LOCAL NOTES.

Benson has a small-pox patient and is greatly excited in consequence.

Sam Baron will be home in a few days. Having too good a time at Frisco.

Assessor McCarty and Deputy Breakeridge are hard at work assessing city property.

Confusion reigns in Pima county, in consequence of the non-arrival of Judge Hoover to open court.

Tickets for Monday evening's entertainment at Scheffelin Hall can be purchased at Bourlains cigar store.

Don't forget the great festival under the auspices of the ladies of the Catholic church to take place on the 6th of October.

He voted for him for family reasons, one being named Winfield Scott Hancock, and the other Winfield Scott Williams.

The quartermaster at Fort Huachuca writes that he has no further need of carpenters, plasterers or other artisans. It would therefore be a journey for nothing to go to the fort in search of employment.

Lou Cooley, of the Santa Maria mining company is in town. He reports things booming in the mining centers along the Sonora valley, and discredits the recently reported wholesale slaughter of Americans near the Sierra Madre.

Con Cutler will take a trip to look after his mining industries in Sonora in a few days. He will be back in time to cast a vote for the Democratic candidates next November. There is no truth in the report that Con is going down to kick up a revolution.

Another Apache Victim.

The St. Louis Globe Democrat of a recent date has the following account of the death of another victim of Apache cruelty:

Col. A. G. Brackett, of the 3d Cavalry is a guest at the Southern Hotel. He was an intimate friend of Capt. Ferguson Walker, or of the 1st Regiment of Infantry, who died Friday night at the Planters' House. Yesterday the Colonel was asked the manner in which the Captain contracted the disease that led to his death.

Capt. Walker had been associated with Col. Brackett in Western campaigns against the Indians, and he describes him as a brave and fearless soldier. During the recent Apache troubles, Capt. Walker, with two companies of the 1st Regiment of Infantry, was ordered from Fort Grant to the San Carlos sub-agency. He started on the 10th day of July, and at night reached Cedar Springs, leaving the following morning for Fort Thomas, a distance of twenty-one miles. The weather was intensely warm, the thermometer registering 110 degs. in the shade at the fort. At that time Col. Brackett was at Fort Thomas. Several stragglers reached there on the 11th of July, and reported the condition of the suffering soldiers, who, not more than a mile from the fort, were sadly in want of water. Col. Brackett immediately sent a water wagon to the relief of the men, and in company with Capt. Frederick Van Vleet, started to investigate the condition of the soldiers.

"They were about three miles from the fort," continued the Colonel, "when we discovered them in a pitiable plight. We found many of the soldiers before we reached the main body, lying on the sand in the shade of the mesquite trees, suffering torments for want of water. Several were delirious. We filled the canteens, and finally got the men into Fort Thomas. A number of the soldiers were so badly used up that they never recovered from the effects of the march." Capt. Walker was one, and he apparently never rallied, for his sufferings increased until relieved by death last evening."

Col. Brackett added that he knew of many marches in warm weather, but none equal to the one referred to. The route was through a sandy territory, covered with cactus, and at no point could water be obtained. The soldiers started out with filled canteens, but their demand for water was so great that the supply was consumed shortly after the start for the fort.

Sonora Matters.

Thursday afternoon Col. J. D. Henderson and Rodman M. Price, Jr., the former from New York, and the latter from this city arrived from a trip to Sonora, and judging from the weather-beaten appearance of the parties, they must have had a hard, not to say eventful, one. They went via the classic shades of Calabasas to Magdalena, thence to the lovely Hermosillo, thence to the future San Francisco of Mexico—Guaymas. From here they went direct via Sauripa, Gavilana and Bis—to Trinidad, the center of the great Abasco and Hespera mining district, in the heart of the Sierra Madre. From there they examined the "Pais" to the Chihuahua line, returning via Ures and Magdalena. They had to endure the delights of the rainy season—high waters and storms, together with standing guard for Mr. Apache. They speak in glowing terms of the country, and the great mineral advantages it possesses. We understand that Col. Henderson enquired several mines and purchased one. They ridicule the reports of a revolution in the State of Sonora, and speak in the kindest terms of the generous treatment received from Governor Ortiz, and all officers they transacted business with.

WEEKLY MINING REVIEW.

This week's review can reveal nothing strange nor startling in the mining world. Everything pursues the even tenor of its way. The work of development in the young and partially untried mines is continued with vigor, and the number is daily augmented. The great producing mines are running along without visible change, the mills are all pounding away, bullion is being produced, and everything wears a cheerful aspect. There is hardly a doubt left now, but that the sinking of the combination shaft on Contention Hill will be commenced ere long. This will be a work of vast magnitude, and cannot fail to give a stimulus to all branches of mining industry in the district. Below we give the latest information from the working mines of the district:

T. M. & M. CO.

The west side has improved immensely within the past few weeks. Some of the richest ore ever extracted from a Tombstone mine, is now being taken out of the stopes in there. The two shafts are still continued, one of which will be used for ventilation and the other for hoisting purposes. The latter is now down to the third level, and a station is being cut out at that point. No. 1 incline in the Goodenough is still in ore, and looks very promising. They are still taking out manganese ore from the Lucky Cuss, which they hope to utilize as a flux at the smelter at Charleston. They have already shipped 137 tons, and hope to have the furnace ready to start by the latter part of this, or the beginning of next week.

HEAD CENTER.

The usual amount of ore is being extracted from this mine, principally between the first and third levels. The quality of the ore is improving, and gives every indication of turning out better as depth is attained. They are still at work straightening the shaft. No prospecting work is being done.

VIZINA.

Main crosscut westerly is now extended 349 feet in porphyry. The drift at 300 feet is now 164 feet from main shaft, and with in a few feet of the 400 foot level. It will make connection this week. They continue to ship the usual quantity of ore to the Boston mill.

CONTENTION.

The crosscuts on the 600 level are being pushed forward vigorously, and continue to improve. The mine is in excellent condition all through, and yields up the usual amount of ore. The sinking of the combination shaft jointly by this company and the Grand Central, may be set down as a certainty of the near future. All the details of the work are completed, and it only remains to select the exact location and get the necessary machinery on the ground when the work will commence.

OLD GUARD.

This promising mine is still booming. The work being done is mostly in the way of explorations. A crosscut is being driven across the 80-foot level, and already it closes twenty-five feet of vein matter, without yet encountering the hanging wall. The ledge matters, generally, low-grade ore, with occasionally streaks of high grade. The Board of Directors of this mine will meet soon, after which it is expected that it will be worked vigorously.

SEA SURGE.

Still drifting east from Shaft No. 2. Some very nice ore is being extracted and the prospects are flattering in the extreme.

IRONWELL.

The new double compartment working shaft is now down thirty-six feet in hard lime rock. About fifteen tons of ore is extracted daily from the stopes in the old works. There is no exploring being done at present. Huachuca water is now served at the mine, being conveyed there in an inch and a quarter pipe from the Huachuca Water Co's main.

LUCK SURGE.

They are still sinking on the three shafts. The west shaft has an immense body of ore, and is now about fifteen feet. The other shafts are still going through good ore bodies and give every indication of continuing.

EMPIRE.

Only one shaft has been at work on this mine for the past few days. The work is confined entirely to development, mostly on the 400 and 450 levels. The mine is looking very good, and some very high grade ore is being extracted.

TRANQUILITY.

The new hoisting works are now running along smoothly. The cage was put in a few days ago, and everything is in good shape. Taking out considerable ore between the 100 and 300 levels. The mine never looked better, and now that the hoisting machinery is in working order, it will be worked to its fullest capacity. Ten stamps of the Girard mill are still at work on second class Contention ore, and the other ten have been working on Randolph ore for the past few days.

LITTLE DEVIL.

Commenced to drift west on the ore body. The ore extremely rich and promising to disclose a large body when properly explored. The vein is going down nearly vertical. Drift following the foot-wall. When the drift is extended fifty feet will crosscut north to the hanging wall. The drift has been started from the shaft at a depth of seventy-five feet. Everything looking in excellent order. A whim will be placed in position for hoisting purposes early next week.

GRAND CENTRAL.

The crosscut on the 600 level is still being driven forward. The indications of ore are excellent and there is every probability that mineral will be struck in a few days. The stopes through the mine are looking well and the usual quantity of ore is being shipped to the mill.

EAGLE.

The main shaft is in a fine body of ore, not of a very high grade, but still of a fair quality. The quantity in sight is encouraging in the extreme, and gives hope that the Eagle will become one of the great mines of the district at no distant day.

HANDS OFF.

Winzo No. 2 near the main shaft is now down 110 feet, all the way in a solid body of ore. No. 3 winze is down thirty feet, with a drift running from it, in 63 feet. Winzo No. 4 down 70 feet, in a solid ore body.

Idea Caught on the Fly.

Several candidates for the favor of the Republican convention, have entered into combinations which our esteemed evening contemporary most heartily condemns. Positively, it is most difficult to determine which of the candidates is the thing to be avoided. Of course it is rather unfortunate for those who are on the outside, but most delightfully pleasant for the fellows in the ring. Each individual has a tangible idea that he would like to win, and it is natural that he should cut into any sort of combination that would lead to the realization of his ambition, without much thought as to who that combination might cunch. There is but one remedy, and that lies in making another and stronger combination. Better take the remedy, Dunbar.

A Tucson Republican contemporary suggests that Lewis W. Carr cannot be elected to the office of Sheriff of Cochise county, because he is too honest. Such an opinion, coming from the leading Republican journal of Arizona, is characteristic of the tenets of the party it advocates, in feeling directly and unreservedly towards the candidacy of dishonest men. Well, dishonesty may be at a premium, but the Democracy of Cochise have camped on the other side of the fence, and propose to "kick against the pricks."

Tom Fitch is trying to gobble the Grand Central mine, and has found the real grand catch in it, at all events, in the Territorial Prison. Tom is a versatile genius in his way, and has mingled during his skyrocket career, in company of all grades and fashions, but that he would finally look back with conviction, has probably never entered the imagination. If even the most sanguine of his friends. This last act caps the climax of our curiosity about him, and we are curious no longer. There is nothing he may try to do, that will hereafter strike us as extraordinary in its nature, or at all unusual. The Grand Central is safe enough, and, of course, Tom's suit is but in the nature of a quack advertisement, but that is nothing. The Arabian Night idea, and the illuminated cheek of the proposition, are what fills the mind of an ordinary being with a sense of littleness and awe. We had formed an opinion that the St. Joaquin oil fellow could get up sensational advertisements, but he can no more be compared to Tom Fitch, than a Mexican clown can to Dan Rice.

Judge Porter has taken the stump, in defense of himself and against the present administration. It is a split stump, and he is bound to get his foot in it.

The Porter boom is an anti-administration blunder, badly pricked by a federal pin in the hands of Zabriskie.

It is currently reported that yellow fever has broken out in the Territorial Prison, owing to the quantity of corruption scattered all over that institution. We recommend that the editor of the Yuma Sentinel be employed as physician.

The drink of Republican coin is merrily sounding on the ear of Blackburn's Senate speech. It is a mere question of drinks as to which candidate receives the endorsement of the Republican convention.

When fireman meets fireman, then comes the tug of war.

Our evening contemporary alludes to some man with a badge. We are acquainted with but one individual in the county who wears one, and it adds very much to his appearance. He carries it on a wagger.

Republican combinations are still flourishing, and, following the advice of the EDITORIAL, counter arrangements are springing into life. From present appearances, it is safe to assert that the country will be badly enched.

An honest man is the noblest work of God, but, according to our Republican contemporary, it is only the work of the devil that should be patrolled by the people.

Poor Carr! How unfortunate it is that he is honest. According to the Republican press, the grave misfortune that rests with him, in a life of probity, cannot help but militate against his political success. Better go sin a little, Carr, and become popular.

A letter was received to-day at the Editorial office, signed as what support Tombstone might afford a Massachusetts schoolmaster. We have no interest in the least. A sober and industrious one might be able to support himself, with an occasional raid on the faro games, but an imberbeate one would be in a bad fix for support, as there are no lamp posts in the city.

Tombstone is shortly to be furnished with gas—by the Republican convention.

Would-be District Attorney Williams had a good time kissing all his female relatives. It is lucky for him that his wife is a long way off. The votes of his relatives will be about all he will receive, although his nomination is secure enough.

The war-horse of the Huachuca has not yet thrown up his tail, but is breathing easy, and his skin is as loose as a drum. He had never run a heat. They are trying to hobble him, but his heels are too lively for safety. His old Virginia blood, crossed with his army record, makes a tough strain, and he is bound to run, even if he is disabled.

A new drink can be found at the Senate saloon, called "the corruption licker."

What has become of Dibble, the manipulator? Is he disgusted, or working in the dark? If the latter, those candidates who think they have a dead thing had better look out.

Dibble is the Tom Fitch of Cochise county.

The Senate saloon is doing a splendid business in the patronage of Republican candidates. Some of the most persistent looking up against Blackburn's hat are already troubled with the colic, and two or three of them have rubbed all the buttons off their vests. Most of them will be skinned alive before the campaign is ended.

At-his-on he can carry every ward in the city. Unless his works hard there is one ward that will surely get away with him.

Tom Fitch is retained, as a stump speaker, in behalf of the Republican party of California. It would be well for the Democrats, if he would make a Republican speech or two in Cochise county. His present Grand Central reputation would give the party a wonderful boost.

Gardiner Moves Again.

The Los Angeles Herald of a recent date has the following concerning the great newspaper starter of the Pacific Coast: "Mr. Thomas Gardiner, an accomplished gentleman, who is known from Kansas City to Tombstone, and from Los Angeles to Sacramento, publishes the following in the last issue of his paper in this city:

The Los Angeles Evening Telegram will be removed immediately to Portland, Oregon, where it will be continued under the name of the Portland Evening Telegram. To-day's issue will therefore be the last publication here. Money for the unexpired term of subscriptions and advertisements will be returned to the parties on calling at the business office, 134 Main street, where all bills against the Telegram will be paid.

T. H. Burns, a well known mining man arrived in this city Wednesday, from Gavilan, Sonora. He reports the people in that section somewhat demoralized by the frequent Apache raids.

The Precinct Officers.

The gentlemen nominated last Saturday for precinct officers, are in every way worthy of the suffrages of Democrats. In fact the convention could hardly improve its work in that particular. The nominees are known to be men of sterling character, and peculiarly adapted to discharge the duties which they have been breveted by the Democrats of this city. Judge Felzer was County Judge of Trinity county, California, for four years. The court met every six months and he never missed a day. His studious attention to his duties can be perceived here daily. Both the bar and the public recognize in him a sensible presiding justice. His knowledge of law is extensive, and his honesty is admitted by all. Mr. Smyth, the other candidate for Justice, is a hard working honest miner. He is a well educated, intelligent man, who will take to his new position a wealth of common sense, that will be of vast more importance to the community than the profound knowledge of Kent and Blackstone. The candidates for constables, James Kenney and Isaac Roberts are peculiarly fitted to discharge the duties of that inconspicuous but important office. Mr. Kenney is at present a member of the police force, and is a careful, courageous and efficient officer. Every one knows him to be fearless in the discharge of his duty, courteous in his treatment of everybody, and possessed of more than ordinary ability and intelligence. Ike Roberts fills the office at present, that he aspires to for another term, and he will undoubtedly be elected. He has discharged the duties of the office promptly and well, and all who have transacted business with him, will vote to retain him in the office for another term. The local ticket is a strong one and will be elected without a doubt. It merits the approval of every Democrat and should receive a hearty, earnest support.

Contention—A Romantic Wedding—General Notes.

CONTENTION, Sept. 19, 1882.

EDITOR EPITAPH.—Thinking a line or two from our town would be acceptable and interesting to some of your many readers, I drop you this. The mills are all working steadily and yielding the usual amount of bullion. Business is also about as usual.

We had quite a romantic wedding in our town last night, the parties to the contract being Mr. Ed. S. Armstrong and Miss Sarah Spence. They were youthful admirers in Old Ireland twelve years ago, when Edward left for America. Miss Spence arrived in Contention three days ago, and so last night, after twelve long years the happy couple were made one by our genial Judge, J. B. Smith. Pete Rafferty and Chas. H. Taylor acted as managers during the evening and by their untiring efforts made things pass pleasantly to all present. About nine o'clock Mr. Armstrong's friends, headed by the music marched to his residence and serenaded them. The boys were all invited inside and after music and drinking to the health of the bride departed. The happy pair were the recipients of many useful presents.

Our ticket as it stands is well liked on the river and will be elected by a large majority if the river sentiment can be taken as a criterion. NEMUS.

Death of Judge Lindley.

Judge Charles Lindley, a well known and respected citizen of this Territory, died between nine and ten o'clock last Tuesday at the residence of Major Earle, on Bruce street. Judge Lindley was one of the best known men on the coast, and was at one time a prominent factor in public affairs in California. He was one of the codifiers of the compiled laws of California, to which work he contributed so much mental labor that his health broke down and he never fully recovered. In his younger and more vigorous days, he was considered one of the ablest members of the bar in California, but for several years back he was forced to abandon practice in consequence of ill health. He was engaged in mining enterprises in the vicinity of Nogales, Sonora, for some time back, and 'tis reported that he was the owner of some very good properties there. He had not been confined to his room for more than a week, and the announcement of his death will shock many old friends. He was the father-in-law of the late M. M. Correll, Mexican Consul at this place, and those who knew him best assert that the judge never fully recovered from the shock occasioned by the death of his beloved and respected son-in-law. His son is on the way here from California, and until his arrival there will be no arrangements for the funeral made.

Meeting of the Democratic County Committee.

The newly elected County Committee of the Democratic party met at the Court House on Sunday afternoon. Nearly all the members were present. An informal discussion took place as to the conduct of the campaign, and the views expressed by the members were of the most hopeful nature as to the result of the coming election. The only business transacted was the election of officers, which resulted as follows: Chairman, G. G. Berry; Secretary, Henry Quigley; Treasurer, Mr. J. P. Johnson.

After instructing the chairman to call the committee together whenever he considered it necessary, the meeting adjourned.

It Was Meen on the Part of the Republic.

It was meen on the part of the Republic to give Williams's racket away. We knew it long ago but kept a discreet silence. Why it isn't more than a few weeks ago since he proved to the writer he (Williams) was a lineal descendant of Brian Boru. Since then we have heard him prove that he was a near relation of Oliver Cromwell, Cortes, Montezuma, Pocahontas, Queen Elizabeth, George Washington, Scipio Africanus, Denis Kearney, Ben Butler, St. Patrick, John Knox, Robert Emmet, Charles Sumner, Mickey Free, Uriah Heep, Arabi Pasha, Arabi Bey and Arrah be Jappers. He also proved that his wife was a relative to all the Moonons in the United States.
