

DEFENSE AFTER THE PINKERTONS

Haywood's Lawyers Endeavor to Show Hands of Detectives in the Bradley Affair.

ANOTHER DIABOLICAL PLOT IS REVEALED

Orchard Had Planned to Blow Up Boarding House with 150 Non-union Miners—He Has Two More Days on Stand.

By Associated Press.

BOISE, Idaho, June 11.—The attack of the Haywood defense on the testimony of Harry Orchard goes on unremittingly and the witness will probably be continued on the stand two full days longer.

Orchard withstands the strain with remarkable fortitude and at the end of six days shows no indications of mental or physical flagging. This day begun with the story of the dynamiting of Fred Bradley in San Francisco, and the defense made a long and determined effort to expose several features of it to doubt and to vitiate it all by revealing the hand of the Pinkertons.

Then the play went back to Denver for the winter of 1904 and the spring that followed and there was an extended effort to show that Orchard had practically no communication with the leaders of the association, that he had received no pay for the Bradley crime or anything else, and that with Adams, in a period of extreme poverty extending several months he was reduced to the necessity of stealing from the Globeville stockyards that he might have food.

Says He Stole Sheep

Orchard to a laughing courtroom seriously confessed that he stole sheep, but stoutly denied that it was because of that. He insisted that all through the supposedly hard winter and spring he continued to draw money from Pettibone through Adams and explained that if he did not see the Federation leaders often, it was because he was trying to avoid capture for previous crimes.

The Globeville inquiry developed more shocking crimes. There was a diabolical plot—Orchard swore it was inspired by Max Malich, the defense claimed Orchard was its author—to dynamite the boarding house where 150 non-union men lived, and in preparation for the murder, Orchard, Adams and a man named Joe Mahalich broke into two magazines and stole 600 pounds of dynamite which they lugged home at night and buried in the cellar. The crime was abandoned, Orchard said, because Haywood intervened and forbade him to have anything to do with it.

Draw Strike Relief

Carrying out the lines of the testimony tending to show that Orchard frequently was without funds, the defense showed that from late in 1903 until the middle of 1904 Orchard continually drew strike relief at Cripple Creek and then dramatically invited Orchard to explain his inconsistency to the jury. Orchard replied that Haywood, Moyer, Parker and Davis all advised him to continue to draw relief because if he displayed money it would excite suspicion.

The examination next covered the early attempt on the life of Governor Peabody, the manufacture of bombs to kill him, and the plots against Judges Gabbert and Goddard, with an effort everywhere to lighten and cast doubt on the testimony of the witness.

Orchard told the dramatic story of the first attempt to assassinate Peabody, an early morning drive through the snow to place the bomb, the expectant wait for the victim, who was spared by the unexpected appearance of two coal wagons that were coming from an alley and driven across the trigger strap at the moment Peabody was crossing the mine field.

Mrs. Adams Laughs

Orchard brought Mrs. Steve Adams into play today. He said that while he and Adams were watching Judge Goddard's house Mrs. Adams went with them a couple of times as a blind to divert suspicion. Mrs. Adams, who had a seat among the witnesses, laughed when Orchard told the incident.

Orchard, who confesses that he hesitated at no great crime and took a hundred desperate chances in those he committed, made an interesting contribution to psychological study when he called himself a coward. He said he was too cowardly to kill Judge Gabbert openly and he regarded all his acts as cowardly.

In five minutes today Orchard showed more emotion than any time since he began his testimony. It was when the defense in a roughshod digression asked him if he had not deserted his Cripple Creek wife, stripping her of every nickel she had and leaving her in poverty that compelled the sale of her wash tub to buy bread. Orchard's lips quivered with tears when he falteringly denied that he had done so and said that the Federation leaders had promised to care for her in his absence.

SMALL DEPOSITORS LOSE WHEN OURAY BANK BUSTS

By Associated Press.

OURAY, Colo., June 11.—The Bank of Ouray closed its doors today. The liabilities are $100,000, the creditors being mainly small depositors. The assets are not stated but are said to be not equal to the liabilities.

The failure was precipitated by a run on the bank in which the depositors withdrew about a quarter of a million. The bank is owned by George Hulbert, who is the president, and Judge Theron Stevens.

FRESNO TAX COLLECTOR CONFESSES TO GUILT

By Associated Press.

FRESNO, Cal., June 11.—Wesley M. Walden, deputy tax collector, was arrested tonight on charges of embezzlement and falsifying public records. Walden is prominent in social fraternities and his arrest caused a sensation.

PULAJANE CHIEF AT LAST CAUGHT

Scouts Capture Head Men of Filipino Rebels—Troops to Be Removed

By Associated Press.

MANILA, P. I., June 12.—Faustino Ablen, head chief of the Pulajanes on the island of Leyte, was wounded and captured yesterday by Lieutenant Jones with a detachment of eight infantrymen and Philippine scouts. Under Chiefs Udarice, Rota and Lucia were also captured. The military and civil authorities declare that the capture of these chiefs ends Pulajanism on the island.

For five months fourteen columns of troops with scouts and constabulary have been campaigning around the hiding place of the Pulajane leaders. The wife and family of Ablen were captured May 25.

It will now be possible to remove the troops from Leyte, on which island the campaign against the Pulajanes began in June, 1906.

The death of Otoy, head chief of the Pulajanes on the island of Samar, April 26, has been reported by bandits captured yesterday by the Santa Rita constabulary.

FLAGMAN FAILS TO GIVE SIGNAL

Engines Collide Head-on Near Santa Cruz and Two Are Killed on S. P.

By Associated Press.

SANTA CRUZ, Cal., June 11.—A disastrous accident occurred this morning about seven miles from Santa Cruz on the Big Tree line of the Southern Pacific. James Forester, engineer, and Charles Capelli, both employees of the Southern Pacific, met death in a head-on collision between two engines, one on the narrow gauge and the other on the broad gauge. George Nicholson, brakeman, Fireman McIvoil and an unknown Japanese were seriously injured, while about fourteen Japanese had broken bones and cuts about body and face.

The accident is said to be due to the carelessness of Jesse Mann, the flagman, who failed to give signals. The collision occurred on a curve and both engines were badly damaged. Both were going at a high rate of speed.

CONVICTION FOR INHUMAN UNCLE

Cager Edwards Is Found Guilty of Ruining His Thirteen-Year-Old Niece.

ONLY A SINGLE BALLOT WAS TAKEN BY THE JURY

Most Tragical Trial Ever Held in Gila County—To Be Sentenced Tomorrow and Maximum Penalty Is Expected.

After one of the most tragical and sickening trials ever held in Arizona, Cager Edwards was found guilty of rape on the first ballot taken by the jury yesterday afternoon and tomorrow morning he will be sentenced by Judge Nave to the penitentiary. The jury was given the case shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon and retired to the jury room. In a few minutes the jurors reappeared and were taken to lunch. One ballot had been taken without any discussion and every vote was marked "guilty." The court announced that sentence would be passed tomorrow morning and the general belief is that Edwards will receive the maximum penalty—life imprisonment.

There has never been a trial in this county that could equal this one and the few who were present during its progress, especially on Monday afternoon, hope never to be compelled to attend a similar one. The spectacle of a 13-year-old child about to become a mother, on the stand, accusing her mother's brother and only near male relative—in fact, her natural guardian and protector—of her shame, with every word she uttered accompanied by suffering, was a tragedy that shocked and horrified even those who knew before-hand of the testimony that was coming.

Edwards on Stand

The defense took an unexpected turn yesterday morning when Edwards was placed on the stand in his own behalf and under cross examination he admitted that he had denied his guilt before he had been accused. His story did not impress the jury. Although twenty-five or more witnesses had been summoned by the defense, only four were placed on the stand yesterday, all of them to prove the good character of the defendant after an unsuccessful attempt to impeach the testimony of the girl witness by reading the transcript of her evidence at the preliminary hearing, which only strengthened the case of the territory. The character witnesses were D. Brown, W. H. McIntyre, Luther Jackson and William J. Feagles.

When the taking of testimony was concluded Assistant District Attorney Henry opened for the prosecution and was followed by Attorney French for the defense. District Attorney Stone-man closed and after instructions from the court the jury retired. Foreman S. M. Yoeman submitted the verdict when court reconvened for the afternoon session and the defense had the jury polled, after which they were discharged from further service during the present term, this being the last criminal case on the calendar.

Both Are Mothers

Ludie Carter, the girl who on Monday afternoon testified against Edwards, gave birth to a girl baby yesterday morning at 1:30 o'clock. Her twin sister Lulu, another victim of her inhuman uncle, gave birth to a child several days previously. Both have been cared for by the county since last February.

The grand jury which indicted Cager Edwards last February also found a true bill against his cousin, Jerome Edwards, which has been kept on secret file. The latter made his escape before being arrested, going to New Mexico. An unsuccessful attempt was made to apprehend him, but he made his way to Mexico, where he now is. There is still another indictment against Cager Edwards, but it is not likely that he will ever be tried on it.

SOLOMONVILLE WEDDING BELLS

Solomon-Weinberger Nuptials Important Social Event in Gila Valley

Special to the Silver Belt.

SOLOMONVILLE, Ariz., June 11.—The little town of Solomonville is in festive array today on account of the Solomon-Weinberger nuptials, which took place this morning. By reason of the bride having lived here all her life, the event was of more than ordinary interest to the townspeople and the company which witnessed the ceremony included practically all of the American families of this vicinity.

Last evening Mr. and Mrs. Solomon gave a dinner in honor of the approaching marriage to the relatives and friends of the family, including the out-of-town visitors. At this elaborate course dinner wine and champagne graced the board and the concluding hour was enlivened with many a jest and toast inspired by the occasion. It was a most happy and felicitous event and the dinner had been in progress for fully three hours before the last toast was drunk.

The wedding ceremony took place this morning promptly at 8 o'clock. Rabbi Martin Zielonka of El Paso conducted the beautiful Jewish ceremony, which includes the burning candles, the tasting of wine and the ring of pure gold—all symbolic of the obligations assumed.

The bride entered the parlor leaning upon the arm of her father, while the bridegroom escorted the mother, Mrs. Solomon. The bride's maids were Miss Clara Ferrin of Tucson and Miss Hazel Hostetter of Hermosillo, Mexico. Little Ruth Goldberg carried the ring upon a saucer. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Ph. Freudenthal.

At the conclusion of the ceremony and the profuse congratulations, the wedding breakfast was served and the party took carriages for the railway station. The deluge of rice and footwear was almost overwhelming, while every piece of baggage was appropriately and unmistakably labeled. Mr. and Mrs. Weinberger were extremely reticent as to their destination, but it is certain that the journey will extend at least as far as Bowie and doubtless much farther.

Five married lives have had a more auspicious beginning than this one. The bride, Miss Blanche Solomon, is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Solomon, the pioneer family of this section, and is universally loved and admired for her admirable graces of womanhood. Mr. Jacob Weinberger, the groom, is a lawyer of Globe who has impressed his acquaintances here as being a pleasant and capable young man. A great number of valuable presents and unlimited sentiments of well-wishing attested the existence of a concourse of friends.

WILL REPUDIATE HIS CONFESSION

Steve Adams Will Not Testify Against Haywood in the Trial at Boise, Idaho.

FEDERATION CONVENTION HEARS FROM HAYWOOD

Says Orchard Is Greatest Liar of the Century—Will Take Stand Himself—Will Vote on Quitting the I. W. W.

By Associated Press.

DENVER, Colo., June 11.—Steve Adams will not testify for the prosecution in the Haywood case. This was the positive declaration of Acting Secretary Kirwan of the Western Federation of Miners to the convention today of the Federation, when the leader, who returned from Boise last night, assured the delegates that Haywood's lawyers have an assurance from Adams that he will repudiate his "confession" if placed on the stand by the prosecution.

Kirwan also brought the following message to the convention from Haywood: "Harry Orchard is the greatest liar of the Twentieth century, as every man he implicated in his confession stands ready to testify. I am determined to take the stand and show where he lied. There will be nothing to the case but an acquittal. A hung jury will not do. I demand a complete vindication."

Free in Six Weeks

"If your convention had been six weeks later I would be with you, for by that time I will be a free man." The convention spent practically the entire day on the report of the committee on credentials. Kirwan announced that he had put the entire funds of the federation under safety bonds to protect the federation from loss by suits and otherwise.

One of the resolutions which will be introduced at a later date is for the proposition to sever all connection with the Industrial Workers of the World. Reports of officers will be submitted tomorrow and a vote will probably be reached on the proposition to hold open sessions.

All Delegates Seated

DENVER, Colo., June 11.—The convention of the Western Federation of Miners today adopted the report of the committee on credentials and the delegates were seated. There were no contests.

DRAMATIC SCENE IN SCHMITZ TRIAL

Abe Ruef Suddenly Placed on Stand by Heney to Rebut Mayor's Testimony.

QUESTION UNANSWERED WHEN COURT ADJOURNS

Heney Asks Ruef if He Divided with Mayor and Defense Objects—Question Involves Main Issue of the Case.

By Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 11.—No serial story editor ever cut a tale at a more tantalizing point than that selected by circumstances this afternoon for the closing of Mayor Schmitz's extortion trial for the day. The prosecution had maneuvered an eleventh hour sensation by calling Ruef to the stand in rebuttal to contradict denials made by the mayor on the witness stand earlier in the day, and the fallen boss had opened his lips to answer the question: "Did you pay half of this extortion money to Schmitz?" when the defense launched an objection whose determination was still in doubt when the overnight adjournment was taken.

Former Judge Campbell, senior counsel for the defense, called Schmitz to testify in his own behalf as the second witness of the day. The mayor mounted the witness stand shortly before 11 o'clock and occupied it more than an hour, during a considerable portion of which opposing counsel wrangled over the right of the prosecution to ask the mayor whether Ruef divided with him any fees alleged to have been paid him for protection by French restaurant keepers.

Anxious to Talk

The mayor himself exhibited eagerness to waive the technicalities of law and answer squarely the issue. This he did again and again by abrupt unqualified denials after Campbell had withdrawn the instructions to his client not to answer at all.

Judge Dunne warned the mayor's counsel not to give such instructions, but Campbell, coaching his retort in the most courteous language, said he would disregard the mandate of the court, even if it led to a sentence for contempt. Such a contingency was avoided, however, largely through the seeming eagerness of the mayor to give Heney an answer for every question put. The defense, whose day this was for the introduction of evidence, called only four witnesses and the direct examination of each went to the establishment of two points only.

What They Tried to Prove

First, to overthrow the testimony of former Police Commissioner Reagan that the mayor had attempted to use him as a holdup tool to force French restaurant men to "come through" with protection money to Ruef.

Second, to prove that the holding up of French restaurant licenses was the result of a labor union plot to ruin their business because they or some of them had refused to yield complete obedience to the mandates of unionism.

A few minutes before 3 o'clock the defense announced that it rested.

The prosecution, after a fruitless wait of nearly a half hour for a missing witness who was desired, called Ruef, the mayor's former political partner, who had been brought by two guards from the prison house on Fillmore street and taken to the chambers by a back way, so that the big crowd in the synagogue was ignorant of the prosecution's coup until it was sprung.

Ruef, pale and composed, wearing an overcoat and carrying his hat, entered at the back of the altar and made his way around the crowded counsel table to the clerk's desk, where he took the oath. Then he slipped out of his topcoat, laid it with his hat on the altar floor, and climbed up into the witness chair, the cynosure of a thousand stares.

"Don't answer any questions, please, until the defense has an opportunity to object," cautioned Campbell.

"Mr. Ruef," asked Heney without hesitation, "in July, 1905, in the house at No. 2849 Fillmore street, the home at that time of Mayor Schmitz, did you give Mayor Schmitz $2,500?"

Had Divided with Mayor

The prosecution alleges that Ruef divided evenly with the mayor the moneys paid him by restaurateurs and that the first installment paid by them was $5,000.

To the question Mr. Campbell interposed an objection whose argument was still in progress when adjournment was taken at 4:30. He fought hard for an adjournment, pleading that he wished to submit several other authorities.

Heney wanted an immediate decision overruling the objection and promised to finish the examination of Ruef inside of ten minutes if allowed to proceed. The defense in objecting claimed it dealt not proper rebuttal because it dealt with nothing that had been asked of the mayor in direct examination and the object of rebuttal was to overthrow or discount the mayor's answers. Heney claimed the question could not be more pertinent or proper than the one put to Ruef, because it tended directly to establish the main issue of the case, namely: Did the mayor help to extort money from French restaurateurs? The defense finally won the plea for adjournment until morning, when the court will rule.

SIX MIDSHIPMEN LOST WITH BOAT

Launch from Battleship Minnesota Thought to Have Swamped in Hampton Roads

WERE RETURNING FROM JAMESTOWN EXPOSITION

Secretary of Navy Metcalf and Party Reported to Be Missing—Were Due in Norfolk Early Last Evening.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The loss of six bright young midshipmen from the naval academy at Annapolis and a lieutenant and five enlisted men attached to the battleship Minnesota was reported to the navy department in a dispatch from Rear Admiral Evans, in command of the fleet at Hampton Roads, which says:

"Minnesota's boat after going to the exposition last night is still missing and grave fears are entertained that she was run down and sunk. She had a crew of five and six passengers. Midshipmen Field, Stevenson, Holden, Ulrich and Murfin and Lieutenant Randall. A search has been made without success. A ditty boy belonging to the crew of the Minnesota's missing launch has been picked up near the beach and I am forced to conclude that the launch with all on board is lost. I have ordered a board of investigation. The steamer was last seen at the exposition pier about midnight last night."

List of Missing

The missing men are:
LIEUTENANT RANDALL, FRANK P. HOLCOMB, Delaware.
HENRY C. MURFIN, Jr., Ohio.
PHILIP P. FIELD, Ohio.
WALTER C. ULRICH, Wisconsin.
W. H. STEVENSON, North Carolina.
HERBERT L. HOLDEN, Wisconsin.
R. H. DODSON, seaman.
H. L. DORNE, ordinary seaman.
F. R. PLUMBER, ordinary seaman.
G. W. WESTPHAL, fireman, first class.

JESSE COON, coal passer.
Acting Secretary of the Navy Newberry tonight sent telegrams to relatives of Lieutenant Randall and others notifying them of the disappearance of the Minnesota's boat.

The conclusion reached at the navy department is that either on account of the lateness of the hour of the return trip of the Minnesota's launch in its haste was driven hard into the heavy sea that prevailed in Hampton Roads last night, or that the little boat had been run down by one of the giant tramp steamers that make use of the roads as a refuge in time of storm.

The secretary's party left here at 8 a. m. and were due to return here at 6 p. m. At a late hour tonight they have not been heard from and if no advices are received by daylight the naval tug Potomac will proceed up the James river to ascertain the cause of delay.

GERMANY NOTES JAP SITUATION

Thinks Japan Laying Foundation for Long Period of Ill Will Toward Us

By Associated Press.

BERLIN, June 11.—The attention of the foreign office and diplomatic corps has suddenly been drawn to the relations between the United States and Japan by the long Tokio and Washington dispatches published in the newspapers today. Officials of the Japanese embassy are wholly reserved upon the subject, the foreign office has no opinion to express and the prevailing view at the embassy appears to be that successive incidents are laying a foundation for a long period of ill will on the part of Japan against the United States. Roosevelt is in a difficult position and the constitutional difficulties in the way of intervention in local affairs in California seem to be clearly recognized, yet it is hoped the United States will find a way to persuade the people of San Francisco not to provoke the Japanese. Comments of German newspapers thus far have been in sympathy with the United States.
