

FELIS GALLEGOS AMBUSHED

Felis Gallegos, the well known cattle and sheep grower, was shot through the leg Sunday night near Capulin by unknown parties. Mr. Gallegos attended a show in Ortiz hall at Capulin last Sunday night. After the show which with its dance lasted until about 12 o'clock, Mr. Gallegos went out in a field across the creek to make his horse comfortable for the night as he had decided to stay in Capulin all night in place of returning to his home in La Jara. A little less than half a mile from town someone behind him stood up in the darkness and shot him down. The first shot took effect and brought him to the ground, after which the would be assassin stepped a little nearer but not close enough to be recognized and fired two or three more shots at the prostrate man without effect and turned and left him. The bullet entered the left hip and ranged downward into the right leg, smashing the bone and making an ugly wound. Mr. Gallegos dragged himself to the nearest house and Dr. S. Henek was called to attend him. Mr. Gallegos expressed a desire to be taken to Del Norte where he has a brother living and accordingly the ambulance from St. Joseph's hospital came down next day after him.

The bullet, which is said to be a 38 caliber was extracted, the leg set in a plaster cast and the wounded man is reported to be getting along nicely. Sheriff McGregor after an investigation made five arrests and Thursday a preliminary examination conducted by District Attorney Moses was held at Conejos. The preliminary hearing was continued until the 24th from lack of evidence and the parties placed under bond. It is understood that no direct evidence has as yet developed.

THE HORSE'S MOUTH.

A colt's mouth does not ordinarily require attention until he has reached his second year. By the time the youngster is one year old he has on each jaw, upper and lower, six front teeth, or incisors, and six grinders, or mola. Between the second and third years a horse discards twelve teeth in all, which are replaced by permanent ones. These are the middle incisors and the first and second grinders on each side. During this time very serious difficulties may be encountered. Frequently an incisor will fail to loosen and be tipped forward by the incoming tooth, until its sharp edge lacerates the lip. The wound may become infected and extremely swollen and sensitive and the animal be unable to chew because of the pain. The same applies to the back teeth—one may fail to be shed and the permanent tooth is likely to push the temporary grinder out so that the cheek is severely injured. An animal may rapidly lose flesh or actually starve to death from such an occurrence. The third grinder is replaced at three and one-half years. This baby tooth frequently fails to drop off, forms a cap over the permanent one, and is likely to keep the other teeth from grinding properly or otherwise interfere with mastication.

A horse at five years of age has a so-called full mouth. This means that all his teeth are permanent and in full wear.

At one time before the horse was a servant of man, he was provided with a full set of teeth, that is, there was no space left between the incisors and the molars. It is not infrequent to see a very small tooth just in front of the first grinder. This is a vestige of the old times, and is commonly termed a "wolf tooth." It does no harm and has no ill effect upon the animal's eyes, as is some times claimed.

The grinding surface of the molars normally wears in an oblique fashion, so that very sharp points form on the outside of the upper teeth and on the inside of the lower. These should be carefully removed. It is probable, however, that in most cases too much is taken away and the grinding surface of the tooth is injured. A horse's mouth should be dressed once every year, and, as has already been intimated, the young horse should be watched lest some irregularity cause him a great deal of suffering and perhaps cost his life.

Mrs. Henry Smith has been quite sick but is reported slightly improved.

Mrs. Geo. Sowards still suffers considerably with her arm which is not getting along very well. Mrs. Sowards was passing through a gate about two weeks ago and her dress catching on a wire she fell and broke her wrist.

The Academy opened this week with a good enrollment and every one feels that records of all kinds will be smashed this year. The school is more splendidly equipped this year than ever in every department to aid the youth of the San Luis valley in securing a practical and higher education.

John Morgan's ailment was pronounced appendicitis and he was taken to Denver the first of the week by President E. S. Christensen. A surgical operation was performed which is reported to have been successful. Mr. Morgan's mother, Mrs. Anna Morgan, was summoned to his bedside Wednesday by telegraph to relieve President Christensen, who was obliged to return home on account of urgent business.

SCHOOL NOTES.

The enrollment at the school has reached about 100. There should be more yet and very probably will.

The small primary room has enrolled nearly forty.

Parents should bring themselves to realize that when they are giving their children an education, they are giving them an inheritance that no schemes, no financial adversity, no fire or storm can take from them. Everything else may go, but their education will remain and may be used at once as a means of making them a livelihood or a start in the world again when all else fails. Give your child an education. It will be a much better heritage than a fortune in either money or property.

Miss Maggie McDonald, teacher of the 5th and 6th grades at Sanford, was a visitor at the school last Wednesday. We are always pleased to have anyone visit the school and more especially the teachers of other schools. We think La Jara school will stand a pretty close inspection.

How many parents and others will visit the school Friday afternoon? Come out and show the children that you are interested in them.

The 9th grade has been assigned a subject for debate. The subject is historical, "Resolved, that Lincoln deserves more credit for what he was and did than Washington does for what he was and did." Their arguments will be in writing and will be read next Friday afternoon.

E. F. Burnett, the reliable eye-sight specialist, of Salida, will make his regular bi-monthly visit to La Jara, Monday and Tuesday, September 19-20. During this visit special attention will be given to work on school children's eyes. Examinations will be free in these cases. Don't forget the dates.

The Club Buffet is the place to go for a fine domestic or Key West cigar.

E. J. Murphy and D. E. Newcomb, Jr., both took a day off from business cares Wednesday, and went to Denver.

Thos. McCuniff and J. C. Pursley, two confirmed Democrats for whom there is no use praying, are representing their party at the Denver convention this week.

DO YOU KNOW

you are wearing stockings that have been burned? It's a fact. All black hosiery is dyed by what is known as the "oxidized" process, which means nothing less than a "burning" process. That's exactly why even the best stockings you can buy often "go wrong."

Armor Plate Hosiery

is not dyed by this burning process. The manufacturers have been working for years trying to produce a dye that would not burn the hosiery, and they have just perfected such a dye which they have called "Harms Naut Dye." It harms neither the hosiery nor the skin. The original strength of every yarn in Armor Plate Hosiery is retained. Hence the wearers have the assurance of the most serviceable and long-lived hosiery ever manufactured.

FOR THE ENTIRE FAMILY

If you want to cut your hosiery bill in half, insist upon Armor Plate Hosiery every time and for all the family. We carry in stock all the desirable sizes, styles and weights. Let us show you hosiery satisfaction and economy.
