

The sun never shines

On our photographic dry plates, films, or papers. When you buy your dry plates from us you may be absolutely certain they have never been exposed to the sunlight. We will not take back any plates which have once left the house. Of course all plates we sell are guaranteed perfect, and in the event of the customer having any trouble with them they should be sent at once express charges "collect" to the factory making same, who will test and report, and if defective will send an order on us for another box; we are not allowed to replace them here.

An experience of 14 years in the photo stock business here has made us familiar with the goods that work best in this climate, and how to keep them best, and that is the reason why our customers always get satisfactory work from their cameras and supplies.

Have you our PREMO camera catalog? It contains the finest list of cameras and supplies ever published, at a reduction of thirty-three and one-third per cent to fifty per cent over last year's prices.

THE EPWORTH LEAGUE

A Very Practical Present Given to Dr. Geo. B. Pratt.

One of the most pleasant meetings ever held by the Epworth League of the First M. E. church took place on Monday evening at the home of Dr. George B. Pratt, the president, on North Second street. It was a business as well as a social meeting and the reports of the different officers for the past month showed a very gratifying state of affairs. After an hour of business the balance of the evening was spent in games and saying good-byes to many who were about to leave for their vacations. Before the meeting came to a close Rev. Cowan, on behalf of the league, made a very humorous speech, in the course of which he presented to Dr. Pratt a check for $50, 40

the town of Lebanon, Conn., so well known as the home of Jonathan Trumbull and his gifted son, the painter. A paper was read before the New England Catholic Historical society, in Boston, by Miss Ella A. Flanning, city editor of the Norwich (Conn.) Bulletin, in which the following statement was made: "Josiah Dewey in 1790 bought from Oneco, son of the great Mohegan Chief Uncas, what is yet known as the Five Mile Purchase."

The will of George Q. Cannon, the dead Mormon leader, is an interesting document to the resident of the east. The will provides for the four wives of the dead Mormon and gives to each of his thirty-eight children a small portion of his farm of 25,000 acres. After taking care of the offspring in further manner and making sundry bequests of various importance, the residue of an exceedingly valuable estate is placed at the disposal of the George Q. Cannon association, which is composed of the thirty-eight children of the decedent, along with some others near of kin who have been included. The estate is to be managed by the association for the profit of the members for a series of years.

BREAKING INTO SAFES

How a Bill Was Unintentionally Paid Yesterday.

More or less has been pointed from time to time about a safe owned by Justice Burnett. Until yesterday morning he had never been able to open it without help. The only man who was ever able to master its mysteries was Justice Johnstone, who used to own it. Justice Johnstone went to the coast a few days ago, intending to remain away until fall. Justice Burnett accordingly took everything out of the safe which he thought he might need in the absence of the colonel. He left a considerable sum of money in the cash drawer, but part of it was money belonging to other people and part of it was cash with which current bills were to be paid. The justice had no idea of ever seeing the inside of the safe before the middle of next October. He was going to use it for a great bluff, and to draw interest for four months on funds that did not belong to him.

Yesterday a man came armed with a bill. The justice attacked the safe with great alacrity and Captain M. McDonald and others on the inside gathered about to witness the running of the bluff. The justice went through the combination when, to his astonishment and dismay, the handle turned and the safe was open.

This incident reminded F. W. Thode of a safe he once owned and which he always had to open with an ax. His henchmen at first thought that was an exaggeration, but Mr. Thode went through it all to explain the modus operandi. The tumbler had grown rusty and would not fall without some extraneous influence. That was what the ax was for. The combination was a long and intricate one. Whenever Mr. Thode came to a figure he laid the ax aside, picked up the ax and hit the safe a joint. In the course of time this procedure knocked a great deal of paint off the safe.

GOSSIP OF STAGE FOLK.

George V. Hobart is to provide Marie Dressler with a new play for next season. Rejane has won a reluctant consent from the British dramatic censor to appear in "Sapho" in London. Sadie Yocco, the Japanese actress who was in this country in the season of 1899-1900, is acting in London. Shon Plynnipion is mentioned as Mrs. Lemoyne's Macbeth should she appear in a revival of the Shakespeare tragedy. In Prof. Barrie's new play, Maude Adams is to play the role of a young, unsophisticated woman. The time of action is 1834-35. May Irwin, instead of producing a new play for use during next season, thinks of making revivals of her former mediums—"The Widow Jones," "Courtied into Court," "The Sweet Miss Fitzwell," "Kate Kip, Buyer," and "Sister Mary."

Mme. Modjeska and Louis James are mentioned as joint "stars" for a next season revival of "King Henry VIII." Modjeska's Katherine of Arragon is one of her most effective impersonations. It is not said whether James has his eye on King Hal or Wolsey.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox is the author of a one-act play called "The Mother," produced for a trial, the other afternoon, in New York city. It deals with the theme made known by Pinero in "The Weaker Sex"—a mother and daughter in love with the same man, he being ignorant of their relationship.

Elsie Leslie, who was celebrated as a child-actress in the days of the great vogue of the play made from "Little Lord Fauntleroy," is to be the Glory, next season, in the revival of "The Christian," of which E. J. Morgan is to be the star. She has been acting for several seasons past with Joseph Jefferson, playing Lydia in "The Rivals" and Gretchen in "Rip Van Winkle."

THE PARK THEATER

Satisfactory Performances and a Liberal Patronage.

Another large audience greeted the Rubb Theater company at the Park Theater last night in a repetition of the same play. The company has met with a warm reception, and will make a success of its engagement here.

Tonight it will present a dramatization of that famous novel "The Three Musketeers," in the preparation of which over two thousand dollars have been spent in the purchase of costumes. There will be gorgeous tableaux, beautiful scenery and magnificent effects. The company assures all play-goers of a pleasing entertainment.

The poet sang in a minor key. "Mother knows not!" was the burden of his song.

This certainly meant nothing, yet for all that the world listened indifferently, and at the end of the second verse clamored for the next number on the programme.

But the poet was not unresourceful. "Mother don't know!" he sang hereupon.

Now the world sat spellbound, for new was his song not merely meaningless, but grossly ungrammatical as well.—Detroit Journal.

PEOPLE'S CHURCH OF AMERICA.

Chicago, July 2.—Official announcements made that the People's Church of America, which has been incorporated in this State for the purpose of extending religious work throughout the country along the line followed by Dr. H. W. Thomas in Chicago, not only has at hand $1,000,000 the gift of a friend of the movement, but that the donor has expressed his readiness to double his gift at any time the money may be needed. It is also said that several other rich men have promised liberal gifts as soon as the work begins to spread.

A Reliable Laundry is a thorough laundry. The business is established as a doctor studies medicine—as a dentist studies dentistry. Don't judge this laundry by all laundries; it would be unfair. If you have never seen a general satisfaction don't think that even is mostly satisfaction in the goods. THERE IS. You'll find it right here. Yours for good work and prompt delivery.
