

SENATE JUDICIARY TO GET FIRST WHACK AT PROHIBITION TESTIMONY

Unofficial House Committee Defers Its Own Hearing Which Was Set for Next Wednesday.

Washington, March 25 (AP)—The house unofficial committee for modification of the Volstead act will give the senate judiciary committee first whack at testimony on prohibition and will defer its own hearing set for next Wednesday.

The committee will cooperate fully with the senate official body and in addition has appointed a spokesman to present its views and those of modification sponsors to the committee, which will begin its sessions on April 1.

The spokesman is William H. Stanton, executive head of the association against the prohibition amendment and chairman of the four senators' committee. He will be assisted by Julian Goldman of Boston, who will discuss legal aspects of prohibition before the committee.

Decision Last Night.

The action was decided upon at a conference last night of 34 representatives and eight senators in favor of modification, who met under the chairmanship of Representative Hill, republican Maryland. The representatives, Mr. Hill said, committed to be members of the presidential prohibition committee of the house, of which he is the head.

When the senate committee concludes its hearings on April 17 the house modificationists may decide to hold their hearings, Mr. Hill said, in the belief that "the time has come to unite on one specific method for modification of the prohibition law."

In the meantime there is no indication that prohibition discussion in and out of congress is to lag in anticipation of an exhaustive exposition at the senate hearing. The subject was linked with the next presidential election in a speech in the senate yesterday by Senator Bruce, democrat Maryland, one of the wets. He suggested that the democratic ticket in 1928 be led by some one "like Alfred Smith of New York, or Albert Ritchie of Maryland," pledged to see that conditions of law observance, decency and respectability are restored in the United States.

All Not Pleased.

That the idea did not set well with other democrats was indicated by negative gestures by some, including Blaise of South Carolina and Glass of Virginia, while the speaker was heckled at times by McKellar of Tennessee and Neely of West Virginia. Senator Bruce, who was replying to an address by Senator McKellar in favor of prohibition, declared the law is absolutely unenforceable, and that the reason more liquor is not made in homes is "because it is cheaper and easier to buy bootleg liquor."

The stir created in the house yesterday by the statement of Representative La Guardia, socialist, New York, that an attempt had been made to dispose of $100,000 in whiskey certificates which had been logged to George Remus, convicted Cincinnati bootlegger, drew an echo last night from Matt Hinkel, Cleveland sportsman named by Mrs. La Guardia as the agent through whom the transaction was to be made.

Mr. Hinkel said he had handled the certificates as a broker and that such operations are recognized as legitimate transactions. He said he received the certificates through an attorney, while Mr. La Guardia charged they were supplied by Franklin B. Dodge, former department of justice operative.

Scoffs at LaGuardia.

At Indianapolis, United States Marshall Linus P. Meredith made light of Mr. La Guardia's statement that part of the $500,000 liquor stock taken from Remus in 1921 had disappeared from its storeroom, but nevertheless he announced that an inventory would begin at once.

To the general discussion of prohibition is added the comment of Sir Matthew Nathan, former governor of Queensland, who has stopped here en route to England from Australia. Sir Matthew viewed prohibition as a "splendid thing to be desired" and he hoped it would be given a thorough trial here. He added that two votes on prohibition in recent years in Queensland had gone against it.

CORRALING MINERS' VOTE FOR PINCHOT

Spokesman for Workers Promises More Than 60,000 Votes

Harrisburg, Pa., March 25 (AP)—The United States mine workers and their friends are determined to elect Governor Pinchot to the United States senate and defeat Senator George Wharton Pepper and Congressman William S. Varr, the governor's opponents in the three-cornered race.

So asserted Philip Murray, international vice-president, Thomas Kennedy, international secretary-treasurer, John Brophy and P. T. Fagan, district presidents of the miners organization, in a statement protesting again the suggestion that Governor Pinchot withdraw from the contest for the republican senatorial nomination.

The union leaders declared that were Mr. Pinchot to get out of the race it would aid in the election of Representative Varr, who they said would then receive the vote in the 1928 regions.

Under no consideration, said the statement, will the stand for the nomination of Pinchot nor for the reelection of Pepper. The United Mine Workers number 154,000 in the western part of the state and 100,000 in the eastern part, and in addition there are at least as many more voters among our wives and families.

"Thousands of citizens feel exactly as we do," and we believe the same is generally true of organized labor elsewhere throughout the state.

I WISH OR I DID?

Which are you going to say on May Day?

Spring is late this year. The country side still looks a bit dreary, there are patches of snow and ice here and there.

Right now, out in STANLEY QUARTER MANOR the steam shovels are at work, the property looks rough, filling and grading work is never over attractive. A big acreage under development during the early Spring is not a pretty sight.

But what will it be the first day of May?

What are you going to say when you see hard, smooth, graded streets and sidewalks, velvety green grass, leaves out on the trees, violets, bluebirds and a soft warm sun, shining out of an azure blue sky. What will you say then?

A lot of folks are going to say, "I wish I had made a deposit on one of these lots last March."

There will be, however, purchasers of 45 lots who can say, "I did make a deposit last March and I now have a home site and a profit."

How is it going to be with you?

I WISH OR I DID?

Stanley Quarter Manor

Is directly opposite the new STANLEY QUARTER PARK, just beyond the new million-dollar State Normal School. . . Landers, Fray & Clark have purchased 15 lots, we have reserved six for ourselves and out of the 90 lots remaining in this splendid development 45 will be sold next week, and only 45.

This is strictly a residence property, it is restricted against business or manufacturing, not only by ourselves, but by the city zoning ordinances.

The foresighted folks who arrange to make deposits on lots in STANLEY QUARTER MANOR during this next week at The Commercial Trust Co., will buy a home site for less money than they ever can again in this particular neighborhood.

Clothes that have won fame, fortune and fair lady for fifty years!

COMMON SENSE laughs or weeps . . . when it hears some vain man boast that he reached success in sloppy clothes.

It can be done, of course! But why use bare knuckles to batter down the Door of Success, when you might turn the knob and walk in?

Making your own difficulties may be heroic, but it surely isn't sensible.

A good appearance unlocks opposition and allays prejudice. It opens the way to the favor of men and the hearts of women. Your father knows! Some day, he'll tell you the important part played in his courtship by a certain famous letter "K" woven in his inside coat pocket.

It proved a "Letter of Credit" when he set forth to close the biggest sale of his life!

For conquests, both of heart and fortune, Kuppenheimer has been furnishing the wardrobe of success to achieving men for more than half a century.

The Mayfair Double Breasted

This sack, in its sleek and trim lines, almost delivers what Ponce de Leon sought and never found. It will drop years, in a man's looks, faster than an aging chorus girl drops them in her memory. And it will take off weight, in appearance, more handily than will any diet, in pounds.

Full chested, snug hipped, with slenderizing waist line and piquant peaked lapels. And it reaches the zenith of smartness in the new Kuppenheimer Silvertone and Ambertone fabrics—the new class shades in grays and browns.
