HARROWING ARE SCENES

Populace Panic Stricken--Survivors Refuse to Enter Homes

Rome, Sept. 9.--The effects of the earthquake were more disastrous than at first reported.

The numbers are now running into thousands. Martiano alone shows 2200 casualties.

Many persons are still entombed in the ruins in these and other districts, and touching scenes are enacted when bodies are recovered and identified by grief-stricken relatives.

In some cases whole families have been wiped out. Slight shocks of earthquake are felt occasionally, and subterranean rumblings are still heard.

Rome, Sept. 9.--There will be a meeting of the cabinet tomorrow to consider measures for the relief of the sufferers in yesterday's earthquake in Calabria.

Later reports indicate that the earthquake was greater than at first thought. All the railroad stations from San Giovanni to Santa Eufemia are filled with the populace, who, driven from their homes, which were wrecked, demand succor from the police and shout their intention of having it. The spectacle is terrifying and much trouble is feared.

'SCOTTY' A ROADAGENT?

Rifled Wells-Fargo Money Chests Found at His Cabin

Goldfield, Nev., Sept. 9.--Hidden far under a huge pile of rocks and sage brush, smoothed into as close a possible a resemblance to undisturbed nature, and within a few feet of what has been positively identified as Walter Scott's home, sixty-five miles south of the Funeral Range, there have been unearthed three of the ponderous money chests of the Wells-Fargo company, broken open and rifled of all contents.

John P. Poe, a famous football player of the Princeton team, made the discovery, and upon his return to Rhyolite confided it to John T. Overbury, a prominent and well known mining man.

Poe, while prospecting on the desert, met Zeife, who is one of the first discoverers of Walter Scott's hidden home. Zeife and Poe went in search of the mine.

They reached Scott's cabin, and began prospecting. Through-out the immediate neighborhood were pieces of broken boxes, and at the bottom of a pile of sagebrush and indiscriminate rubbish were three great boxes.

One, which appeared to have been recently opened, lay uncovered in the sun. The boxes gave evidence of having come from the Santa Fe railroad, and were evidently too large to have been used on a stage route.

Broken bits of the boxes were found collected in a pile and buried. Overbury stated that Poe seemed to be a man of his word, and added that his story was accepted as bonafide in Bullfrog.

Poe left Zeife in the canyon near the scene of the find and returned for supplies to Rhyolite. He will rejoin his companion at once.

CHARGES DISHONESTY

Ruffle Session of Mail Carriers--Balk on Federation

Portland, Ore., Sept. 9.--Charges of dishonesty against the association precipitated a fight in the convention of the National Letter Carrier's association today.

Delegate John Hermerwaddle states he resigned from the executive committee for this reason and made charges that papers of an incriminating nature had been stolen from his grip between Vancouver, B. C. and Portland, while he was en route to this city to attend the convention.

President Keller replied that the charges made against Secretary Cantwell, of the association, were unfounded and disgraceful and that his administration had been honest.

President Keller stated that because of the charges he would withdraw his name as a candidate for the presidency.

The debate was participated in by delegates in all parts of the hall, there being several on the floor during the entire discussion, seeking to be recognized. Matters had hardly quieted down when another uproar was created by the question as to what the executive board meant by not reporting the fact that Hermerwaddle had resigned, and the accusation was made that the board was attempting to conceal something.

The convention by practically a unanimous vote refused to consider affiliation with the American Federation of America.

Mrs. B. J. O'Reilly came to the city last evening from Naco.

CONNELLSVILLE DEAD, 19

Frightful Powder Mills Disaster--Seven Successive Explosions Wrecked Mills and Did Extreme Damage in Neighborhood

Connellsville, Pa., Sept. 9.--The Rand Powder Mills at Fairchance, six miles south of Uniontown, was entirely wiped out by an explosion today. Of thirty-two men who went to work in the mills nineteen are known to be dead.

The dead are: Fred Waterstraw, Jr. McIntyre, died at hospital. Albert Woods. O. M. Humphreys. George Llewellyn. Harry Underwood. Elmer Hughes. Clyde Woods. James Breakiron. Geo. Martin. Chas. Barclay. Gilbert Mitchell, a small boy. Anawalt Gribble. Fred Waterstraw, Sr. Chas. Fritz. Wm. Llewellyn. Isaac Metcalf. Frank Ryland.

Many of the survivors had thrilling experience. Orrville Swaney was working in the glazing room, and had gone out for a drink of water. He was just outside when the mixing mill went up.

A passenger train on the Baltimore and Ohio, northbound from Morgantown to Connellsville, was passing the scene at the time the explosion occurred. The train was jarred tremendously and every window broken and many passengers were cut by the showers of glass.

The concussion was like an earthquake to the country around about and caused great excitement. Manager Rand was seriously hurt. At noon twelve bodies had been taken from the ruins. For miles around Fairchance the buildings were blown over and scores of people in the place have painful injuries.

Some of these dead were carried in dishes or damaged powder cans with which the ground is strewn for acres. The majority of the dead men were single, although several of them leave families.

ARMY OUTPOSTS STILL FIGHTING IN MANCHURIA

Japs Said to be Concentrating Forces--Reported Outrages in Mongolia--Baku Situation Improving

Godsyanania, Manchuria, Sept. 9.--War operations have not ceased, and both sides stand ready for a fight. Skirmishes have taken place daily during the past three days along the entire front, and each day has seen the shedding of blood uselessly.

The casualties during the three days amount to three officers and eight men killed and about ninety wounded. According to some reports the Japanese are concentrating considerable force beyond their left flank in the Brainfu district. Fugitive Mongolians bring reports that parts of Mongolia have been occupied by Japanese infantry, who outrage and rob the people.

They are also said to have burned several villages.

Baku Killed Number 1,000. St. Petersburg, Sept. 9.--The situation at Baku yesterday showed perceptible change for the better. Oil men report scenes of indescribable destruction. About three-quarters of the property they say was burned to the ground.

Hundreds of tanks were destroyed, pumping machinery is useless, and the houses of workmen destroyed. It is impossible to fix accurately the number of deaths.

PALMA AND RECIPROCIETY MODERATE PARTY PLATFORM.

Havana, Sept. 9.--President Palma was unanimously renominated tonight by the moderate party convention as candidate for the presidency of Cuba.

Mendez Capote received the nomination for vice president. The platform declares strongly for five years extension of the reciprocity treaty with the U. S. and for amendment thereof to accord with the interests of both countries.

SITUATION IMPROVED.

Tokio, Sept. 9.--Today and this evening were almost without incident. Crowds collected at various points, and made slight demonstrations against the police stations, but there was neither fighting nor serious disorder. There have been no further demonstrations against churches or missions.

Tokio, Sept. 8.--(Delayed in transmission)--At an informal meeting today between Premier Count Katsuma and the members of both houses of the diet, representing their respective parties and associations, Count Katsuma made a full statement regarding the peace negotiations.

Baron Yamamoto, minister of the navy, said that a heavier sacrifice would have been necessary to take Vladivostok than that involved in the capture of Port Arthur, besides the heavy monetary outlay. It was advisable to be satisfied with the present terms.

M. Oishi, the leader of the progressive party, suggested that the cabinet should resign after concluding peace upon such unsatisfactory terms.

Singapore, Sept. 9.--In the Straits Settlement the German protected cruiser Smeader, which left here yesterday for German East Africa, in view of the rebellion there, struck a submarine mine at Kent Rocks, twelve miles from this city, and remains stranded there in bad position. All efforts to haul her off proved unsuccessful.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 9.--Equipped with three guns and a store of ammunition, with small arms and millions of cartridges, 10,000 hungry workmen control Baku today and have dispersed the soldiers sent against them, from whom they took the cannon.

When the Tartars finished with the town they had taken everything worth stealing and then set it on fire. The machinery of 3000 oil wells has been destroyed, the burning oil is flowing in the streets and is being used to throw upon the soldiers, who cannot face the mobs, who demand that the soldiers leave the place.

In capturing the cannon the mob rushed out of failing buildings, into which the shells had just been fired, killing scores of their companions, and demand for revenge for this slaughter is a howl such as was never heard on the worst wolf-ridden Siberian steppe. Every man in Baku capable of bearing arms is well provided and shoots at a uniform on sight. It may be said that Baku is lost to the present force of soldiers, and when recaptured will not be worth the powder burned in the endeavor. It is stark revolution, the mob having tasted blood and gone wild for an orgy.

LIVE STOCK MARKET

Week Showed Falling Off in Prices on Most Deliveries

(Special to Review.) Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 9.--All kinds of cattle except corned stuff and veal calves are lower this week. The supply for three days amounts to 68,000 head, and the demand is not quite up to this large total.

The packers have taken care of their kinds better than the feeder buyers previous to today, but the yards are full of country buyers today, and stockers and feeders are steady at the previous decline this week, 15 to 25 cents below a week ago.

Killing cattle are selling steady today also, at 5 to 15 cents below last week. Range cattle, of course, make up the bulk of the receipts this week, and a very large share of them are stockers and feeders. Colorado feeders, 950 to 1100 pounds, sold at $3.35 to $3.50; New Mexico yearlings at $3.30, and the bulk of the light weight steers and thin heavy steers at $3.25 to $3.50, while the fleshy stuff, good enough for the packers, sold at $3.45 to $3.80; a few medium to common stockers at $2.75 to $3.25.

Fair to good cows are selling at $2.30 to $2.65; some heavy western cows at $2.85; one bunch of Colorado spayed heifers, canners, $2.00 to $2.25. Veal calves are 50 cents higher this week, the top today bringing $6.50. Not many range calves have been here this week. Bulls sell at $2.00 to $2.35 mainly. Should the decline this week shut off receipts any, prices will immediately react, as the demand just now is keyed up to take care of extra heavy receipts.

The mutton market has eased off a little this week, except for country grades, which continue to sell at what looks like exorbitant prices. Utah lambs made $7.50 Monday, the highest since last winter, but are probably 15 cents lower today. Some Arizona lambs, 72 pounds, sold today at $7.10; Arizona wethers, 100 pounds, at $5.49. Ewes for slaughter bring $4.35 to $4.65, and fair to good wethers at $4.85 to $5.20. The run has amounted to 35,000 in the last week, and out of this country buyers have secured a fair share. Stock ewes bring $3.75 to $4.25, wethers, $4.25 to $4.65; yearlings around $5.00; lambs, $5.50.

Receipts have been liberal at all markets, but the price holds up, and is expected to keep up pretty well all fall.

Dr. Edmundson left last evening on his vacation trip to the coast.

BRITT WENT DOWN

Battling Nelson Winner of Great Fistic Event

EIGHTEEN ROUNDS GONE

Britt Fought all the Way but Never in it With the Dane Intense Interest

San Francisco, Sept. 9.--In a fight that will long stand in a class of its own in the history of ring contests, Battling Nelson knocked out James Britt this afternoon.

The end came in the eighteenth round and was a fairly won victory. The story of the battle furnishes a thrilling narrative. No element that goes to give a fight the superlative title of "greatest" was missing.

The surroundings, the crowd, the known bitterness of the men toward each other, the uncertainty as to whether there would be a fight at all up to within a quarter of an hour before it actually began, the cleverness, gameness and endurance displayed by the two boxers, these are what made the fight a great one.

It was the story of many another ring contest, the success of the strong, sturdy, enduring fighter against a clever, cool boxer. This in brief is a description of Nelson and Britt's ring characteristics.

From the first moment of the fight until Referee Graney finished the count of ten, Nelson forced the fighting. Though battered by innumerable bruising blows upon face and body, and at times very tired, Nelson never for one moment gave ground. He came back after every vicious attack by the clever Britt, always ready to exchange blows.

For these rushing, forcing, persistent attacks of Nelson Britt could find no effective counter. In every way he failed. It is true that Britt punished Nelson severely, knocking him down once and staggering him several times, but never was he able to beat him back and change the aspect of the fight.

Only once, in the third round, did it appear to those close enough to judge the end of the battle, that Britt might win. In this round he reached the most vulnerable spot on Nelson's muscle-armed body, his stomach, with two terrific right hand blows that carried punishing force behind them. Nelson faltered for a moment and doubled over. Quickly turning his attention to Nelson's face, Britt sent in a terrific right cross that dropped the Dane to his knees.

There was a great shout from Britt's friends, but the elation was short-lived. Nelson got up before the timer could reach the count of two, and fought in the way he knows how to fight, always coming toward his man. The tireless persistency, the most discouraging thing to the opposing fighter, and his marvellous disregard of physical punishment, won the fight for Nelson.

Britt, had he never achieved victory, must forever be remembered as one of the greatest of the ring.
