These gentlemen are members of the English company owning the Mammoth mine and are here on business connected with the property. They leave for Schultz and Mammoth this morning to inspect the mines and mill. While they are naturally non-committal, it is generally believed that their visit at this time is an indication of the early installation of an electric power plant to run the mill, hoists and tramway. The fuel bill for the mine now amounts to about $30,000 per year and the electric plant would soon pay for itself in the saving of the cost of fuel.

Benedict—Married life is the natural state of man. Married people are more thoroughly exempt from all the evils that beset mankind than are the unmarried. I defy anyone to produce a single instance to the contrary.
Echidna—But you do, do you? My dear air, you seem to forget that the divorce suit operates exclusively among the married.—Judge.

A Great English Statesman's Secret.
The secret of a celebrated English statesman's long life was his systematic way of eating. Every bite of food was chewed thirty times before swallowing. The result was he naturally enjoyed good health. Most men and women bolt their food, and eat things which were never intended to be eaten. They become constipated, have a bad complexion, lose flesh, are irritable and nervous, and the first thing they know they are "played out." It is gratifying to know that Hostetter's Bitters cures stomach troubles. It is a purely vegetable medicine that has stood the test of many years. It cures cases which seem to be hopeless. Sufferers from any disorder of stomach, liver or bowels should try it.

Summering on the Coast.

(Communicated.)
There is a good thing about the wandering Arizona; he knows when to go home while he still has enough to get home with. And though old Neptune roars ever so softly and the day waves and gentle swells beckon as enchantingly, one must daily no more in their soft embrace. Our party has taken in Santa Barbara and Ventura with pleasant results to themselves. The two cities have yet not been heard from. A dear old fatherly monk who shrugged his shoulders and spread his hands, palms upward, added to the interest of the inspection of the old mission at Santa Barbara. The old convent there is indeed worth seeing; it is beautiful, historical and interesting, with its garden and towers, the fountains and antiquities. One has an uncanny feeling when told you are standing over the bones of over four thousand buried in that convent garden, a catacomb on a modern scale. But even the solemnity of the thought could not keep down the hoarse spirit which claimed so much other admission in Arizona, our San Xavier.

The visit of inspection to the best sugar factory at Oxnard did not prove nearly so interesting to part of the tourists as did the old mission and the oil wells in the sea at Summerland. Now that is really wonderful—pumping up oil out of the sea, and brought to mind the fairy story, so dear to the days of our childhood, of the little old man who owned a salt mill in the bottom of the sea, and that's why the ocean is salty.

To the writer the favorite vehicle, par excellence, to ride in is a street car. But when you have a fine observation car, both gorgeous within and without, and a party of twelve, nine of whom are Arizonians, and are whirled about Los Angeles for two hours and a half, personally conducted, and shown all the beautiful sights, all for 25 cents per head, what greater joy could man or woman ask. Not being able to answer that question nothing more can be said about that trolley ride. The beauties and glories of Mount Lowe, Pasadena and Catalina Island were viewed by the critics and value placed thereon. For full information see Guide Book, page 52, section 4.

A month of this outing has been given to Santa Monica, South Beach, where when one wasn't dipping in the surf one was gadding up to Los Angeles. On one of these trips Mrs. J. Stowe was visited. She is comfortably domiciled on Olive street, well and content. James is learning telegraphy, while acting as night messenger, hoping to procure a position as operator. May warmest wishes for his success help him reach his goal and become what he is manfully striving to be, the support of his widowed mother. Mrs. H. D. Cassidy was found in her old home on Palm street, herself, mother and children all well.

But the ocean holds one by a charm all its own, and much of the time is spent on the beach. A few days of this time was enticed by having neighbors in W. E. Stone and family. The resemblance of Pinal county's District Attorney to Pinal county's editor when disporting in the water was striking—most striking.

That glittering green and silver water is still there; the sun still goes down in its cool waves with a slumber robe of crimson and gold, but one turns away to say, "After all, there is no place like home."
So adios, dear reader, till we meet.

Machetes in Paraguay.
Machetes are popular in Paraguay, as well as in Cuba. Two kinds are used there. One with a handle of wood and a blade of iron with a round end. The other has a horn handle and a steel blade with pointed end. The first is used for cutting weeds, the last for cutting small trees, twigs, bushes, herbs and grass, likewise for chipping wood and making handles and articles for agricultural purposes. They are all imported free of duty, none being made in Paraguay. These statements are made by Consul Griffin at Asuncion, who adds that since the United States will probably supply machetes to Cuba and Puerto Rico, it may be able to obtain a share of the Paraguayan trade as well.—Washington Star.

There are, it is claimed, 100,000,000 old-style copper pennies somewhere. Nobody knows what has become of them, except that once in a while a single specimen turns up in change. A few years ago 4,500,000 bronze two-cent pieces were set afloat. Three millions of them are still outstanding, but are never seen. A million of three-cent silver pieces are scattered over the United States, but it is very rarely that one comes across one of them. Of the 800,000 one-half-cent pieces not one has been returned to the government for coinage or is held by the treasury.

On the 10th of December, 1897, Rev. S. A. Donahoe, pastor M. E. Church, South Pt. Pleasant, W. Va., contracted a severe cold which was attended from the beginning by violent coughing. "After resorting to a number of so-called 'specifics,' usually kept in the house, to no purpose, I purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which acted like a charm. I most cheerfully recommend it to the public." For sale by Brockway's Pharmacy.

Pearl Hart Escapes from the Pima County Jail.

[From the Tucson Star, 13th.]
Early yesterday morning Pearl Hart, the woman stage robber, escaped from the county jail, and at this writing has not been captured. Pearl Hart was a prisoner of the Pinal county officers, but was taken from the Florence jail and brought to this city as the accommodation at the Pinal county jail are not suitable for women prisoners. Since her confinement here Sheriff Wakefield and his deputies have used every precaution for her safe keeping, and they naturally feel much chagrined over her escape.

Since her confinement in the Pima county jail Pearl Hart has occupied a room directly over the rear room of the county recorder's office. This room adjoins the small room containing the stairway leading up the tower of the building. A door opens from the small room on to the second floor of the court house at the head of the stairs, leading down to the main entrance. Between the rooms mentioned there is nothing but a lath and plaster partition. The door leading from the tower into the court house is generally locked, but on the night of the escape it apparently was not. It is evident that after everything was quiet some one entered the court house, walked up the stairway and entered the tower room through the unlocked door. It was the work of but a very few minutes to cut a hole through the wall into Pearl Hart's room. She held a sheet to catch the plaster that fell on her side. After the hole was cut through she put a table underneath, and placing a chair upon that, crawled through the hole. From the size of the aperture it is evident that Pearl Hart must have required considerable help in getting through. After joining her accomplices in the escape, it was only necessary to open the door and descend the stairway into the street. As there is no night watchman for the court house outside the jail, it was an easy matter to gain the street without detection.
