HUBER-WATT MATCH

Individual Ability of Five Players and Substitute on Both Sides.

RECORDS OF MATCH GAME

Seasons Why Huber's Independents Didn't Accept Jimmie Watt's Flip-Up Retort.

With one of the greatest bowling matches ever held in this city slowly approaching, it might be very interesting for the hundreds of bowlers interested in these contests scheduled for the night of this meeting of Jimmie Watt's Algonquin quintet and Otto Huber's Independents, to know the respective ability of each and every one of the bowlers who will take part.

In regard to the single man match, which will probably be between Jimmie Watt and Arthur Janswick or George Collett, there is special interest. Watt had challenged any man in the state and has the opinion that he will have little if any trouble with Janswick or Collett. Janswick and Watt have met before. From records kept there can be a chance to search out their respective ability. There were twenty-seven games rolled and in the betting on these matches Janswick came out ahead. He also rolled at an average of 207, while Watt had an average of 205. This bowling was more steady than Watt's. The score of the twenty-seven games follow:

Janswick—176, 180, 167, 178, 197, 179, 188, 182, 184, 194, 200, 234, 203, 238, 227, 206, 201, 207, 170, 211, 214, 227, 207, 213, 202, 201, 183.

Watt—199, 162, 197, 186, 166, 212, 201, 237, 218, 166, 202, 234, 219, 193, 224, 192, 201, 182, 188, 203, 226, 187, 203, 208, 248, 214, 216.

As to the bowlers individually. For the Independents Janswick is one of the best rollers in the city, and also one of the steadiest. He is a great team worker and a splendid finisher.

Weber always has been a very steady roller, and when in condition there is no one in the city who has anything on him. He is a persistent fighter and generally comes out on top.

Collett is a great endurance roller. The more he rolls the better he rolls. He has a great and accurate side delivery. He is steady and a hard worker.

Riley is the talk of the local bowling world and is prophesied as a coming star. He rolls a hook delivery, and has it down to perfection. Either side of the head pin is good enough for a strike.

Huber is known by everyone as a splendid bowler. He is a good finisher, never loses his head in tight places and is a strong roofer for his men.

Riddell, another member of the Independents, is one of the best and youngest bowlers in this state. He is but seventeen years old and has a beautiful delivery.

For the Watt's Algonquins Jimmie Smith is the individual champion of New York and is only second to Johnnie Forbes, the best roller in the state.

Watt is proclaimed the best bowler in the state or better, one of the best in New York. M. Watt should beat Janswick or Collett, he can't claim the championship because he has not lived in this state one year yet. His home is in New York, but his place of business is Bridgeport.

Dave Shiman was the best roller in New York three years ago and he has not yet lost any of his old time skill. He is a millionaire and just rolls for the recreation. He could be a professional if he desired, but he is not thus inclined.

Schweske is a good bowler. He is not a fancy roller, but is a hard worker and steady.

Wyman is good, but not steady. There are many bowlers in this city who can beat him.

The other man whom Jimmie Watt will probably pick is Sauer. He is only a fair bowler and is in Wyman's class except when at his best.

The reason why Otto Huber would not flip up for the place where the first games should be rolled is because he was afraid that if the first game was rolled in Bridgeport or New York and Watt's team lost, there would be no return match here. Early in the season Watt had made a match with Huber's Independents to be rolled at Bridgeport. Huber was there, but when he asked Watt to put up the $25 he had agreed upon for the match Watt wouldn't give as a reason that his team was not strong enough. Near the end of the evening in order not to disappoint the crowd Watt decided to roll for $10. A return match was to have been rolled at the Tuxedo alleys for $25. Watt's team showed up, but they wouldn't roll for money. In order not to disappoint the crowd Huber agreed to roll. These reasons seem sufficient for Huber's not accepting Watt's first terms.

Y. M. R. C. AVERAGES.

Powell Leads Bowlers at Republican Club With Average of 198.1.

A. Powell leads the bowlers in the Young Men's Republican Club league with an average of 198.1. The five high men and those who will probably represent the Y. M. R. C. in the City bowling league contest, Wednesday night, are: A. Powell, Dickens, Schlegel, Jones and Hall. If any of these men are unable to roll Kelsey will be given the honor.

Drives for the Cage

Three victories out of four games played isn't a bad record for a week. It came near being a clean sweep and would have been had not Bone got his ankle hurt in the Pawtucket game. George accidentally got in the way of a misguided stick and he had too sore an ankle to get into the Providence game. Oile and McCarthy held down the rush line and gathered in all kinds of honors.

Bone is all right now and will be in his usual cyclone form Tuesday night, when New Britain, the woodchopping leaders, land in this city. This game ought to call out every one of thousands of polo fans. A city representative of the team will have her regular team in the field and so will New Britain. New Haven is edging her way towards the top of the ladder and is at present New Britain's foremost opponent.

In the game at Providence the score stood 2 to 2 up to the last period. Then the locals ran into hard luck, the ball coming out on several occasions while all Pawtucket's drives remained within the netting.

The reports from Pawtucket concerning the Friday evening were exaggerated in that the game showed no signs of roughness. The report stated that it was the roughest game of the year, while on the other hand the game was not as rough as the game in this city on Thursday evening. In which the side vaudeville in which Saunders and Cunningham partook was the only rough feature.

The polo schedule for this week follows:

Monday—Pawtucket at Bridgeport. Waterbury at Providence. Hartford at New Britain.

Tuesday—New Britain at New Haven. Providence at Pawtucket. Bridgeport at Waterbury.

Wednesday—New Britain at Hartford.

Thursday—New Haven at Waterbury. New Britain at Bridgeport. Hartford at Providence.

Friday—Hartford at Pawtucket. Waterbury at New Haven.

Saturday—New Haven at Bridgeport. Pawtucket at Providence. Hartford at New Haven.

Princeton Graduates Meet and Discuss Plans for a Winning Team.

A meeting of Princeton graduates and football men with Captain Eddie Dillon and Manager Carr was held at the Princeton Inn Saturday night to talk over the football situation and to see what could be done to put a team on the field that will win more games. A graduates' coaching system, moved for by Bill Church, seems liable to be adopted.

The schedule was talked over, but nothing was said about a game with Harvard next year. After the meeting a statement was given out that Princeton would not play Pennsylvania, as has been rumored.

At the meeting were J. B. Fines, Princeton's athletic adviser, Bill Edwards, Bill Church, Walter Booth, Jack Munn, Eddie Holt, Shap Homans, Gresham, Poe, Bill Barnard, Jim McCormick, Eddie Dillon, E. P. Wheeler, Manager Carr and many others famous in the Jersey jungle.

MINISTER ON FOOTBALL.

Speaking in the Central hall, Edinburgh, the Rev. H. Howard May of Inverness said he was interested in the game of football because it was the easiest thing in the world to kick a ball, and the recreation obtained from an hour's play was very good for the body. He had no sympathy with those who condemned the working man, who toiled from Monday morning until Saturday noon, for taking some practical recreation on a Saturday afternoon. He needed it. The people who condemned football were those with the easy chair and the roaring fire who themselves had some other recreation. If they took away the game of football they must provide a substitute. ### Scotch Divine Befends Game and Says That Bridge is a Curse.

Several members of the committee have said they will vote to abolish the use of the forward pass on the ground that it has been misused.

The co-workers of Charles W. Tuttle Saturday night tendered him a farewell dinner consisting mainly of 'foam. The affair was a thoroughly enjoyable one and lasted until a late hour. Mr. Tuttle was recently appointed executive secretary by Mayor-elect James B. Martin, and will take office January 1.

WATERBURY WILL CLASH WITH THE NEW HAVEN STATE LEAGUE LEADERS AT JOHNSTON'S ALLEYS TUESDAY EVENING.

Waterbury will clash with the New Haven state league leaders at Johnston's alleys Tuesday evening. Bridgeport, Hartford and Meriden are also at New Britain.

The Spartans of the Winchester office team were tactically clinched championship by their defeat of the Colts. Erickson holds down premier honors in the individual standing while Cox and Preston follow closely behind.

The schedule of the Winchester office league for this week is: Tuesday, Colts vs. Rivals; Thursday, Spartans vs. Thorngibbs.

THE SCHEDULE OF THE WINCHESTER OFFICE LEAGUE FOR THIS WEEK IS:

Tuesday, Colts vs. Rivals; Thursday, Spartans vs. Thorngibbs.

STATE LEAGUE BOWLING TROPHY.
This beautiful cup, which is of silver, was presented to the State Bowling League by P. J. Griffin, of Meriden. Including its standard it is about twenty-four inches in height, the cup resting on a base formed of tennins and balls.

TROUBLE IN JUNGLE

of bridge was greater than the curse of football. Those who indulged in bridge played it secretly, and its inner side was never known to the public. It was not so with football. Gambling, he said, was comparatively little known on the football field. He defined a gambler as "a man who had not the courage of a burglar or the humility of a beggar, but who wanted your money."

NEW COACHING PROPOSED

Foe, Edwards and Roper Among the Old Stars Present at the Council.

College Sports.

The Yale basketball team defeated the Manhattan college team at the De La Salle gymnasium in New York, Saturday night.

The name of Tad Jones' physical trouble, synovitis of the sacro-iliac synchondrosis, reiterates the well known fact that Tad never goes at anything by halves.

June 27 has been set as the date for the Intercollegiate rowing regatta on the Hudson next June. In spite of published reports it does not seem that Princeton would risk her reputation in this sport by going into rowing without two or three years' practice.

Harvard looks upon Joshua Crane as a rising Walter Camp. Princeton graduates meet and say that Yale wins too large a per cent. of the football games between the two universities. Time will show which opinion has the greatest effect in the contest.

The Intercollegiate Football Association of the United States will hold its meeting at the Murray Hill hotel December 27.

Farewell Banquet Tendered to Secretary of Mayor-Elect.

The co-workers of Charles W. Tuttle Saturday night tendered him a farewell dinner consisting mainly of 'foam. The affair was a thoroughly enjoyable one and lasted until a late hour. Mr. Tuttle was recently appointed executive secretary by Mayor-elect James B. Martin, and will take office January 1.

WILLIE MANGO HADLY INJURED HIS HAND IN A BOUT AGAINST HOWARD SMITH OF ELIZABETH, N. J., AT NEW YORK SATURDAY.

Willie Mango hadly injured his hand in a bout against Howard Smith of Elizabeth, N. J., at New York Saturday. Both boys were fighting fast when the accident occurred.

Thursday night of this week will occur the Nutmeg A. C. bouts. The matches are entirely state ones and from the local interest should pack the New Haven theater. Bunny Ford of this city and Young Broxsey of Bridgeport have both been training hard and this bout promises to be one of the best. There is more interest however in the bout between Jeff Doherty and Tommy Darling of Waterbury. Jeff has not had a hard match since the one with Mosey King.

Jimmie Kelly of Branford will make his debut before a New Haven audience Thursday night when he ranks up against Maurice Le Moine of Canada. A crowd is coming in from the suburbs and root for Jimmie.

AT THE RINGSIDE.

Jack O'Brien, the Philadelphia fskir, after his easy victory over Billy Heveron of England, Friday night, made a brief speech to the audience saying that never again would he become engaged in any crooked ring deal. From now on he will fight straight and hope to clear his reputation.

Sam Langford of Boston is raising quite a dust in Los Angeles. Saturday he declared that he could trim both Thomas and Ketchell, two of the best money fighters of the Pacific coast and his manager was there with money to back the statement. There were no takers.

TAD IS IMPROVING

Will be Able to Leave St. Vincent's Hospital Next Week.

WHAT HIS TROUBLE IS

Now Hopes to Start the Baseball Season in Perfect Condition.

Tad Jones is in St. Vincent's hospital, New York, rapidly recovering from a trouble with his back which reaches an acute stage just after the game against Harvard. A week from today he will go to his home in Essex, O., where he will remain until after vacation, when he will take his examinations and go on with his class.

The trouble from which the Yale quarterback is suffering, to state it mildly, is synovitis of the sacroiliac synchondrosis. When asked what this was in American the physician in attendance stated that the ailment is an inflammation in the neighborhood of the base of the spine, a trouble in the joint caused probably by a sprain in the course of Jones' active athletic career.

Jones expects to play baseball next spring all right, although he may have to play the first few games in straps. He will be captain of the team and the outlook is the best it has been in years.

His illness is a sore disappointment to Tad for this winter he expected to play hockey or on some other of the minor teams. But he says the rest he is getting is just the thing he needs.

Pop Foster, who played substitute left tackle in the Harvard and Princeton games went to see Tad at the hospital last week and found him getting along finely. His injury has completely left him, but he wants to get entirely well before leaving the hospital.

REGATTA JUNE 27.

New York, Dec. 15.—The stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association, Francis S. Bangs, Columbia; Thomas S. Wreath, Pennsylvania, and Frank Irvine, Cornell, have decided upon June 27, Saturday, for the Intercollegiate regatta at Poughkeepsie in 1908.

THE ATLANTIC ASSERTS ITSELF.

Even the Biggest Steamship Succumbs to Its Mighty Power.

The Atlantic has reasserted itself. Every one among the thousand and more passengers on the six large ocean steamships which arrived at New York yesterday is competent and willing to affirm that statement—and none more competent, more willing, than the storm-battered travellers on the biggest ship afloat.

When this "queen of the ocean" first steamed into an American port a few months ago having reduced the ocean to a "four-day" pond, its land-lubber admirers told of the craft's wonderful stability, declaring it was as steady as a church, blew the wind high or low, and could defy the worst gales of the winter. Learned if not nautical men figured out that this stability was due in some measure to the gyroscopic action of the turbine engines, and this assumption gave impetus to the movement to equip seagoing passenger ships with that very old new device, the gyroscope, and thus eliminate forever the ill of the ocean. It is quite clear now that man's enthusiasm ran away with his common sense.

The biggest ship afloat is but a ship after all, and the Atlantic is the Atlantic still, just as mighty, as terrible and as powerful to play with "the biggest" as with the smallest boat that man can make. The storms that tossed those ships about last week sadly battered human conceit as well as unshipped the hope that man has subjugated the wind and the sea. The day may come when mechanical genius will still the 3,000 miles of waves between America and Europe, but that day is still a part of the uncertain future, and for the present we must cling to our lemons, our ginger ale and all the other fallacious "cures" of those who "fear a lurch." For the Atlantic of "the biggest ship afloat" is the Atlantic of the Mayflower. It may have aged, but what a vigorous old age!—Chicago Evening Post.

JUSTICE IN KENTUCKY.

The beginning of the fourth trial of Capt. Powers, charged with the murder of Governor Goebel, of Kentucky, excites intense interest, inasmuch as now, after eight years spent in prison, and after three trials, the verdicts of conviction in which were set aside by the State Supreme Court, Powers at length has a prospect of a fair trial. Heretofore he has been the victim of vindictive and unreasoning Democratic partisanship; but the political upheaval at the last election changes all this. Governor Beckham has not dared to place the trial in the hands of a partisan judge and the judge now presiding shows a disposition to act with absolute fairness. There is danger in the jury room, since through the agency of a professional shyster, the jury panel has been packed with Democrats. One list of jurors bearing none but Democratic names was thrown out by the court at the start. On the present panel there are four Republicans, a proportion so absurdly small as to evidence manipulation; but at all events Powers is sure of equitable treatment from the bench and of full enjoyment of his rights as a citizen presumed to be innocent until he may be proven guilty.

The Kentucky Democracy itself ought by this time to be weary of the obloquy brought upon it by the Powers case, for its part in the handling of which it has paid dearly in prestige and in strength at the polls. Nor can its position be bettered by further efforts to justify the wrong it has done. The only way out is through repentance and atonement.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

SALOON MEN TAKE NOTICE.

Augustus Busch, the big St. Louis brewer, has declared his intention of closing every law-breaking saloon with which his company has business relations. As an earnest of his intention he has closed a notorious resort at Belleville, an Illinois suburb of St. Louis.

This action by the largest brewing company in America is significant. It is only one of many indications that the heads of the liquor business are coming to their senses. They have winked at lawlessness for many years and their new policy is not the result of moral regeneration. It is a plain matter of business caution. The brewers realize that while the law is full of restrictions on the saloons, it still permits them to live at a greater part of the country. Abuse and infractions of the law are responsible for a wave of temperance sentiment that is sweeping saloons from cities, counties and even states. It is plain as a pikestaff that the saloon interests must choose between obedience to the laws of regulation and absolute prohibition. The example of the biggest man in the business is for obedience to the law, and if the smaller ones are able to see beyond the cash register, they will follow suit.—Minneapolis Journal.

OLDER THAN STONEHENGE.

Its Date Far Back of That of Ancient Rome.

Winklebury Camp, near Basingstoke, which has recently been sold, has a history as ancient as, if not indeed older, than that of Stonehenge itself. It was in existence at the time when the Romans invaded these islands, and was evidently occupied by them, but its origin probably dates back to about the year 1500 B. C., or 1,000 years before the foundation by Romulus of the Rome of the Caesars. The camp, which stands close to the old Roman road between Winchester and Silchester, must therefore have been a settlement of the ancient Britons, and several relics to substantiate this have been discovered. As its name implies—the termination "bury" signifying a "barrow," or burial place—Winklebury Camp contained a burial ground, part of which at least has been found. One of the tumuli has been partially explored, and the examination revealed horns, teeth, bones, burnt earth and fragments of ancient British pottery. These relics were submitted to the natural history department of the British museum, and the teeth, as well as the horns, were identified as belonging to the Bos longirostris, or Celtic aurochs, a breed of cattle which disappeared in the later centuries of the Neolithic period.—Fall Mall Gazette.

RESULTS OF STORM

Total Precipitation Amounted to 1.42 Inches, of Which .60 Was Snow.

FAIRER CONDITIONS TO-DAY

Mepy Trolley Cars Stalled and Stores Descried as a Result of the Storm.

At the weather bureau it was stated late last night that the total precipitation, both snow and rain, since the beginning of the storm had been nearly 1.42 inches. Of this .60, or about six inches, had been snow. The wind had averaged northeast, but it was changing to north, which would indicate clearing weather for to-day. The storm had covered a large area and had been moving slowly. Saturday morning it was central over Illinois; yesterday it was much farther east. As a result of the storm the wires of the weather bureau had been all tangled up and the weather reports had come in very late.

For to-day the weather indications are that it will probably be fair and cooler here.

Since there was not enough electricity for all the lines to be run at once on Saturday a system of "breaks" was put into use. This consisted in turning the current off from one line after another successively for five minutes while it was used to add to the current on the other lines and make them of some worth.

The storm did not make the proprietors of the big department stores wear any broader smiles Saturday evening. Their stores had all been put in apple pie order preparatory to what they had anticipated would be a big Saturday afternoon and evening of Christmas shopping.

Yesterday luckily was a Sunday and with the decreased traffic that always comes then the trolley company got its second wind. As a result there were no unusual features in the traffic about town.

New Haven woke up Saturday morning to find itself fast in the hands of a small sized blizzard. The storm came down thick and fast and it was soon many inches thick on the ground. Then the trouble began to brew. Time was, in the good old days, when we had what now is termed an old-fashioned winter, that the good New Englanders were quite unaccustomed to see a storm of many hours duration at any time between Thanksgiving and the middle of March. But Saturday it was a different matter. Many of the trolley cars gave up in despair after a few feeble spatters and soon everybody in the city was likewise in despair and sputtering as a result of it.

The Connecticut company is at present not well prepared at its Grand avenue power house for any extraordinary call upon its electrical capacity. The company has just removed two 25-kilowatt dynamos from there, which will be placed in the reconstructed West Haven power house. It is expected that there will be two new 1000-kilowatt dynamos at the Grand avenue house to take the places of those that have just been taken out by the first of February.

MONGOLIAN PHEASANTS.

Said to Be Rapidly Multiplying in Western New York.

The recent arrest of a young man charged with shooting Mongolian pheasants at the city limits, emphasizes the fact that these birds have become numerous in this locality, and incidentally nearly as domestic fowls.

Under the game laws the killing of Mongolian pheasants, or having them in possession, is absolutely forbidden, until the year 1910. When the birds were first introduced some doubt existed regarding their acclimation, and it was thought best to make a close season of five
