

Miss Mary Costigan Complimented By National Business Woman's Magazine

The following very interesting story of Miss Mary Costigan appeared in the October number of the "Independent Woman," a monthly magazine published in New York for business and professional women:

"THIS IS STATION KFXV—" Mary M. Costigan of Flagstaff, Ariz.

Miss Mary M. Costigan is the only woman owner and licensed operator of a broadcasting station in the United States. Two years ago she built the station KFXV, which broadcasts three times a week. But the radio is by no means her only interest or occupation.

Miss Costigan was born in Detroit. When she was still a child, she met the public in a business way after school and on Saturdays she helped her mother, who owned a general store. Her ambition was to study law, but her mother was opposed to this wish. So, after college, Miss Costigan worked in an office for $4 a week. Before long she was promoted to the billing and order department. Her two and a half years with this concern were valuable experience.

San Antonio, Texas, was the next town conquered. Her first success was in the real estate and insurance department of a bank. Later she was cashier and bookkeeper for a realty company. During four summers spent in Detroit, Miss Costigan was assistant to the county collector.

When she definitely returned to Detroit she accepted the position of both bookkeeper and cashier with a real estate company. In a few months she was elected secretary and treasurer. The added responsibility and ceaseless attention to business began to take its toll of health. After a year of recuperating in California, she returned to Detroit and opened her own real estate office. She handled apartment houses and formed stock companies for buying and selling them.

Ten years ago she left Michigan for Flagstaff at the request of her brother, who was in poor health and needed assistance in the management of his theater. Miss Costigan, thorough as ever, learned how to run a motion picture machine and became a licensed operator.

When her brother died four years later, Miss Costigan was left in charge of the theatre and three small nephews. The nephews and the theatre thrived under her care.

Always ambitious and progressive, she sponsored and financed the first beauty shop in Flagstaff, which she sold at a profit. Too, she opened a flower store, which she sold later to a friend.

The radio broadcasting station was erected two years ago. Now Miss Costigan is interested in the modern theater she is planning to build on the property across the street from her present location. The theater will have a seating capacity of one thousand; though operated with her other theater, it will be used for longer runs.

Among her other activities are those of membership in the Chamber of Commerce, the Woman's club, and our Federation. Miss Costigan is a charter member of our Flagstaff Business and Professional Women's club.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

LET'S SEE NOW, WHO'S LIGHT-HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMP?—SOME GOOD HEAVY-WEIGHT BOUTS IN THE MAKING—ABOUT CHRISTIAN CAGLE

BY PHILIP MARTIN

TOMMY LOUGHRAN occupies a unique position in the boxing world by reason of his recent victory over ancient Mike McTigue. Loughran is a popular man with a "donated" or unpopular title. Here's how:

McTigue was awarded the title of light-heavyweight champion arbitrarily by the New York boxing commission after Delaney's retirement. The field is full of good contenders, and the reason for choosing McTigue above any of the others must remain one of the mysteries that shroud the strange ways of the comish.

Loughran slapped Mike's ears down, winning the crown. He is therefore light-heavyweight champion of the world (pardon us, New York). Now the point is Loughran really is a worthy fellow, and to see him wearing the title under a cloud is disappointing to his thousands of followers.

There seems to be quite a lot of politics entering into the New York boxing commission appointments.

THERE are several heavyweight bouts in the offing that are lullus when it comes to arousing crowd interest, speculation and debate. George Godfrey versus Paolino is one in particular, and Tom Heenev versus Jack Sharkey is another.

Godfrey and Paolino are rough, rugged and tough. They are hammer-and-tong types and judging from past form, rush out at the bell, arms flailing, belting away until somebody goes out.

Heenev and Sharkey are clever boxers and the scientific fan would get his fill watching them measure up and spear each other, trying to out-guess or out-think the enemy.

THE Army has a shifty and speedy young fellow named Christian Cagle playing in its backfield. This year he's "hot," as the boys at West Point would have it.

He shines spectacularly in a backfield that includes Light-heavy Harry Wilson, Marrell and O'Keefe.

Cagle was a great ball player last season but this year he's nothing short of a wow, it seems. Against Detroit he was particularly effective and against Marquette he reeled off two touchdowns runs of 45 and 55 yards, ran the ends dizzy, returned three punts for a total of 105 yards and all in all made a field meet out of the afternoon.

PURDUE's defeat of Harvard is mistakenly accepted in many quarters. It is not that Harvard is so terrible, but that Purdue is pretty good.

The Boiler-makers have a heavy and speedy set of backs, a snappy charging line and a keen-minded coach in Jim Phelan. It's no disgrace to be beaten by Purdue. They are not in the "practice" game class—not by many a touch-down.

THE Yankees in breaking a 13-year record to sweep four straight from the Pirates have carved a niche for themselves that will be a bit inclined to brag about as years go by—just as the old-time fans sing the praises of Matty, Cy Young, Pop Anson and "the good old days," etc.

Hans Wagner, sitting in the press box at the final game of the 1927 series, was interviewed when it was all over.

"The Yankees," said Hans, smiling very slowly and looking out across the gathering gloom shrouding the ball field, "the Yankees are a great ball club."

Man in Hospital As Result of Collision Of Two Automobiles

Charlie Salas, well known carpenter and mill hand, is in Mercy hospital recovering from slashes from flying glass and bruises received when he was in an automobile wreck Monday morning at the junction of the Lake Mary and Oak Creek highways, when his Durant sedan collided with a Ford truck driven by Stanislaus Morales. Both cars were reduced to a heap of wreckage from which Morales climbed to assist Salas who was covered with blood. George Hochdoffer and Frank Rindfleisch, starting out on a hunting trip, arrived just after the accident and brought the injured man to town. Morales, who recently was stabbed in the abdomen in a fight, was hurrying from Mormon Lake to town for further medical treatment and failed to note the Durant coming at a rapid rate and at an angle. Salas can give no explanation of how it happened. He had one side of his face slashed from the eye to the ear; at first it was thought that the eye was gone, but when the blood was washed off it was found that it was not injured. He received other bad cuts and bruises but will probably be able to leave the hospital in a few days.

The company's quota of cars for that month was 12. The shield is made of walnut with a silver disc engraved with the name of the Flagstaff Motor company, "Dick" Nelson is sales manager of the company, and is taking all the bows.

Woman's Clubs To Meet Here in 1928

Flagstaff will be hostess in 1928 to the convention of the Northern Arizona District Federation of Woman's clubs. This is the word brought home from Kingman which entertained the federation last Friday and Saturday. The Flagstaff club was represented by Mrs. Grady Gammage, Mrs. Ida W. Douglass, Miss Margaret James, and Miss Mary Boyer of Flagstaff Teachers college, Mrs. V. M. Slipher, Mrs. C. O. Lampland, Mrs. E. C. Mills, Mrs. Henry Albers, and Miss Louise G. Freeland. R. B. Courtwright, professor of music at Flagstaff Teachers college, attended also to appear on the program.

CALIFORNIANS VISITED ARIZONA'S ATTRACTIONS

W. H. Schureman, secretary of the Anaheim Citrus Fruit association, accompanied by Mrs. Schureman, were in Flagstaff Friday. Mr. Schureman came over to visit two of Arizona's greatest attractions—the Grand Canyon and Major W. W. Midgley. The major was an old time friend but he had never seen the Grand Canyon before.

Kisses seem to be taken for granted nowadays. At least they're taken—and usually granted.

"I hope I'm not protruding," said the stout matron as her husband finished with the last hook.

STATE GAME ASS'N. HOLDS IMPORTANT CONVENTION HERE

The fifth annual convention of the Arizona Game Protective association was held on Friday, October 21, with a good attendance of visiting delegates as well as a number of Flagstaff game enthusiasts present. The meeting developed the need of two particular things at this time: an increase in the number of locals in Arizona and a doubling in the membership. Through this increase in membership, the sportsmen of the state will prove to be, through proper organization, a strong body of men who will receive attention in their demands for proper laws, efficient enforcement and a well balanced force of deputy game wardens.

Charles Proebstel, chairman of the New Mexico state game commission, was the guest of honor and gave two interesting talks on the work being done in New Mexico, one talk at the convention and the other at the banquet held Friday evening. Mr. Proebstel brought out that New Mexico has been fighting for twelve years to accomplish the same things that Arizona is striving for at the present time. They have finally divorced the game department from politics and the immediate effect has been extremely constructive.

M. E. Musgraves, predatory animal destroyer, gave a summary of the work of his department which during the past ten years has shown over 500 mountain lions killed in Arizona as well as hundreds of other lesser predatory animals. Considering the established fact that one lion will kill each year between 12 and 30 deer, the saving to Arizona is self evident.

Among the resolutions passed an important one was to include needed game legislation in any special call of the present state legislature.

The need for publicity in Arizona is recognized and another resolution was passed asking P. G. Spilsbury, president of the Arizona Industrial Congress, to permit the publicity committee of the Arizona Game Protective association to furnish him for publication in pamphlets and circulars distributed by his organization information on game and fish matters. The business men of Arizona have not as yet come to an appreciation of the asset that exists in better hunting and increased fishing. In New Mexico they have proven that the total value of the sheep and catt industries there is equalled by the value of the game and fish to the state. The same conclusions are in order as to Arizona.

The next convention of the association will be held in Phoenix in 1928—presumably around the last of September. The officers elected for the ensuing year are: President, Hon. Fred Sutter, Bisbee; vice-presidents, north, T. E. McCullough, Flagstaff; central, Perry Ling, Jerome; south, Fred Winn, Tucson; secretary-treasurer to be appointed by the president.

The banquet given by the Flagstaff Game Protective association on Friday evening brought out a number of interested local men who were rewarded by having some valuable inside information given relative to Arizona's game and fish needs. With increased membership and new locals, this movement is bound to eventually succeed and right now is when support is required.

No New Hefty Bucks Show Up for Honors In Big Buck Contest

Deputy Sheriff Art Vandever and party returned from the Kaibab forest Friday night with three nice bucks weighing 171, 174 and 180. Those in the party besides Deputy Vandever were Harry Richwine, Judge N. G. Nolan and E. M. Badger. Vandever drove his Dodge truck to the Kaibab and because of the crowded conditions on the return, Mr. Richwine remained over and started to return with his deer with Under-sheriff McKinney, who had been on official business to Fredonia. A cave-in on the dugway at Lees Ferry caused a 16-hour delay to the sheriff's car and because of his desire not to have his deer spoil he gave it to the Johnson boys at the ferry.

Fred Moore, of the Green Drug company, brought a fine 130 pound buck out of Barney pasture Sunday. Joe Schmidt and Earl Parson, also in the party, returned empty handed.

A turkey now and then is brought in as a sportsman's prize and the proudest of all nimrods is Harold Thomas, son of John Q. Thomas, who over the week-end got a turkey in the Rogers Lake country weighing 10 pounds.

We have heard of a couple instances this season where a hunter has brought down two turkeys with one shot, but a local boy decided to go this record one better and while out hunting last week he shot into a bunch of turkeys and brought down three with one shot. He has requested that his name be kept quiet as he broke the law. There are a lot of hunters we know of that would gladly break the law if they could only duplicate his feat.

EXCHANGE OF EXCHANGES

Old friends are welcoming Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Mayabb back home from Douglas. Mr. Mayabb comes back to again take over the local telephone exchange and Manager O. C. Hurt exchanges to take over the telephone exchange at Douglas. Flagstaff folks would like to keep 'em both, but of course a soulless corporation does not care about friendships. However, it won't hurt so much when a Flagstaff man goes to Douglas and tries to get Flagstaff on the line.

Prominent Moose Here November 8

E. A. Kallen of Mooseheart, Illinois, deputy supreme secretary of the Loyal Order of Moose, is visiting the local lodge of the order on Tuesday night, November 8.

The Loyal Order of Moose, a fraternity of loyalty and service, made up of 750,000 men and women distributed in 2500 units throughout the civilized world, has built an enviable record of loyalty and service in the twenty-one years of its history, and has attracted the attention of the humanitarian world to its manner of caring for dependent children and old folks.

At Mooseheart, Illinois, "The City of Childhood," 1250 boys and girls are being trained in hand and heart and mind in loyalty to God, home and country and service to their fellow men, while at Moosehaven, in Florida, "The City of Opportunity," the lessons of loyalty and service are being daily practiced in the care of 175 aged, dependent men and women of the order, while scattered throughout many communities in the United States 1057 men, women and children are receiving service through the Mooseheart-Moosehaven extension service, making an army of over 2500 dependents, the responsibility for whose care has been lifted from the citizens and taxpayers all over the land.

Col. John G. Eager of Phoenix, deputy grand regent, will also be present. This will be an open meeting to which the public is invited.

MORE BIRDSEYE MAPLE

The following telegram was received by Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Koch Tuesday morning from Santa Fe, N. M.: "I just got here, dear folks, and hasten to send my fondest love and greetings. My age isn't worth mentioning and I haven't got any name but I weigh eight pounds in my altogether, and could be Miss America some day if dad would let me. My very dear mother is doing splendidly and joins me and dad in lots of love. "No signature."

While the above telegram was not signed a little bird says it was sent by Roger Birdseye, former resident of this city, now a notorious publicity man for Fred Harvey at Santa Fe. This anonymous telegram will not surprise Roger's many enemies here. They know he is liable to do anything. Hail, Miss America, may you ever reign.

Babbitts' Curio Store To Have New Location

The curio department of Babbitt Brothers Trading company will be moved to the building which was formerly occupied by Griffith's Cafe just as soon as the necessary alterations can be made.

The building in which Richard Griffith operated his cafe was gutted by fire several weeks ago and with the announcement from Mr. Griffith that he intended to retire from the restaurant business, plans were made by the Babbitt company to place their curio store in the building.

Workmen have been busy of late tearing out the floor and rafters and replacing them with new materials. A hardwood floor is to be laid over the sub-flooring and a new front put in the building. Interior decorations in keeping with a curio store will also be made.

At present the curio store is located with the drug store in one section of the Babbitt building. Both departments have been crowded for proper display space but with the moving of the curio store to a new location both departments, will have a chance to branch out.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE WILL NOT MEET MONDAY

The meeting of the Chamber of Commerce which was scheduled for next Monday will not be held, according to Hody Jackson, secretary of that body. The exact date of the meeting has not been decided upon but it will not be held until Mr. Jackson has gotten completely reorganized.

MRS. CHAS. CHITWOOD DIES AFTER LINGERING ILLNESS SUNDAY A. M.

Athalie Chitwood, wife of Charles Chitwood, died Sunday morning at the family residence, 220 N. Kendrick, at six o'clock after a lingering illness. Mrs. Chitwood came to Flagstaff five years ago for her health, which for a time improved, but eighteen months ago it failed so that she was confined to her home and six months ago she became bedfast. Her cheerfulness and interest in life were an inspiration to her ministering family and friends. She leaves her husband, Charles Chitwood, night hostler at the Arizona Lumber & Timber company engine house, and two daughters, Dorothy, 12, and Myrna Rachel, 4.

The funeral was held Tuesday morning from the Flagstaff undertaking parlors, and services later from the Catholic church. Rev. Fr. Albouy reading the burial service. Interment was in the Catholic cemetery.

Athalie Dupree, daughter of the prominent Dupree family of New Orleans, was born in that city in 1885. She married Charles Chitwood September 14, 1914 at Nu Iberia, La., where she lived until 1922 when the family moved to Flagstaff and children in Flagstaff or deceased is survived by four sisters: Mrs. John McCoy, San Francisco; Mrs. Robert Maginnis, Miss Letitia Dupree, and Mrs. Arthur Gaignard, all of New Orleans.

Mr. Chitwood is putting his daughters in St. Mary's school at Phoenix for the winter.
