BUT ONE BALLOT WILL BE REQUIRED

Statehood Questions Will Be Placed On General Election Form.

The question has arisen throughout the territory, whether the question of statehood shall be placed on the general election ballot, or whether a separate ballot is indicated by law. Many have contended that there should be but one ballot, though they are disturbed by the knowledge that the New Mexican authorities had decided that two ballots were necessary. The matter was submitted to Attorney General E. S. Clark by Governor Kibbey, who yesterday received his opinion that but one ballot was necessary. Below is given Mr. Clark's opinion in full: Hon. J. H. Kibbey, Governor of Arizona, Phoenix, Ariz.

Dear Sir: I have your of August 25th submitted through Mr. Silas E. Y. Private secretary, in which the question is raised whether there should be a separate ballot relative to the question of joint statehood, or whether the question to be submitted to the qualified electors should be included in, and made a part of the regular official ballot.

Section 24 of the Enabling Act, provides that at the general election to be held on the 6th day of November, 1906, all the electors of the territories of New Mexico and Arizona, respectively, qualified to vote at such election, are authorized to vote for and choose delegates to form a convention, for said territories; that at said general election, and on the same ballots on which the names of candidates to the convention aforesaid are printed, there shall be submitted to said qualified electors of each of the said territories, a question which shall be stated on the ballot in substance and form, as follows:

Yes. No.

"Shall Arizona and New Mexico be united to form one state?" It is further provided in said paragraph 24 that such election for delegates shall be conducted, and the certificates of such persons elected to such convention issue, as far as may be, in the same manner as is proscribed by the laws of said territories, respectively, regulating elections therein of members of the legislature.

It will thus be seen that the act of congress itself does not in terms provide that the names of the candidates to the constitutional convention and the question as to statehood shall be printed upon regular official ballots upon which the names of all candidates are to be printed, neither does it determine whether separate ballots for these purposes shall be provided. It is provided, however, that such election for delegates shall be conducted, and the returns made, and the certificates of persons elected issued, etc., as near as may be, in the same manner as is prescribed by the laws of said territories, respectively, regulating elections therein of members of the legislature. We may therefore, look to the provisions of our own statutes, in so far as they may aid the Act of congress referred to.

Said act, however, expressly provides that the names of the candidates to the constitutional convention, and the question whether the two territories shall be united to form one state, shall be submitted on the public ballot. It contains no limitation as to what else, if anything, the ballot may contain, but leaves that to be controlled by the laws of the territories. That is, it leaves us free to follow the laws of Arizona as to whether the names of the candidates to the constitutional convention, and the question aforesaid, shall be submitted upon a separate ballot, or whether they shall be submitted upon the regular official ballot, containing the names of all candidates to be voted for at said general election including members of the legislature.

Paragraph 227 (section 56) Revised Statutes of Arizona, 1901, provides that "Whenever a question is to be submitted to the people of the territory for a popular vote, the secretary of the territory shall duly certify the same to each county board of supervisors of the territory, not less than twenty-five days before the election, and the board of supervisors of such county shall include the proposition or question to be submitted in the ballot to be used on election day."

The "ballot" referred to is the regular official ballot. In view of this, it is clear that the statehood question being one that is to be submitted to the people of the territory for a popular vote, must be submitted on the regular official ballot, and inasmuch as the act of congress provides that the names of the candidates to the constitutional convention must be submitted upon the same ballot that the question of statehood is submitted, it follows that there must be but one ballot, and that all of these matters must be submitted to the people in manner and form as provided by law upon this ballot.

I advise therefore that the question to be submitted to the people of the territory relating to statehood, as provided by said act of congress, be duly certified by the secretary of the territory to each county board of supervisors not less than twenty-five days before election, and that said supervisors be also advised that such question, as well as the names of candidates to the constitutional convention, be submitted upon the regular official ballot. Very respectfully yours, E. S. CLARK, Attorney General.

INFORMATION WANTED BY ARIZONA VOTERS

Should Be Enlightened Concerning Finances of Two Territories.

Attorney General E. S. Clark returned Thursday from an official visit to the northern counties of the territory, says the Journal-Miner. Speaking of the joint statehood sentiment in the north, the attorney general said: "During my visit to the northern counties I met and conversed with a great many people who are mistaken in many facts relative to joint statehood and have assumed an attitude favorable to it.

"For instance," he said, "many were much surprised to learn that the total assessed valuation of all property in the territory of Arizona exceeded that of New Mexico by over $10,000,000, most of them believing that the New Mexico valuation exceeded that of Arizona. "Few of them knew that the territorial tax rate of New Mexico is more than double that of Arizona. Hardly any of them realize that the average county tax rate of New Mexico is much higher than the average county tax rate of this territory, and very few of them appear to be aware of the fact that while the territorial indebtedness of this territory is largely made up of the indebtedness of the several counties which has been funded into territorial bonds, and which is included in our territorial debt, there is a heavy county indebtedness in New Mexico in addition to the territorial debt."

"There is also outstanding in New Mexico a large issue of so-called militia warrants, exceeding, as is reliably reported, over $1,000,000. This being the case, it of course goes without saying that should New Mexico and Arizona ever adopt joint statehood the first act of the new state legislature would be to fund the enormous county and militia warrant indebtedness as the representation of new Mexico in the legislature would far exceed that of Arizona, Arizona would be thereby compelled to pay a very substantial share of New Mexico's debts in addition to her own.

"Very few people in the north appear to be aware that although New Mexico's population is nearly double that of Arizona, that New Mexico expends much less money annually in her public schools than this territory. Under joint statehood it is easily seen that if the New Mexico schools are to be graded up to the present standard of our schools that this territory would be compelled to pay a heavy tax for the maintenance of New Mexico's schools. "When I made these statements to some of the citizens they were surprised. In my opinion there should be a comparative statement compiled from the true facts with relation to the two territories and a copy of the same placed in the hands of every voter in the territory.

"It only requires a consideration of the facts to convince any resident of Arizona that joint statehood would be disastrous to this territory. No argument is required. The facts are sufficient and no Arizonian can consider them without becoming unalterably opposed to joint statehood."

TEMPE CONVENTION PROMISES TROUBLE

The Brethren Are All Loaded for Hair Trigger Action.

When The Republican yesterday morning laid bare the secret thoughts, hopes and ambitions of certain of the local democracy, it was not supposed that any real harm would be done, and of course none was intended. The Republican is for peace, always, even among the democrats, and proposes to let them have it even if it has to make them fight for it.

The chief trouble at the democratic convention in Tempe today, it is feared, will be between Chairman Smith of the resolutions committee and Neri Osborn, leader of the minority of the committee. No reference was made in yesterday's issue to the cause bell. In fact, it had not then been made public, but yesterday's events threw new light on one subject. It is well known that Chairman Smith is a great admirer of Governor Kibbey and it was learned yesterday that he proposed to have him endorsed by the convention. Mr. Osborn on the other hand insists that a democratic convention ought not to endorse a republican, even if he were perfect, and forthwith proceeds to receive a telegram from Bisbee, announcing the probability of Governor Kibbey making the race for congress on the republican ticket.

The governor of course denies the possibility of his candidacy, but Mr. Osborn puts no faith in the denial. He would rather bet himself up to an idea he originated himself, because he knows just what it is worth. Beside he recalls that office are sometimes thrust on men, as in the case of Mr. Roosevelt, who had to accept the nomination for vice president or take his chances in a convention fight.

In other respects nothing unusual occurred yesterday except that the partisans of Sheriff Walker were very active in securing proxies for today's convention. It is reported that one deputy has fifteen in his possession and is ready to take all that may be offered. This convention is primarily to select delegates to Bisbee, but if the Walker forces develop enough strength they hope to make a showing that will clip the wings of Carl Hayden's swelling ambition. The lion and the lamb have got to lay down together and there is a feeling in some quarters that today's convention may indicate which will be on the inside.

AN AMUSING INCIDENT.

A young mother chanced to occupy a seat in front of us on a train last week, says an exchange, when an amusing incident occurred. She was vainly endeavoring to quiet her youngster who was apparently about 2 years old. The young cherub had gormandized vast quantities of fruit, nuts, etc., and seemed to be in great misery and positively refused to be comforted. Finally an old gentleman who was sitting beside the distressed mother, whom we took to be her father, remarked: "Jenny, I'd larrup that kid." "O, I hate to whip a child on a full stomach," she said. "Looks to me like it'd be an easy matter to turn it over," was the quaint reply.
