turned loose on an unsuspecting public have been blown up—and are now straining at the leash longingly awaiting the signal that will free them for the scramble. More novelties than have been incorporated in any dozen ball room showers before are all bound up in this event—prizes of all sorts of values—merchandise, orders, surprise packages—it will be a riot. And that is but one of the things on tap for Monday evening. Tuesday evening will be the night when the '49 dance will hold forth. A '49 dance—handled by the Elks—how, Oh! how could one ask for more. The boys have collected every imaginable item of the paraphernalia to make this a "natural" '49 dance. Cowpunchers and cow girls will be in their glory—the drill team is even hanging up a cash prize for the best costumed lady and gentleman during this event. The drink concessions will be running full blast on both evenings—not a single stone has been left unturned to make these two nights the best entertainment value the drill team has yet offered. The Ford will be given away Tuesday evening—and somebody is going to be made the happiest person in town. Everybody is invited to the party—everybody is welcome—the drill team is hosts to the city—and the announcement comes that there will be the same rate charge and the same rate for the dancing that has prevailed throughout the season—11 cents on the gate—and 6 cents per dance—prices including the tax. Nothing can stop 'em—they're out for the biggest time of their career—and the drill team has not missed yet—they're not going to miss now. Reservations may be made either in person or by phone by calling the Elks club at any time during the day. Everybody's going—no one can afford to stay away—no excuse will be big enough to pay for missing the fun one is bound to miss staying away from Riverside Park on either tomorrow or Tuesday evening.

"SKY PILOT" OPENS THREE DAYS STAY AT STRAND THIS P. M.

The Strand starts off the week with the thrills of a recent beginning this afternoon of "The Sky Pilot" Ralph Connor's stirring tale of the Canadian cat, ranging from the west coast of Canada, through the eyes of a cowboy, Curtis, a former Phoenix woman. "The Sky Pilot" is bound to prove a most interesting picture locally. But the sheer merit of the production itself stamps it as one of the most thrilling and realistic dramas of the west ever presented. Following the book minutely, every thrill written into the novel has been brought to the film version. When one considers that "The Sky Pilot" is one of Connor's best works—that it is as wisely read as anything he has ever done—and that the cast which interprets it is a genuine "hand picked one"—the significance of the production is exceptional entertaining value is somewhat realized. The story is one of the adventures that befell a wandering minister of the gospel—who rides into the cow country astride a dronkey. "Punchers" look on all preachers as unwelcome guests—and taking this "sky pilot" as the ordinary type of preacher, they set about to bring on his hasty departure. But this was not an ordinary "sky pilot." His fists were of iron—his nerve of steel—and soon proved the match for the best of the cow punchers. Bill Hendricks, foreman of the men, tried his prowess with the parson—and landed a short while—then measured himself on the ground. It was the turning point for the preacher—Bill saw his friend and the cowpuncher, one by one, lined up for him. But the country was infected by a gang of cattle rustlers, and every man on the ranch was on the alert. The Sky Pilot, now in the employ of the cattle ranch, was sent out to scout for the intruders on one occasion, and riding too close to their retreat, his horse was shot from under him. This scene is a thrill in itself—the pilot is riding across a narrow bridge over a chasm between two mountains. His fall to the water below renders him dazed, and but for the timely arrival of "Gwen" the girl in the story—he would have landed his indeed. "Gwen" rescues him with a lasso—and from that moment on, the man and the girl are against the rustlers. His deeds of daring and bravery have won him the friendship of the men in the camp, and when the roundup times roll around, the pilot accompanies the boys to the range. The rustlers have planned long on the roundup—the time they plan to strike their greatest blow. "Gwen's" father, unknown to the girl is one of the rustlers, and her overhauling the plans of a attack causes her to ride madly to him to warn him. Her arrival frightens the herd—a stampede is started—her horse lunges before, and the girl is thrown to the ground and severely injured. "The Pilot" sees her plight—and realizes it is too late to rescue her—but she must be protected. His course is to stand over her—see the cattle as they rush madly on and seek to free her from the stampede. In this scene alone there are over 4000 head of cattle seen in the stampede—an incident that is positively unforgettable. From this point on—thrills tumble over each other in the unfolding of the story—the climax coming as a complete surprise in one of the biggest scenes of the story. Comedy, pathos, excitement, action, and thrills all combine to make "The Sky Pilot" one of the biggest western pictures ever produced. The added attractions include the comedy and the News.

For your special type of skin—there is a special treatment

Skins differ widely—are you using the right treatment for your type of skin?

If your skin is a constant problem to you—if you cannot keep it smooth and flawless—then you may be sure it is because you are not using the right treatment for your special type of skin.

Skins differ widely—and each different type of skin needs a different kind of care. The girl whose complexion is of an oily type should use a special form of cleansing to counteract its tendency to become disagreeably shiny.

The girl with a pale, sallow skin needs a treatment that will rouse and stimulate the delicate pores and blood vessels. No matter what your type of skin happens to be—you can overcome its defects! By the right treatment, followed persistently, you can give it the natural charm, the fresh loveliness and color that come from a healthy, well-cared-for condition of the skin itself.

Remember that your skin is constantly changing—each day old skin dies and new skin takes its place. By giving this new skin the special care suited to its needs you can make it as clear and smooth as you want it to be.

Study the special needs of your skin—find out just what its weaknesses are, and begin, now, to use the treatment that will overcome them. Three of the famous Woodbury treatments for improving the skin are republished on this page. You will find additional treatments for each different type of skin in the booklet of treatments, "A Skin You Love to Touch," which is wrapped around every cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap.

Get a cake of Woodbury's today, at any drug store or toilet goods counter, and find in the booklet the treatment recommended for your skin. Begin using it tonight.

A 25-cent cake will last for a month or six weeks of any treatment, and for general cleansing use for that time. The Andrew Jergens Co., Cincinnati, New York and Perth, Ontario.

For the girl with an oily skin

If you are continually embarrassed by that most common of troubles—an oily skin and shiny nose—begin tonight to use this simple treatment: First cleanse your face thoroughly by washing it in your usual way with Woodbury's Facial Soap and warm water. Wipe off the surplus moisture, but leave the skin slightly damp. Now with warm water work up a heavy lather of Woodbury's Facial Soap in your hands. Apply it to your face and rub it into the pores, thoroughly—always with an upward and outward motion. Rinse with warm water, then with cold—the colder the better. If possible, rub your face for a few minutes with a piece of ice. This treatment will help to make your skin clearer and fresher the first time you use it. Make it a nightly habit, and before long you will see a marked improvement—a promise that lovelier complexion which the steady use of Woodbury's brings.

For the girl who is troubled with blackheads

APPLY hot cloths to the face until the skin is reddened. Now with a rough washcloth, work up a heavy lather of Woodbury's Facial Soap and rub it into the pores thoroughly—always with an upward and outward motion. Rinse with clear, hot water, then with cold—the colder the better. If possible, rub your face for thirty seconds with a piece of ice. Dry carefully. To remove blackheads already formed, substitute a fresh brush for the washcloth in the treatment above. Then protect the fingers with a handkerchief and press out the blackheads.

For the girl who is pale and sallow

If your skin is pale and colorless use this new steam treatment for it: One night a week fill your bowl full of hot water—almost boiling hot. Bend over the top of the bowl and cover your head and the bowl with a heavy bath towel so that no steam can escape. Steam your face for thirty seconds. Now lay a hot cloth with Woodbury's Facial Soap. With this wash your face thoroughly, rubbing the lather well into your skin with an upward and outward motion. Rinse first with warm water, then with cold. Finish by rubbing it for thirty seconds with a piece of ice. Dry carefully. The very first time you use this Woodbury steam treatment, your skin will begin to show more color. The other six nights of the week, cleanse your skin thoroughly in the usual way with Woodbury's Facial Soap and warm water.
