NORWICH TOWN. Letter from Rev. E. H. Smith Describes Work in China—Endeavor Social—The Misses Kelley on Western Visit.

In a letter received Jan. 20 from Rev. Edward H. Smith of Ing-hok, China, he says: "This morning as I stood for a moment looking at Mrs. Smith and her class in arithmetic gathered about our dining room table and watched their eager, happy faces, I said again it is worth while to give them the one chance of becoming good, strong Christian men. They are all new boys this year—a needy little group, and during these weeks and months since they came in March have made good progress. When Mrs. Smith was through the arithmetic hour, came the singing lesson. The house rang with their songs and they knew all the words of the hymns, too. Here will be some who will remain with them while memory lasts."

STARBUCKS BRIGHT AFTER THEY CHANGE OWNERS. List of Those Who Continue to Shine is Very Short—Some Exceptions.

The list of stars who have continued good after changing clubs is short. Among them are Lou Criger, who failed to show form after he had been purchased by the Browns of the Red Sox. Cy Young hasn't lived up to his Boston reputation as a Nip Johnny Bates, a star with the Boston Nationals, failed to show the speed expected of him with the Phillies. Cy Seymour, a star with Cincinnati, was only fair with the Giants. Jack Kelleher did not come up to his New York class with the Red Sox last year. On the other hand, the ordinary players who were better off after a change are many. George Morfitt did not show his real class until Detroit got him from New York. Jim Delehanty was a better Tiger than National. Cy Morgan was hardly a fair pitcher with the Red Sox. He was a good one with the Athletics last season. Joe Lake never pitched as good ball for the Yankees as he did for the Browns. George McBride was a failure with the Cardinals, but is leader with the Nationals. Others who developed into high class players are Harry Steinfeld, Jimmy Sheppard, Jimmy Archer, Elberted, Jake Stahl and Ira Thomas.

NOTES. Mike Finn has been offered the job as scout for the Boston Americans. Battery candidates now engaged in indoor work at the University of Pennsylvania number 16. Bill Young, who was considered the most likely man for catcher on the Harvard nine, has left college. The crimson seems to be well off on the pitching end, as usual. While Jack O'Brien of Philadelphia was at Cambridge, Mass., last year he signed Ad Wolgast for three fights. The battles are of six rounds each and will be with Knockout Brown, Bartling Nelson and the Boston American, or Puckey McFarland. The first one will be on Feb. 8 with McFarland or Moran. Next will come Brown for Feb. 15 and the second with Bartling Nelson will be taken on. Wolgast says he will get $5,000 for each appearance.

PEANUT PUZZLE PARTY. The social of the Y. P. S. C. E. of the First Congregational church which was held in the chapel Tuesday evening took the form of a peanut puzzle party. All sorts of peanut games were played, peanut nut, race, well, toss, sticking and peanut jacksaws. For refreshments different peanut dainties were served. There were nut conundrums, puzzles and other games on tables for all to enjoy. The successful affair was in charge of the social committee, of which Frank Durr is chairman.

COBB'S SHOE STRING CATCH. "Detroit had lost two games of that series and needed that last game badly to stay in the series," said the manager. Big Hack hit the ball on the nose, it sailed on a low line right to center and looked like the safest kind of a safe hit. The rest that followed was suddenly stopped by Cobb making a shoe string catch of the ball. How he ever came to be playing there was nothing but luck. He was out of position and should have been playing deeper, but just by good luck he robbed Egan of a hit and saved that game for Detroit.

TO TRY THONEY AT SECOND. "Bullet" Jack Thoney, the Red Sox outfielder of a few seasons back, returned to the Boston team to try to get back into the game. The Boston management does not need an outfielder and will try Thoney at second base in case holdout Larry Gardner continues as such.
