

STOCKMEN SEEK U. S. CONTROL OF PUBLIC DOMAIN

Representatives from All Parts of West to Meet in Salt Lake City July 21 to Urge Action by Congress

Livestock men, including representatives of livestock association, from every part of the west will meet at Salt Lake City July 21 to begin work toward securing control and grazing regulation of the more than 200,000,000 acres of public domain in the western states. The meeting will last two or three days, and while in session steps will be taken to get congress to take legislative action for federal regulation of the lands.

The meeting at Salt Lake a week from next Monday has been brought about largely through the efforts of the Arizona Cattle Growers' association, which has taken the lead in the matter. The states affected will be Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nebraska, New Mexico, Nevada, Utah, Wyoming, Minnesota, Washington and Oregon, the western states in which millions of acres of land are in public domain, owned by the government but with no regulated grazing privileges. Livestock associations in all these states will have delegates at the Salt Lake meeting, as will the American National Livestock association and the National Wood Growers' association.

Many Different Rules

The question of the public domain lands relative to cattle and sheep grazing has always been uncertain. On the federal forest and Indian reservations livestock growers are given grazing privileges and charged a dollar a head per year. On state lands the livestock men may lease grazing land at about three cents an acre per year. But grazing on the public domain has never been regulated.

Arizona cattle and sheep men have always been vitally interested in the public domain question. More than one-fourth of the state's acreage, or 2,000,000 acres, is in this federal-owned unregulated public domain. Open to all, it has always been an unsolved question. It has been used generally for grazing purposes, with the ever present danger that it may be seriously harmed by much overstocking and no regulation to safeguard individual users.

Big Factor in Arizona

Arizona livestock men—and the same conditions are found in other western states affected—have recognized that the public domain lands are a big factor in their business, and consequently have taken the lead in getting the domain regulated. A system of regulation is sought by which the stock growers may obtain their grazing privileges in one way or another, and pay for them. Having obtained the grazing privileges the stockmen will be sure of their investment and may fence off their portions, safeguard their water, and take like protective measures.

Under the present system, with no regulation, the public domains are used by everybody, and no one is willing to risk the investment in the domain lands with no regulation at all.

Arizona Men to Attend

Cattle and sheepmen alike are interested. David P. Houston, secretary of agriculture, and Clay Tallman, commissioner general of the land office, will also attend the meeting, while most of the states will have representatives from their universities.

Arizona will be represented at the meeting by Charles P. Mullen, L. L. Hartman, Dwight B. Heard, J. C. Kinney, E. W. Cooke and other delegates from the Arizona Cattle Growers' association. The delegation will be headed by Mr. Mullen, head of the organization. President KleinSmid of the University of Arizona, and Dr. D. W. Working of the agricultural college will also attend.

"VICTORY" BUTTONS ARE NOW AVAILABLE

"Victory" buttons, to be worn by all soldiers, field clerks and army nurses who served for 15 days or more between the dates April 6, 1917, and November 11, 1918, are now available. It was announced yesterday by Sergeant R. P. Nepper, in charge of the local army recruiting bureau.

To obtain these buttons, which are silver for those who were awarded and bronze for all others, the original discharge from the army must be presented at Sergeant Nepper's office, 22 West Washington street. This discharge will be forwarded by him to Los Angeles, together with an application blank filled out by the applicant. These discharges will be forwarded once a week only, on Saturday, because of the large number of cities subsidiary to the Los Angeles station.

OAKLAND SENSIBLE SIXES MAY BE HAD AT ONCE HERE NOW

For the first time in months, the R. D. Roper company, local Oakland dealers, are able to make immediate deliveries of Oakland sensible sixes. A quantity shipment of 25 cars was received about a week ago, a dozen of this number remaining unsold at this time.

When the armistice was signed, the Oakland was selling for $1725. A radical reduction in price was announced a few weeks after in the belief that prices of material and labor would be readjusted downward. Also the resumption of quantity production was planned.

Subsequent events, however, have been to the contrary; labor has steadily advanced; materials and production is far from normal and the future indicates a continuation of the present unfavorable conditions. The result is that automobiles are again on a steadily increasing market and deliveries were never so difficult.

After many weeks of effort, however, the Roper company succeeded in making arrangements for the 25-car shipment. Only a dozen of the cars remain unsold. The present low price will continue for an indefinite period only.

The opportunity afforded by the Roper company will last but a matter of days. As soon as the present visible supply of the firm is disposed of, the present offer will be withdrawn. C. C. Miller, sales manager of the company, announced yesterday afternoon.

SHOE TRACKS CONVICT OF BURNING HAYSTACK

Found guilty on circumstantial evidence, John W. Turner was convicted by a jury in Judge Stator's court yesterday of the crime of burning a haystack. He will be sentenced Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

The state convicted Turner on tracks made by shoes of the man who burned the hay, belonging to E. K. Axler, which was stacked on his ranch near Scottsdale. Leading from the cut fence around to the hay stack were shoe tracks, pictures of which were exhibited in court and which compared with the soles of the shoes which were offered as a state exhibit. The state proved that after the fire Turner came to town and procured a new pair of shoes, leaving his old ones at a local shop. These shoes were offered by the prosecution.

Turner did not take the stand in his own behalf.

HERE ON INSPECTION TRIP OF ARMY WORK

T. W. Stemmler, first lieutenant in the construction division of the United States army and supervisor in charge of the Mexican border project between El Paso and Yuma, arrived in the city yesterday in Ft. Apache, where two Phoenix firms, C. W. Clancy and the New-State Electric company are working under government contracts signed by Lieutenant Stemmler June 26.

C. W. Clancy will build barracks, power plant, saw mill, cold storage plant, warehouse, stables and non-

The new division of the U. S. naval forces calls for two fleets of equal strength, one to be known as the Pacific fleet and the other as the Atlantic fleet. Orders making the new plan effective also stated that Admiral Henry B. Wilson will command the Atlantic fleet and Admiral Hugh Rodman the Pacific. Each fleet will have four divisions of dreadnaughts and battleships, two divisions of cruisers, eighteen divisions of destroyers, three divisions of submarines and two of mine layers.

San Francisco's time-honored mahogany bars today resemble bargain-counters.

No sooner did the "Dry" order go into effect than the ex-gin-palaces were raided by women, eager to know how hubby had been spending his evenings. Leading saloons opened as soft-drink emporiums, with huge banners inviting women's patronage.

Mildred took the dare, swaggered in, put her dainty foot on the brass rail, ordered the new special—a "slow gin fizz"—and felt real manish, don't you know? The picture was taken in the famous College Inn on Powell street, said to be the most expensively fitted bar in the world.

commissioned officers' quarters, the whole to cost $2,000. The New State Electric company of which F. H. Ensign is president, will install $12,000 worth of electrical works in both new and old buildings at the post, 65 in all. Lieutenant Stemmler will leave this morning for Tucson, Nogales, Fort Arivaca, Naco, Fort Huachuca, Douglas and Columbus, where other work of a similar nature, also under his supervision, is being done.

LEAVE FOR EAST TO GET HOSPITAL FUND

The Arizona inter-denominational sanatorium, the latest project of the character to be launched here, formally filed papers of incorporation yesterday morning. The Rev. Q. A. Deck has been made president of the new project, Daniel Hess vice president, the Rev. Clyde Burnett secretary and J. H. W. Champion treasurer.

Mr. Deck, accompanied by Prof. L. A. Reed, Mrs. L. A. Reed, Deborah Wilson and Harold Hunt, campaign workers for the sanatorium, left last night by motor car for the east. The party expects to make the trip to New York and return in 60 days, and during the trip expect to raise all or nearly all of the $100,000 campaign fund which the project calls for.

The Pentecostal Nazarene, Free Methodist and Missionary churches are represented on the board of directors for the proposed sanatorium.

CHANGES PLEA

—Wille Nash, a returned soldier, yesterday changed his plea of not guilty to guilty of the crime of assault by means likely to produce bodily harm. He will be sentenced Saturday. After the plea was taken, the court announced that evidence would be taken and witness will be called to the stand to testify to the pool hall fight in the south side which resulted in the arrest of Nash.

THEATER FAVORITE PLAINTIFF IN SUIT

Eleanor Flewys Betts, popular actress and society favorite, yesterday brought suit on note against A. G. Utley, J. E. Meyer and W. L. Barnard for $2,979.95 with interest at 8 per cent dating from February, 1918, attorney's fees and costs.

According to the complaint, filed by Bullard and Jacobs in the office of the clerk of the court yesterday, the note made by Utley and endorsed by Meyer and Barnard was cancelled of a former promissory note of Utley to the plaintiff made under the date of May 10, 1918. The later note was made on February 4 of this year. It is alleged that no part of the note has been paid, with the exception of $200. As "Penny" Flewys, the plaintiff is
