GIRL SLAYER GIGGLES AS SHE TELLS OF MURDER

Giggling as though 'twere a holiday lark, Margaret Selthamer, 17, told a coroner's jury how she shot Benjamin E. Burr, Chicago attorney. He had thrown her over for another. "Do you think I would've shot him if I was 18?" she said. "They won't do anything to me. I sat up with my lawyer till 1 o'clock the night before finding out what I could do and what they couldn't do to me." Below the picture of Margaret is that of Burr, who had a common law wife and a child nine years old of whom Margaret knew, but his engagement to a third was what provoked the murder.

The "plant" was located at Alhambra, and according to the officers, a small amount of liquor was also taken. Two men were arrested in connection with the raid. The officers in the party were Deputies Smith, Wilson and Witten from the sheriff's office, and Fred Weage, deputy United States marshal.

GRANT EXTENSION IN BIG OIL SUIT

The defendants in the action brought by the Standard Oil company against the county treasurers, attorneys, assessors and tax collectors of the state will have until August 15 to file answer to the suit. This stipulation, granting an extension of the time, was filed yesterday before Nat McKee, deputy clerk of the federal court here. The litigation concerns the taxation of the oil company's property in Arizona, the company claiming it is assessed above its actual value.

The extension of time to file answer to the action was made on agreement of counsel for both sides. It was said yesterday. Wiley E. Jones, state attorney general, is leading in the defense of the Arizona counties while Ellinwood and Ross of Bisbee are counsel for the Standard Oil company.

really good hotels have installed cafeterias. I predict that more of them will do so. The cafeteria, as you know, is a strictly tipless institution. Even in dining rooms where there is service, the movement toward doing away with waiters is making rapid strides. There are all sort of mechanical devices for this purpose. A mechanical system for checking hats and wraps has already been devised and, I am sure, will soon come into general use.

"With the going out of liquor and the curtailing of tips in consequence of this, waiters will be asking a wage scale two or three times as great as the present one, and the hotel men simply can't afford to pay it."

WHY GO FURTHER?
A visitor who was stopping at a hotel was much disturbed by the snoring of one of his friends sleeping in an adjoining room. Suddenly the snore ceased and the deathlike stillness oppressed the listener.

The friend said, "I was sleeping with my mouth open and I think I have swallowed a mouse."

The hotel doctor was sent for who adopted the novel expedient of calling in the services of the hotel cat, and placed a piece of toasted cheese some little distance from the invalid's mouth, the theory being that the mouse, smelling the cheese, would come out to eat it and would thereupon fall a prey to the cat. While the remedy was working the doctor went downstairs to have a drink. The patient's mind being relieved, he fell asleep and resumed his snoring. When the doctor returned he missed the cat.
