"Early rising is a mistake," declares a prominent physician. That is one mistake the average small boy is doing his best to avoid.

Whether they have chairs or benches in the house of representatives, a good many congressmen will insist on riding their hobbies as usual.

With the second Thaw trial rapidly approaching, one cannot help wondering whether Evelyn has had a few new pictures taken for the occasion.

The only objection to holding the big political conventions in Chicago next year is that the town will be baseball mad again just about that time.

Predicting war between the United States and Japan is one sport to which no admission fee is charged, and which is not interfered with by bad weather.

While scientists are worrying over earthquakes that cannot be located, the rest of humanity is thankful that no long casualty list makes its appearance.

Brass bands in Baltimore last week earned their money by wearing "Maryland, My Maryland," to a fizzle and occasionally taking a fall out of "Dixie."

"It is the duty of women to be good looking," avers an exchange. We have seen some women who must regard that as the hardest duty that ever fell to their lot.

An esteemed contemporary says, "It is only a fool who knows not when to let go." But the one who feels like a fool is he who knows when to let go and can't.

At Akron, Ohio, two college football teams played a game without killing or injuring a single player. Evidently the milkops are no longer barred from the game.

Explorer Leffingwell says it took him thirty-five days to mail a letter in the Arctic regions. That's only a bit worse than the experience of some men right in this town.

The next presidential campaign is coming nearer every day, and still democratic candidates are as scarce as—as well, as scarce as bears in the Louisiana canebrakes.

The Indianapolis woman who accuses her mother of having alienated her husband's affections has placed the mother-in-law joke in a new light and given it a new lease of life.

A St. Louis barber has been arrested for shaving a man on Sunday. He should be severely dealt with for it is just such men who give a town a reputation for wickedness.

The discovery that King Pharaoh suffered from toothache is not likely to arouse much sympathy for the old fellow at this late day. Too many of us are having troubles of our own.

The one hundredth anniversary of a wedding was celebrated in Hungary recently with both contracting parties present. There ought to be no question about that woman's ability to cook.

A Connecticut postmaster has thrown up his job because the receipts amounted to only 15 cents a day. He might have boomed the business by occasionally advertising a bargain sale of shelf-worn stamps.

Someone has discovered that nine thousand duplicate keys to Independence hall exist in Chicago. Now if they were duplicate keys to the county jail the story would start Chicago people to worrying.

The Topeka State Capital thinks if Washington goes "dry" there will be great difficulty in keeping a quorum in congress. Surely a Kansas editor ought to know that there are plenty of ways to keep congress from going dry.

FIFTEEN CENTS IS NOW OFFERED BY LARGE CONSUMERS OF COPPER

Parties Who Refused to Buy at 12 Cents are Anxious to Secure the Metal at 15--Surplus Accumulation of Phelps Dodge Co. is Entirely Gone

NEW YORK, November 5.—A member of the firm of Phelps Dodge & Co., large copper dealers, says: "Export purchases have been enormous since last Friday and our surplus accumulation of the past four months is gone. We are selling copper for delivery no earlier than December. Domestic consumers who refused to take copper from us at 12 cents a pound are now offering 15 cents."

Stronger conditions prevail in every branch of the domestic copper market and business has been done at 15 cents. It is also stated in reliable quarters that 15 cents has been turned down by at least one seller.

Notwithstanding the closing London cables yesterday were lower than the opening prices, some of the largest houses bought yesterday afternoon at nearly the equivalent of 15 cents.

Foreign buyers and speculators have taken the lead in the recent buying movement and purchases for export have been enormous. It now appears that the accumulation of copper which was responsible for much of the market depression lately is no longer a serious menace to values, owing to the rapidity with which it is disappearing from sight.

The larger American users of copper have not become as yet factors among the copper buying element, although some of them, including the American Brass company made some purchases last week as low as 12 cents. Others are credited with still working off some of their high priced metal.

In the trade it is stated that the United Metals Selling company has worked off much of its accumulated stocks, while the other prominent selling interests have disposed of practically all of their surplus. The United Metals company is understood to have sold last week about 30,000,000 pounds at 12 cents flat. With 17,000,000 pounds sold on Monday in addition to last week's enormous total, the Selling company has sold at least 100,000,000 pounds of copper since October 1.

The Chinese inquiry, which is considered legitimate, has resulted in sales for future shipment of approximately 15,000,000 pounds and there is still a demand, through commission houses, for large amounts. Phelps, Dodge & Co. are believed to have sold considerable copper for shipment to the Orient and this will appear in the exports during the next few weeks.

"It was the Chinaman who started the advance," said another copper man. "The Chinese were the clever men who knew when the price had reached rock bottom. Last Thursday they entered the market and altogether 20,000,000 pounds have since been taken by them. I know, too, that it is for speculative purposes more than for trade that they are buying the metal. They have done it before. If copper goes to a high enough figure they'll resell. If not, they'll turn it into currency."

A Boston dispatch says: President C. S. Smith of the Old Dominion company, who returned this morning from New York, where he looked into the copper situation, says:

"The copper accumulation has been practically cleaned up and copper is now being sold for November and December delivery at 14 to 15 cents. I know of a bid of 14 1/2 cents which was turned down for a substantial block of the metal. I think some of the leading American consumers were a little slow in getting in their orders and have yet to fill their requirements.

"The distinct improvement in the metal situation may have an important bearing upon properties resuming operations."

THE PARENT OF PANICS

The parent of panics is fear. The timid and selfish depositor frightened by the collapse of stocks which are always first to be affected takes his money from the banks and holds it from the channels of trade. He whispers to his friends or boasts publicly of what he has done and there is the beginning of most bank runs and resultant financial upheavals.

Banks hold 25 per cent of their deposits as cash reserves. The balance is in notes, bonds, stocks and other securities for loans. When their cash is gone only a fourth of their deposits will have been paid, but their doors must close; their business must pass through forced liquidation at a great loss in values and bankruptcy follows.

The coward fourth cause this sort of disaster to the three-fourths and then bury their gold, paralyzing trade. In two days $21,000,000 was withdrawn from two trust companies in New York in this way. Probably this was less than half the amount checked from all banks because of fear in that forty-eight hours. Probably also 90 per cent of this enormous total, if not all, was hidden away. Money called for especial police protection and thieves hurried to the city in hope of plunder.

No city and no country can stand such a taking of cash from the users of business. To prevent this however, has heretofore taxed the wisdom of financiers until necessity forced New York to the use of clearing house certificates in lieu of cash. The present general adoption of the plan not only keeps Globe's money in Globe, but it keeps it in the banks for the uses of business, and the public is realizing the wisdom that makes everyone safe and so effectually checks the paralyzing of industry and enterprise.

The temporary suspension of the Globe National bank is a measure employed to stay the hand of the cowardly fourth who would destroy the three-fourths. The bank is as solvent today as during the boom days of last June and July. Its cash reserve is as great and its securities just as ample. But fear, not of the institution, but of the general financial situation, precipitated a still running panic and the doors were closed in the face of the destroyer.
