Promptitude.

Clement W. Andrews, of Chicago, during the convention of the American Library association at St. Louis, visited a number of St. Louis factories.

In one of these inspections noon struck in the cardroom of a certain mill, and all the cardroom boys put by their work and disappeared as if by magic.

"Do all the boys," said Mr. Andrews, smiling, "drop their tools the instant the whistle blows?"

"Oh, no, not all of them," said the cardroom boss. "The more orderly ones have their tools put away before that time."

Return to Mule Teams.

Freight traffic between Reno, Nev., and Goldfield, the "new bonanza," has increased so much that the railroads cannot handle it, and mule teams of twelve mules each have been put on the road, the first time in over a quarter of a century that they have appeared on Nevada's roads. By freight train Goldfield is one day from Reno. By mule team it is twelve days.

AN OLD BACHELOR SAYS THAT—

The latest wrinkles are naturally rough on women.

If marriage is a failure it must be a case of heart failure.

Some girls like to make bread because it whitens their hands.

Artists and photographers should know how to retouch their negatives.

A woman void of curiosity must find life as tiresome as a historical novel.

Riches are the wings that sometimes make an angel of an ordinary girl.

A woman may cast insinuations, but she can't propel a stone with accuracy.

When a girl tells her escort that she feels a trifle faint, it means that she is hungry.

Evie had her faults, but she never went through Adam's pockets while he was asleep.

Nothing seems to please a girl more than her ability to win the man of another girl's choice.

If one woman wants to say something mean of another she refers to her as "that woman."

If some women ever get to be worth their weight in gold they will have to take a lot of anti-fat.

There are some things in this world that no man is able to find out; but of course it is different with a woman.

Some women wear their sweetest smile when they want a favor of their husbands, and some turn on the flow of their briniest tears.

Canada's New Governor.

An American boy who was traveling in South Africa in 1896, toward the close of the Matabele troubles, recalls his first sight of Earl Grey, the new governor general of Canada. "His lordship," says the American referred to, "did not look a bit like a belted earl. Though administrator of Rhodesia at the time, he was in his shirt sleeves, with a pair of obviously ready-made trousers and a disreputable slouch hat. He and a couple of friends were having a drink at the bar of the Buluwayo club." Lord Grey, by the way, was born in a royal residence. His father was private secretary to Queen Victoria, and Lady Grey was stopping in St. James' palace at the time.
