

PRESIDENT CARNOT KILLED.

WAS SHOT IN THE ABDOMEN BY AN ITALIAN ANARCHIST.

The Crime Occurred in Lyons in the Presence of Thousands of People—The Assassin Jumped to the President and Plunged a Knife in His Body.

Paris, June 24.—Sadie Carnot, president of the French Republic, was stabbed mortally at 9:15 o'clock this evening in Lyons by Cesare Giovanni Santo, an Italian anarchist, twenty-one years old.

President Carnot went to Lyons to visit the exhibition of arts, sciences and industries. He left the chamber of commerce banquet, given in his honor, shortly after 9 o'clock and walked to his carriage, which was waiting in the Place de la Bourge.

On his way to the station he was followed by a crowd of admirers. He was surrounded by a crowd of admirers. He was surrounded by a crowd of admirers.

President Carnot had already entered his carriage when the attack was made upon him by Santo. He had partaken of refreshments at the chamber of commerce and the procession which had escorted him from the exposition had been reformed in the Place des Cordeliers and had started for the Grand theater, where a gala performance had been arranged in his honor.

The president thereupon regained consciousness and exclaimed in a clear voice: "How you are hurting me!" The news says: The terrible news of the assassination of the president of the French republic will be received with a shock of horror all over the world.

Meanwhile the assassin had been killed to the ground with a blow by M. Rivaud, prefect of the Rhone. He was surrounded by an angry crowd and cries of "lynch him," were heard on all sides. It was only with the greatest difficulty that the police were able to protect him. In fact had not a mob of mounted guards surrounded and protected the police on their way to the station the prisoner would have been taken from them and beaten to death.

"The president's condition is alarming, but not hopeless. The wound is in the region of the liver. The hemorrhage which was very copious has now ceased."

A little more than an hour later the president was dead.

At 9 o'clock last evening the surgeons at the prefecture issued this bulletin: "The president's condition is alarming, but not hopeless. The wound is in the region of the liver. The hemorrhage which was very copious has now ceased."

At 11:30 o'clock last evening the surgeons at the prefecture issued this bulletin: "The president's condition is alarming, but not hopeless. The wound is in the region of the liver. The hemorrhage which was very copious has now ceased."

At 11:30 o'clock last evening the surgeons at the prefecture issued this bulletin: "The president's condition is alarming, but not hopeless. The wound is in the region of the liver. The hemorrhage which was very copious has now ceased."

At 11:30 o'clock last evening the surgeons at the prefecture issued this bulletin: "The president's condition is alarming, but not hopeless. The wound is in the region of the liver. The hemorrhage which was very copious has now ceased."

At 11:30 o'clock last evening the surgeons at the prefecture issued this bulletin: "The president's condition is alarming, but not hopeless. The wound is in the region of the liver. The hemorrhage which was very copious has now ceased."

TWENTY-FIVE LIVES LOST.

WAS SHOT IN THE ABDOMEN BY AN ITALIAN ANARCHIST.

The Steamer Algonquin and Other Tugs Rushed to the Rescue, But Succeeded in Saving Only Thirty-Four People—Many Did Not Know One Another.

New York, June 24.—As the steamer Algonquin of the Clyde line from Charleston and Jacksonville was off the Atlantic highlands and about four miles southeast of the Scotland Lightship at 12:45 this afternoon on her way to her pier in this city the scream of a whistle reached the ears of Captain Platt, who was standing on the bridge. It was a signal of distress. The captain observed about a mile away a big tug rolling and pitching on the waves. With his glasses he saw that the craft was crowded with people and that she was close to the point of foundering. He signalled the engine room.

A moment later the ship was in the wind, rolling on the waves. The screws had stopped. First Officer Rice had been ordered to clear away and man a boat and the order was obeyed.

When the Algonquin reached the water to where they had seen the tug. As they did so the little vessel careened way over to starboard, her smokestack almost touching the crest of a passing wave.

Just at this time, however, another big whittop came rolling along and, striking the tug, sent her over the other way. Thus the waters played with her for a minute or two and then she went to the bottom.

As she sank out of sight, the top of the wheel-house, together with a raft and a lifeboat, remained floating on the water. To every particle of wreck clung one or more of the drowning crew. The lifeboat was the most sought for and those who were so fortunate as to make it were saved.

When the Algonquin reached the scene of the accident and commenced the work of rescue, she was joined in her labor by three tugs—the Governor, the Wallace B. Flint and the R. J. Moran. All of these vessels had been cruising in the vicinity and had responded to the whistle of distress and reached the drowning people at about the same time as did the Algonquin's crew. Together they commenced to take the people from the water and from the raft. Everyone was cool and collected, and in twenty minutes from the time the rescuers arrived, those who had been on the foundered craft, excepting those who had gone to the bottom, had been rescued.

The Moran confined itself to the raft. These with the few picked up from the water numbered thirty-four. The Algonquin's crew secured ten, while the Governor and the Flint also got a number on board their respective boats.

The lost tug's lifeboat was found floating aimlessly about by the Algonquin's crew. It was full of water and had evidently been overturned many times. In the bottom of it, however, tangled in ropes was found the body of a man. The man had probably prepared for a plunge into the sea. His coat was off and his shirt sleeves were rolled up to his shoulders. Efforts were made to revive the spark of life that was at first thought to be in him, but they were unavailing. In his pocket was found a quantity of lines and hooks.

From the survivors it was learned that the lost tug was James D. Nicol and that she was owned by William Reeves of New York city. The people who were aboard were members of an excursion party, which was got up under the direction of the Herring Fishing club, a social organization composed mostly of Germans and having its headquarters No. 55 First avenue. It was the tenth annual excursion of the club. A strange feature of the disaster appears to be that but few of the people were acquainted with one another.

For instance of the nine persons rescued by the Algonquin, not one of them was able to identify the body found in the boat. Tickets, it appears, were sold to persons who had probably never heard of the Herring Fishing club. The Nicol left the foot of First street, East River, at 7:30 this morning. She passed down through the Narrows and then moved over to the Fishing Banks, off the Highlands, not far from Seabright, N. J. Here the passengers fished until noon, when the homeward start was made. As the tug proceeded homeward the wind freshened and the waves rolled higher.

The Algonquin passed the tug and the latter followed in the wake of the big steamer. At the time there appeared to be nothing amiss on the Nicol. But in half an hour the situation was completely changed. The waves became more boisterous and dashed up against the side of the tug, throwing spray over the excursionists who were on the deck. The stories as to what next happened conflict. According to one account the fishers, to avoid getting wet, moved around on the side of the vessel where the waves did not strike with such force. It is claimed by some that this action resulted in the foundering. With the increased weight on one side she toppled over and the water ran into her to such an extent that it was thereafter impossible to navigate. She struggled for a short distance, and then, as the water continued to roll over her, she sank further and further into the swells and finally went down. By others it is claimed that the passengers had nothing to do with the accident. These allege that the tug was old and rotten, that she was terribly overcrowded and consequently topheavy, and that when she got into the heavy sea she simply went over.

As near as can be ascertained twenty-five people or thereabouts were drowned. These figures are secured by estimates of the number of persons who were aboard and the number saved.

When the crew from the Algonquin picked up about all they could carry—nine living and one dead—they put

back to the vessel, which had meantime come about and was lying not far from the point where the accident occurred. It was far enough to attempt to bring the rescued on board the steamer, so a line was swung to the lifeboat and she was towed to quarantine, where the men were brought to the Algonquin's deck.

back to the vessel, which had meantime come about and was lying not far from the point where the accident occurred. It was far enough to attempt to bring the rescued on board the steamer, so a line was swung to the lifeboat and she was towed to quarantine, where the men were brought to the Algonquin's deck.

back to the vessel, which had meantime come about and was lying not far from the point where the accident occurred. It was far enough to attempt to bring the rescued on board the steamer, so a line was swung to the lifeboat and she was towed to quarantine, where the men were brought to the Algonquin's deck.

back to the vessel, which had meantime come about and was lying not far from the point where the accident occurred. It was far enough to attempt to bring the rescued on board the steamer, so a line was swung to the lifeboat and she was towed to quarantine, where the men were brought to the Algonquin's deck.

back to the vessel, which had meantime come about and was lying not far from the point where the accident occurred. It was far enough to attempt to bring the rescued on board the steamer, so a line was swung to the lifeboat and she was towed to quarantine, where the men were brought to the Algonquin's deck.

back to the vessel, which had meantime come about and was lying not far from the point where the accident occurred. It was far enough to attempt to bring the rescued on board the steamer, so a line was swung to the lifeboat and she was towed to quarantine, where the men were brought to the Algonquin's deck.

back to the vessel, which had meantime come about and was lying not far from the point where the accident occurred. It was far enough to attempt to bring the rescued on board the steamer, so a line was swung to the lifeboat and she was towed to quarantine, where the men were brought to the Algonquin's deck.

back to the vessel, which had meantime come about and was lying not far from the point where the accident occurred. It was far enough to attempt to bring the rescued on board the steamer, so a line was swung to the lifeboat and she was towed to quarantine, where the men were brought to the Algonquin's deck.

back to the vessel, which had meantime come about and was lying not far from the point where the accident occurred. It was far enough to attempt to bring the rescued on board the steamer, so a line was swung to the lifeboat and she was towed to quarantine, where the men were brought to the Algonquin's deck.

back to the vessel, which had meantime come about and was lying not far from the point where the accident occurred. It was far enough to attempt to bring the rescued on board the steamer, so a line was swung to the lifeboat and she was towed to quarantine, where the men were brought to the Algonquin's deck.

back to the vessel, which had meantime come about and was lying not far from the point where the accident occurred. It was far enough to attempt to bring the rescued on board the steamer, so a line was swung to the lifeboat and she was towed to quarantine, where the men were brought to the Algonquin's deck.

back to the vessel, which had meantime come about and was lying not far from the point where the accident occurred. It was far enough to attempt to bring the rescued on board the steamer, so a line was swung to the lifeboat and she was towed to quarantine, where the men were brought to the Algonquin's deck.

back to the vessel, which had meantime come about and was lying not far from the point where the accident occurred. It was far enough to attempt to bring the rescued on board the steamer, so a line was swung to the lifeboat and she was towed to quarantine, where the men were brought to the Algonquin's deck.

back to the vessel, which had meantime come about and was lying not far from the point where the accident occurred. It was far enough to attempt to bring the rescued on board the steamer, so a line was swung to the lifeboat and she was towed to quarantine, where the men were brought to the Algonquin's deck.

back to the vessel, which had meantime come about and was lying not far from the point where the accident occurred. It was far enough to attempt to bring the rescued on board the steamer, so a line was swung to the lifeboat and she was towed to quarantine, where the men were brought to the Algonquin's deck.

back to the vessel, which had meantime come about and was lying not far from the point where the accident occurred. It was far enough to attempt to bring the rescued on board the steamer, so a line was swung to the lifeboat and she was towed to quarantine, where the men were brought to the Algonquin's deck.

back to the vessel, which had meantime come about and was lying not far from the point where the accident occurred. It was far enough to attempt to bring the rescued on board the steamer, so a line was swung to the lifeboat and she was towed to quarantine, where the men were brought to the Algonquin's deck.

back to the vessel, which had meantime come about and was lying not far from the point where the accident occurred. It was far enough to attempt to bring the rescued on board the steamer, so a line was swung to the lifeboat and she was towed to quarantine, where the men were brought to the Algonquin's deck.

back to the vessel, which had meantime come about and was lying not far from the point where the accident occurred. It was far enough to attempt to bring the rescued on board the steamer, so a line was swung to the lifeboat and she was towed to quarantine, where the men were brought to the Algonquin's deck.

COMMENCEMENT AT YALE.

THE BACCALAUREATE SERMONS YESTERDAY AT BATELL CHAPEL.

Presentation of Class Day Exercises Today—The Program for the Remainder of the Week—Guests at the New Haven House.

Commencement at Yale opened yesterday morning with the delivery of the baccalaureate sermon by President Dwight in Battell chapel. Every seat in the chapel was occupied, besides a large number of extra seats which were placed in the aisles. Never except at the time of the junior prom, does the chapel present a sight equalled by that yesterday morning. The graduating class in their academic gowns occupied the seats in the body of the chapel, while the galleries were crowded with large numbers of pretty girls with their mamma and papa, most of whom were the sisters and parents of members of the graduating class, this season of the year giving an opportunity for a greater diversity of costume than in the winter.

To-day at 11 o'clock the presentation, or class day exercises, will begin with the delivery of the class oration and the reading of the class poem. John Loomer Hall, son of the vice president of the Consolidated railroad, is the class orator, and his subject is "The Responsibilities of Educated Men." He was the winner of the Ten Yen prize at the junior exhibition in 1893.

The class poem, which is said to be of unusual merit this year, is by Edward Bliss Reed of Holyoke, Mass. Mr. Reed has been a member of the Lit and Record boards during his course and has displayed great literary talent.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the class histories will be read on the campus of Thomas-Frederick Davies of Detroit, Albert Nelson Cheney Fowler of Glen Falls, N. Y., Arthur Judson of Montclair, N. J., and Edward Bliss Reed of Holyoke, Mass. It is much to be regretted that, owing to the death of his mother, Mr. Ralph D. Payne will be unable to read his class history. A large number of men from the class will have to be left out on this account, as the other historians have too much on their hands.

The class day committee of '94 is L. L. Stillman, N. S. Walleot, Jr., T. Eaton, Littleworth Smith, William H. Sillman. Directly after the reading of the class histories the ivy will be planted, attended with the customary ceremony and the singing of the ivy ode. At 4 o'clock the anniversary exercises of the Yale law school will be held in Center church. The address to the graduating class will be delivered by ex-Governor William E. Russell of Massachusetts. A brilliant address is assured. The public are cordially invited to attend.

The Townsend prize speaking by three members of the graduating class will follow, after which the meeting of the Yale Law School Alumni association will be held in the common pleas court room.

At 8 o'clock the anniversary exercises of the Sheffield scientific school will be held in North Sheffield hall, and at 9 o'clock the senior promenade will take place in Alumni hall.

On Tuesday at 9:30 a. m. the annual business meeting of the alumni will be held in Alumni hall. The polls will be open in the University library from 10 to 1 o'clock for the election of a member of the corporation to take the place of Dr. Chauncey M. Depew, '66, whose term expires this year. At 12 o'clock the address in medicine will be delivered by Dr. William T. Lusk of New York. At 3 o'clock the Yale-Harvard commencement week ball game will take place, and the glee and banjo clubs concert will be held at the Hyperion at 5 o'clock in the evening.

Following the concert the senior promenade will be held in Alumni hall. Reunions of the classes of '44, '49, '54, '59, '64, '69, '74, '79, '84, '88 and '91 will be held this afternoon at various places in the city.

On Wednesday at 9 a. m. the procession of the graduating class will form at the library and proceed to Center church, where the diplomas will be awarded to candidates for the degrees of A. B., L. B., Ph. B., and M. D., all of whom are required to be present in person, except they are specially excused. The Townsend orations will also be delivered by six members of the senior class in competition for the DeForest prize medal. At 2:30 p. m. the annual alumni dinner will be held at Alumni hall, and from 9 to 11 o'clock the president's reception will be held in the art school.

The freshmen triangular race between Yale, Harvard and Columbia is also down for 5:30 p. m. on this day, and the race between the Yale and Harvard varsity crews and the Yale-Harvard yacht race occurs at 11 o'clock on the morning of this same day. The Yale-Harvard varsity race will be rowed at 6 o'clock Thursday evening, and will be the closing event of the college year. The entries of all the buildings will close at 6 p. m. Saturday, June 30.

North Middle college will be torn down immediately after commencement week. Some of the undergraduates have anticipated things by demolishing many of the windows, and it is probable the graduates will help the good cause along during their stay in the city.

The following are registered at the New Haven house: J. W. Stinson, New York city; J. E. Stinson, New York city; Charles F. Hubbard, Danville, Ky.; G. Savage, Chicago, Ill.; George W. Young, Chicago; E. J. Garvan, Hartford; J. K. Wheeler, New Haven; Miss Bigelow, New York; Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Thompson, Pittsburg, Pa.; J. O. Ferrin, Lafayette, Ind.; Miss Olmsted, Yonkers, N. Y.; John Olmsted, Buffalo, N. Y.; Wells Olmsted, Yonkers; Mrs. M. L. Wood, Dublin, N. H.; B. B. Fowler and wife, Glen Falls, N. Y.; Miss Cheney, Glen Falls, N. Y.; Mrs. Henry S. Robbins, Chicago, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Seymour, Bridge-

THE BACCALAUREATE SERMONS YESTERDAY AT BATELL CHAPEL.

Presentation of Class Day Exercises Today—The Program for the Remainder of the Week—Guests at the New Haven House.

Commencement at Yale opened yesterday morning with the delivery of the baccalaureate sermon by President Dwight in Battell chapel. Every seat in the chapel was occupied, besides a large number of extra seats which were placed in the aisles. Never except at the time of the junior prom, does the chapel present a sight equalled by that yesterday morning. The graduating class in their academic gowns occupied the seats in the body of the chapel, while the galleries were crowded with large numbers of pretty girls with their mamma and papa, most of whom were the sisters and parents of members of the graduating class, this season of the year giving an opportunity for a greater diversity of costume than in the winter.

To-day at 11 o'clock the presentation, or class day exercises, will begin with the delivery of the class oration and the reading of the class poem. John Loomer Hall, son of the vice president of the Consolidated railroad, is the class orator, and his subject is "The Responsibilities of Educated Men." He was the winner of the Ten Yen prize at the junior exhibition in 1893.

The class poem, which is said to be of unusual merit this year, is by Edward Bliss Reed of Holyoke, Mass. Mr. Reed has been a member of the Lit and Record boards during his course and has displayed great literary talent.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the class histories will be read on the campus of Thomas-Frederick Davies of Detroit, Albert Nelson Cheney Fowler of Glen Falls, N. Y., Arthur Judson of Montclair, N. J., and Edward Bliss Reed of Holyoke, Mass. It is much to be regretted that, owing to the death of his mother, Mr. Ralph D. Payne will be unable to read his class history. A large number of men from the class will have to be left out on this account, as the other historians have too much on their hands.

The class day committee of '94 is L. L. Stillman, N. S. Walleot, Jr., T. Eaton, Littleworth Smith, William H. Sillman. Directly after the reading of the class histories the ivy will be planted, attended with the customary ceremony and the singing of the ivy ode. At 4 o'clock the anniversary exercises of the Yale law school will be held in Center church. The address to the graduating class will be delivered by ex-Governor William E. Russell of Massachusetts. A brilliant address is assured. The public are cordially invited to attend.

The Townsend prize speaking by three members of the graduating class will follow, after which the meeting of the Yale Law School Alumni association will be held in the common pleas court room.

At 8 o'clock the anniversary exercises of the Sheffield scientific school will be held in North Sheffield hall, and at 9 o'clock the senior promenade will take place in Alumni hall.

On Tuesday at 9:30 a. m. the annual business meeting of the alumni will be held in Alumni hall. The polls will be open in the University library from 10 to 1 o'clock for the election of a member of the corporation to take the place of Dr. Chauncey M. Depew, '66, whose term expires this year. At 12 o'clock the address in medicine will be delivered by Dr. William T. Lusk of New York. At 3 o'clock the Yale-Harvard commencement week ball game will take place, and the glee and banjo clubs concert will be held at the Hyperion at 5 o'clock in the evening.

Following the concert the senior promenade will be held in Alumni hall. Reunions of the classes of '44, '49, '54, '59, '64, '69, '74, '79, '84, '88 and '91 will be held this afternoon at various places in the city.

On Wednesday at 9 a. m. the procession of the graduating class will form at the library and proceed to Center church, where the diplomas will be awarded to candidates for the degrees of A. B., L. B., Ph. B., and M. D., all of whom are required to be present in person, except they are specially excused. The Townsend orations will also be delivered by six members of the senior class in competition for the DeForest prize medal. At 2:30 p. m. the annual alumni dinner will be held at Alumni hall, and from 9 to 11 o'clock the president's reception will be held in the art school.

The freshmen triangular race between Yale, Harvard and Columbia is also down for 5:30 p. m. on this day, and the race between the Yale and Harvard varsity crews and the Yale-Harvard yacht race occurs at 11 o'clock on the morning of this same day. The Yale-Harvard varsity race will be rowed at 6 o'clock Thursday evening, and will be the closing event of the college year. The entries of all the buildings will close at 6 p. m. Saturday, June 30.

North Middle college will be torn down immediately after commencement week. Some of the undergraduates have anticipated things by demolishing many of the windows, and it is probable the graduates will help the good cause along during their stay in the city.

The following are registered at the New Haven house: J. W. Stinson, New York city; J. E. Stinson, New York city; Charles F. Hubbard, Danville, Ky.; G. Savage, Chicago, Ill.; George W. Young, Chicago; E. J. Garvan, Hartford; J. K. Wheeler, New Haven; Miss Bigelow, New York; Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Thompson, Pittsburg, Pa.; J. O. Ferrin, Lafayette, Ind.; Miss Olmsted, Yonkers, N. Y.; John Olmsted, Buffalo, N. Y.; Wells Olmsted, Yonkers; Mrs. M. L. Wood, Dublin, N. H.; B. B. Fowler and wife, Glen Falls, N. Y.; Miss Cheney, Glen Falls, N. Y.; Mrs. Henry S. Robbins, Chicago, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Seymour, Bridgeport, Conn.; Mrs. Henry Eames and niece, Miss Lizzie Eames, Miss Eames, Baltimore, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Clark Thwing, Grand Rapids; Boston; F. D. Daly, New York city; Henry E. Ide, Brooklyn, N. Y.; A. Martin and wife, Gettysburg; Mrs. Andrew Wright, New York city; Miss Florence B. Marvin, Brooklyn; James Wright, New York city; Mrs. H. F. Sheffield, Alton; Mrs. T. E. Stillman and Miss Stillman, Brooklyn; W. H. Butts, Grand Rapids; Miss Charles A. Hall and wife, Brooklyn, N. Y.; F. S. Winston, Chicago; O. H. Mosle, New York city; Herbert Parsons, New York city; Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Thomas, Watertown, N. Y.; Edward S. Scribner, St. Paul; F. L. Woodward of Cambridge, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Cleveland, Miss Lena Cleveland of Houston, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Colander and John A. Colander of Providence, R. I.; Mrs. W. H. Moorhouse, Miss Sybil Moorhouse, L. C. Merrick, Miss Zella Merrick of Chicago, Ill.; Samuel C. Darling, S. Boyd Darling, Miss Darling of Somerville, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Richardson, Auburn, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Earl of New York city; Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Cowles of Boston; Mrs. J. F. Blauvelt, Miss Lillian Blauvelt, of New York city; Mrs. Dudley Wilkinson, Chicago; B. B. Sharpless of Westchester, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Thomas, New York, William Adams Delano, H. P. Driggs, E. G. Taylor, R. C. Neely, G. K. R. Wade of St. Louis, E. G. Mason of Chicago; James M. Townsend, Jr., of New York; Joseph Parker of New York; Mrs. R. Randler, Miss Handler of Oswego, N. Y.; Miss Fox of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. McDermott, Philip R. Shunway, Reginald Fisher, all of Boston.

THE BUFFALO BILL'S EXCURSION.

About 300 People Went to Brooklyn by the A. L. Foster.

About 300 people enjoyed the excursion by the steamer "A. L. Foster" to Buffalo Bill's Wild West show at South Brooklyn last Saturday, and all who went had an opportunity of enjoying themselves to the fullest extent, while there were many from the best families in the city on board. Mayor Sargent and his wife were among the passengers, and they expressed themselves as greatly pleased both with the sail on the sound and the entertainment furnished by the Hon. Mr. Cody.

The steamer left Belle dock promptly at 8:30 o'clock, and although even at that hour the streets had become almost unbearable on account of the heat, when the boat had got well started on its way a most refreshing breeze was encountered which lasted until the boat reached Brooklyn. Excellent music was furnished and refreshments were served on board. Ambrose park, in South Brooklyn, where the show is reached about 2:15 o'clock and at 3 o'clock the performance began. The nature of Buffalo Bill's Wild West is too well known to need much comment. It can be said, however, that no amusement in the country is conducted on as large a scale. Immense crowds of people from "Greater New York" witness the two performances daily. Last Saturday there were fully 15,000 people present. The exhibition given by a company of Riffian Arabians of their manner of riding and national sports was one of the best numbers on the program, while the crack shooting of Miss Annie Oakley, Johnnie Baker and Buffalo Bill was also greatly enjoyed.

The congress of the rough riders of the world included troops of horsemen, representing the cavalry of England, Austria, France, Russia, Turkey, Italy, also Cossacks, Bedonks, negroes, Indians and a detachment of United States cavalry.

The show was over shortly after 5 o'clock and the boat was advertised to leave at 5:30, but on account of not being able to obtain water in the usual manner, was obliged to go some distance to procure it. Being thus delayed the boat did not arrive at New Haven until 1 o'clock.

The next excursion from this city will be on Saturday, July 7.

The next excursion from this city will be on Saturday, July 7.

The next excursion from this city will be on Saturday, July 7.

The next excursion from this city will be on Saturday, July 7.

The next excursion from this city will be on Saturday, July 7.

The next excursion from this city will be on Saturday, July 7.

The next excursion from this city will be on Saturday, July 7.

The next excursion from this city will be on Saturday, July 7.

The next excursion from this city will be on Saturday, July 7.

The next excursion from this city will be on Saturday, July 7.

The next excursion from this city will be on Saturday, July 7.

MET DEATH IN THE WATER.

THREE WERE DROWNED YESTERDAY TWENTY-FOUR HOURS.

Brakeman William F. Sullivan Stuck Head First in Mud—Angelo Nicolo Drowned in Mill River and Ten-Year-Old Charles Lynch in the Quinnipiac.

The third death from drowning within twenty-four hours occurred yesterday morning about 11 o'clock, when William F. Sullivan of South Boston was drowned in the harbor near the Wilkesburge docks. Sullivan with a party of friends went in swimming about 10 o'clock yesterday morning. After swimming about a short time he came out of the water, climbed up on to the dock and dove off into the water. Sullivan struck the water head first. The tide was on the ebb and the water in consequence very shallow. In consequence Sullivan dove head foremost in the mud and was unable to extricate himself from his position. When his companions saw that he did not rise to the surface they hurriedly swam to his assistance and succeeded in extricating him from the mud, but not until life was extinct. The body was pulled out of the water and carried to the dock, where Medical Examiner White was summoned. After a brief examination the medical examiner decided that death was due to accidental causes and gave permission for the remains to be removed to Sisk's undertaking establishment on Grand avenue.

Sullivan was a freight brakeman on the Consolidated road and ran between this city and Boston. He arrived here on his train about 6 o'clock Saturday night, and would have started off again this morning. He was about twenty-six years old and resided in South Boston, where he leaves a widow and two children. His father is also a resident of South Boston, where he keeps a livery stable. A sister of the deceased lives in Deyton, Mass. Sullivan's body was found in the harbor near the Wilkesburge docks, and was a member of the local branch of the Switchmen's Mutual Aid association. Word was sent to his relatives in Boston by the members of the association as to what disposition should be made of the remains, but up to a late hour no reply had been received. The remains will be sent to Boston to-day.

While bathing in the Quinnipiac river near Lewis bridge, about 10 o'clock Saturday morning, Charles Lynch, the ten-year-old son of William Lynch of 10 Atwater street, got in beyond his depth and was drowned. Lynch, with another lad named O'Neil, went into the water and played around in the shallow water near the bank for some time. Finally they waded out a short distance further, when Lynch threw up his hands and disappeared under the water. It is supposed that he must have waded into a deep hole and sunk from sight. O'Neil attempted to assist his companion, but Lynch's body did not rise, and all efforts at assistance proved futile. Neither of the boys could swim. The body was recovered yesterday morning.

Angela Nicolo, an Italian living at 416 East street, while bathing in Mill river, in the rear of Merwin's packing house, early Sunday morning, was drowned, and his body was not recovered until late yesterday morning. Nicolo, who was not an expert swimmer, ventured out beyond his depth and was unable to reach the bank again. His companions rushed to his assistance, but Nicolo had sunk before their arrival.

KNIGHTS OF THE GOLDEN EAGLE. Grand Annual Meeting of Supreme Castle Opens To-Morrow.

The annual meeting of the supreme castle of the Knights of the Golden Eagle will be held in this city to-morrow and Wednesday. The general entertainment committee from the local lodges held a meeting at Savin Rock yesterday afternoon and completed the arrangements. The committee is composed of Past Chief Harry Leigh, chairman; Past Grand Chief F. L. Trowbridge, secretary; Past Chief J. W. Hutt, Past Grand Chief and Supreme Representative W. C. Lambert, Past Chief James D. Vanderbilt, Past Chief T. H. Sucker, Noble in Chief B. E. Gayer at Winthrop castle and Past Chief W. S. Compton.

The supreme officers will arrive on the train this evening and will be at the Tremont house, which is to be their headquarters. Supreme Vice Chief Jacob H. Aull of Baltimore, accompanied by his wife, will arrive by boat and will be met by Noble in Chief B. F. Gayer and taken to the Tremont.

This evening the supreme officers will be entertained by Martha Washington temple No. 2, Ladies of the Golden Eagle, at their rooms in the Courier building.

Tuesday morning the supreme officers will be escorted to the lodge room of Winthrop castle, where the sessions are to be held. Mayor Sargent will deliver the address of welcome. In the evening the officers will be tendered a banquet by the local castles at the Tontine hotel.

Wednesday in the morning the officers will be given a carriage ride about the city. At 3 p. m. the session will be held. In the evening a public installation of the officers-elect of Winthrop castle by the supreme officers will be held in their castle hall, corner of Chapel and Union streets.

The supreme castle is composed of fifty members, and they represent over $6,000 members.

An entertainment and exhibition will be given at Trinity M. E. church, Thursday evening next, at 7:45 o'clock, under the auspices of the Eleventh company, Boys' Brigade. Miss Jessie Dyer will give two recitations. The Hospital corps of the Fourth New Haven company, Boys' Brigade, will give one of their novel exhibitions, and the First company of the East Pearl street church will give a fancy drill. There will also be exercises by the Eleventh company, music, recitations, etc.

An entertainment and exhibition will be given at Trinity M. E. church, Thursday evening next, at 7:45 o'clock, under the auspices of the Eleventh company,