

THE WATERBURY GLOBE MEN.

"Chris" Downey, Robert Turple and John Walsh all before the City Court and Released Under $5,000 Bonds to Appear for Trial Monday.

Christopher F. Downey, F. J. Walsh and Robert O. Turple, the former the alleged proprietor, and the latter the alleged attacks of the Waterbury "Globe" were arrested in Waterbury Monday night, charged with writing and printing, publishing and distributing offensive, indecent and abusive matter concerning Frederick R. Bissell, Frederick Howshild and Frank Nussenholz of this city. The officers found all of the accused save Vischer, another attack, who is ill in Syracuse, N. Y., with typhoid fever.

Yesterday morning the party, accompanied by Judge Edward F. Cole, counsel for the accused, came to this city on the first train. Judge Cole gave bonds for the appearance of the accused to the amount of $1,000. The accused and their counsel, after the bonds were given, started for the depot, thinking that the cases were disposed of until this morning. An hour later City Attorney Matthewman called up the cases in the city court. None of the accused responded and Judge Cole directed the bonds to be called.

Mr. Matthewman explained to the court that their non appearance was due to a misunderstanding and asked a little time to have the accused produced in court. Sergeant Cowles was sent out to look up the accused and in a short time returned with them. Five new warrants were given to the officer, which he served, making eight cases in all, three against Downey and Walsh and two against Turple. The additional complaints were drawn at the instance of Frank Nussenholz, the Congress avenue baker, whom the "Globe," in its issue of October 20, accused of swindling Harris Hautman, a Waterbury baker.

Attorney Goodhart, who will assist the state in the prosecution of the cases, stated to the court when the accused stepped to the bar, that the state would not be ready to try the cases before the latter part of the week. Owing to Judge Cole's engagements, he continued, he would ask that the cases be set down for a hearing on November 10. By this time he said he hoped that Vischer could be apprehended.

Judge Cole objected very strongly to a continuance later than this morning. The hearing was finally set down for Monday morning.

Mr. Goodhart insisted that the bonds be fixed at $1,000 in each case. Judge Cole remonstrated, but without avail. Judge Cole directing that the bonds be $1,000 in each of the eight cases. Attorney Goodhart insisted that Judge Cole should not go on the bonds as it was contrary to the statute for an attorney for an accused person to give bail for his appearance. This point the court held was well taken, and the accused had to send out for bondmen.

M. R. Ennos and Patrick Maher gave bonds for Downey, and Downey for Walsh and Turple.

Downey felt very badly about being arrested as he says the matter being tried in the United States court he took Judge Townsend's advice and quit the business. He had with him an attested copy of the transfer of all his interest in the paper several months ago. He will make this his defense.

Attorney Goodhart expects to apply to United States Commissioner Wright for warrants for the arrest of the proprietors of the "Globe" as he claims that they have been sending papers through the mails.

Reporter Turple is well known in this city, having been connected with the Palladium, and also with the Sunday Herald of Bridgeport. There are but two counts against him, as he is not charged with any complicity with the title which appeared in the "Globe" concerning Nussenholz.

THERE MAY BE A CONTEST

Over the Probating of the Will of the Late Mary Feehan of This City.

The will of the late Mary Feehan of this city was offered for probate yesterday afternoon in the probate court, but owing to the fact that a contest is likely to result hearing on the admission of the will to probate was continued until next Tuesday. The will, if contested at all, will be contested by the nephews and nieces of the deceased.

Mrs. Feehan, who was formerly a resident of Windom, Minn., came to this city several years ago, and for several months was employed as a domestic at 34 Whitney avenue. About two months ago she died leaving a will which bore the date of July, 1893. She left property which is disposed of by this will to the amount of about $10,000, of which about $2,000 is in cash and the balance in real estate located in Seymour, this state, and White Pigeon, Minn.

By the will, which is an unusual one, Rev. Father P. V. Hartigan of St. Mary's church was named as trustee. It was further stipulated that the deceased should be buried to her grave in St. Bernard's cemetery in a hearse drawn by four horses, and that of her estate the sum of $2,000 should be given to St. Mary's church. This amount should be expended for the purpose of saying masses for the repose of the soul, and that of the members of her family. She also stipulated that a certain sum should be given to her nieces, Julia Horan and Catherine Kelly of White Pigeon, and the residue of her estate she bequeathed unconditionally to St. Mary's church.

The relatives of the deceased have retained Attorney Asher to look after their interests, while Attorney George W. Robinson will look after the interests of St. Mary's church in the matter. In the event of a contest being made the claim advanced will be that at the time the will was drawn the testator was mentally incompetent to make a will. There is every indication that the hearing on the admission of the will to probate next Tuesday will prove more than usually interesting.

NATIONAL ACADEMY OF SCIENTISTS

Opening of the Autumn Session—Interesting Papers Read.

The autumn meeting of the National Academy of Sciences was begun at North Sheffield hall yesterday morning at 11 o'clock, Professor O. C. Marsh of Yale, the president, presiding. There were about fifty people present, including a number of ladies. Members were present from nearly all the leading collegiate institutions and scientific stations of the United States.

The morning session was devoted to two papers of Professor William A. Rogers of Colby university, Waterbury, Me. The first was on "An indirect experiment, determination of the energy of obscure heat," and the second on "Determination of the errors of the circles of an electrolytic copy of Tycho Brahe's Altitude Azimuth instrument now in possession of the Smithsonian Institute." The latter paper was exceptionally valuable and indicated deep original research. Professor Rogers proved conclusively that the experiments and deductions of Tycho Brahe were remarkably correct and that his primeval instrument was approximately accurate.

Professor Hubert Newton of Yale gave an interesting account of the Winnebago country, Ia., meteorites, and the meteor. This meteor fell four years ago and two years ago Professor Newton visited the locality and secured many specimens of the meteor and an account of the fall from those who witnessed it. There are a large number of specimens of the meteor in the possession of Yale at the Peabody museum.

Professor Brewer gave an account of what he saw on his visit to Greenland and Labrador as related to atmospheric dust and aqueous precipitation. He said there was a marked difference in the character of the fogs in that region, being less opaque. The rain drops were not so large as we commonly have in rains in this latitude.

Professor Mendenhall of the United States coast survey, said he had noticed the same characteristics while in the Alaskan region. People there were in the habit of curing the meat of seals by hanging it up to dry in the open air. Professor Marsh spoke of the same thing as seen in the west, and said that since the country had been settled there was less of that done. He spoke of seeing a high pole, like a liberty pole, upon which was hoisted a quarter of beef to be dried. When he asked why it was raised so high he was told that it was necessary to elevate it above the fly line.

Professor Mendenhall gave a paper on "The Relation of Gravity to Continental Elevation."

"Mr. S. P. Thrasher gave a highly interesting and instructive lecture at my church last Monday evening on his 'Experiences in a Whale Ship.' He illustrated his subject with numerous drawings of his own, clearly showing the habits of the whale and the method of its capture. His style of presenting the subject is excellent, and his lecture is replete with thrilling incidents which he graphically describes from his own experience. He holds the attention of his audience from the beginning to the close. One can almost imagine himself passing through the same experience."

A large congregation assembled in the Grand avenue Baptist church last evening, the gathering being under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. Mrs. C. W. Kanahan, the president, presided. The male choir of the East Pearl street M. E. church gave several selections in a spirited manner. The first address was by Rev. Mr. Poter of Calvary Baptist church. He spoke on "No License," and gave a spirited and excellent address. He spoke of the teaching of temperance literature in the public school and licensing a saloon in the same block. He said the authorities were maintaining jails and at the same time licensing saloons which kept the jails full. Mr. Poter predicted that this farce would not be kept up in this land, and predicted that the saloon would be driven from the country. He insisted that this would take place and that the cause of temperance was steadily marching on to victory. At the close of his address Mr. Poter was warmly applauded.

Mr. Kerr also gave an address which was listened to attentively. Jesse Mallory, a well known Fair Haven oyster dealer, was yesterday made the defendant in a $10,000 suit brought by Samuel G. Parker, a conductor on the Fair Haven and Westville railroad. Parker charges Mallory with breaking up his family. Mr. Parker has been married about five years and has a boy four years old. He has lived in Mallory's house for nearly a year and his landlord boarded with him. Last Wednesday night he returned home unusually early and found the door locked. He made entrance through a window and alleges that he found his wife and Mallory in a compromising situation. He threw the old man out of the house, and taking the wedding ring from his wife's finger, left home. He retained Attorney J. P. Goodhart to institute divorce proceedings and to bring suit for damages against Mallory. The papers in the latter suit were served yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Peck.

GEN. TERRY LED AT THE CRISIS.

At the Critical Turning Point at the Capture of Fort Fisher.

The paper of Colonel Townsend, which he read before the Historical society Monday evening, has awakened a flood of memories that will not down without expression. Chafing under the needless failure of the first attack on Fort Fisher Admiral Porter sent Flag Captain Brees (of loving memory) down to Savannah to see General Sherman and beg him to come up and take the fort, as he was quite sure he could. General Sherman had other axes to grind at this time, but shortly afterwards we heard that General Terry was coming down with another body of troops. Then we felt happy. I said to Captain Brees that I knew General Terry. What sort of a man is he? he inquired.

"A man who will do his whole duty without any fuss or feathers," I replied.

"That is the man we want," said he. When I went aboard the headquarters steamer to pay my respects, General Terry asked me if I had known of a longer space than ten days when it was too rough to land supplies on the beach. That question implied business, and when I left him I said I would meet him inside—an appointment which I kept.

So much to lead up to a fact not generally known. After long, anxious hours of an almost hand to hand conflict, the naval force that had met with such slaughter in the preliminary assault, and had been driven back, was sent to guard the rear entrenchments, and the reserves thus relieved went forward to assist their exhausted comrades. They were led up to the assault with General Terry himself. This I am told by an officer who saw him on that occasion. The eggs were all in that basket, and General Terry meant to get them to market which, thank God, he did.

THE INDIAN ASSOCIATION. Donegs at the Annual Meeting Held at the United Church Chapel Yesterday.

The annual meeting of the New Haven Indian association was held at the United church chapel at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. There were about thirty ladies in attendance, and Miss Marie E. Ives, president of the association, presided over the meeting. Mrs. Charles H. Smith, the corresponding secretary, read the financial report, in which it was announced that the total amount of money that had been available during the year had been $1,015.92, of which $841.62 had been raised during the year and $174.30 had been carried over as a balance from last year. The greater part of this money had been used for the work carried on by Miss Frost at the mission station at Ross Fork (Fort Hall) Idaho, $58 had been given to the support of an Indian girl, and $59.25 had been paid into the State Indian association.

Miss Marie Ives presented some very interesting facts in regard to the Indians at the Mohonk conference. She especially alluded to the fact that the traders found the Indians as a class honest, and that they did not count on losing much money from them. The Indians appeared to be much more honest than some of the Scotch and Irish inhabitants. "Their stolidity," she said, "is nothing but a mask they put on the first time they meet you, while they are making up their minds about you." She spoke of the efforts of the Indian association.

that had been made to have the management of Indian affairs put in charge of the bureau of education, and thus, if possible, get them out of politics. This idea had been advocated by General Grant. She also spoke of some of the hardships some of the Indians had undergone on account of the failure of their crops. As the result of the annual election the principal officers of the association for the ensuing year are as follows, several changes having been made yesterday: President, Miss Marie E. Ives; vice presidents, Mrs. E. H. Jenkins, Mrs. Newman Smyth, Mrs. William P. Blake, Mrs. A. J. Du Bois, Miss C. E. Collins, Mrs. George B. Stevens, Mrs. Galpin, Miss R. M.
