

DIVERS GO DOWN TO RESCUE MEN

meaning that there was no longer possibility that life remained on board the S-4 and that no more signals might be looked for.

Two other submarines, the S-3 and the S-5, were at anchor in the inner harbor, a mile and a half from the scene of the disaster.

A. P. Boat at Scene

When the Associated Press boat pulled alongside of the Falcon, Diver Tom Eadie was ordered to that an attempt would be made to send a diver over as soon as the Falcon was lined up with the submarine tender Dushnell and the minesweeper Lark. The mine sweeper Mallard which had taken part in previous operations was not in the line.

Eadie, who was the first diver to go down to the S-4 last Sunday, said the rescuers would attempt to tap a hole in the hull of the submarine at the torpedo room and at-

On Sunken S-4

One of the sunken submarine S-4's ill-fated crew of 40 is Frank Snizek, torpedoman. Married only a month ago, Snizek planned to spend his Christmas furlough with his bride in their Ridgefield Park, N. J., home.

WHERE SIX MEN OF S-4 WERE TRAPPED

(U. S. Navy Photograph)

Here is the forward compartment of the submarine S-4 in which six men are believed to have met slow asphyxiation while desperate efforts were being made to save them. It was from this compartment that messages were tapped by Lieutenant Graham N. Fitch to divers outside, as the S-4 lay on the ocean's bottom, begging swift rescue. In the center are four torpedo tubes. Navy officials hoped to supply the imprisoned men with water, food, and bottles of oxygen through these tubes, but stormy weather prevented divers from carrying out this plan.

Each an airline. This will require the use of underwater floodlights, such as were used in the S-51 salvaging operations. It will be necessary to weld the tapping machine to the hull. The machine is so constructed that when the hull is punctured and the drill withdrawn a valve automatically is closed. The airline is then screwed on and air forced in.

Sea Calm Today

The sea off of Wood End was flat in the early morning, but as the hours passed it grew choppy and threatened once more to hold up all diving operations. The operation described by Eadie, officers said, required the best water conditions.

The salvage fleet was reinforced early today by the arrival of the Derrick Lighter Colossus in tow of the tug Resolute and the naval tug Mohave. The lighter carries a larger crane than the lighter century which arrived yesterday.

Both teams remained at anchor in Provincetown Harbor where the three big pontoons brought here from Brooklyn navy yard to aid in raising the S-4 were moored beside the naval tug Wandan.

The coast guard destroyer Paulding which rammed and sank the S-4 last Saturday and later reached the inner harbor, was deserted today by the coast guard destroyer Tucker, which had been acting as her convoy. The Paulding was preparing to leave for Boston under her own power. Most of her oil had been removed, bringing her crushed bow above the water line.

HELD FOR RECKLESSNESS

As a result of a collision about 12:30 today on Stanley street, between Ibbell's corner and Gillette's corner, Herbert R. Newton, of 47 South street, Hartford, was arrested by Officer W. S. Strolls on charges of reckless driving and failing to have an operator's license in his possession. Newton was driving towards New Britain and a truck owned by Benjamin Dunn, of 447 Windsor street, Hartford and driven by Joseph Baron, of 137 Nelson street, Hartford, was going in the opposite direction when the machines collided.

According to Baron, Newton was driving fast and recklessly and was not on the right side of the highway. Newton's car was turned over by the impact but he escaped with only slight cuts on the head. Baron was not injured. Both machines were badly damaged.

Oklahoma Solons Enjoined From Holding Sessions

Oklahoma City, Dec. 21 (AP)—Members of the Oklahoma legislature were permanently enjoined today by the Oklahoma county district court from holding a special session. The court ruled that the self-convened session of the legislature was illegal, that its members cannot meet and that they cannot continue with impeachment proceedings against any state officer. The injunction also prohibits further investigation of state officers.

The permanent injunction was issued to Governor Henry S. Johnston and his attorney, Warren K. Snyder, who filed the suit as governor and tax payer, respectively.

SCHOOL GIRL SUCCUMBS TO ATTACK OF PNEUMONIA

Betty Wilcox, Aged 16, Who Resided at Children's Home, Dies at Hospital.

Unable to combat a third attack of pneumonia with which she was stricken during the latter part of last week, 16-year-old Betty Wilcox, a pupil at the Camp school, died last night at 7 o'clock at New Britain General Hospital, following an illness of four days.

Shortly after the death of her father, George E. Wilcox, in July, 1925, she was placed in the Children's Home, which is conducted by Rev. John E. Klingberg. Previous to 1925, she had two attacks of pneumonia and physicians told her a third would probably prove fatal. She had told authorities at the home of the warning and of her consequent fears.

She attended school on Thursday, but on Friday at a time when her classmates were looking forward to the end of the day and the beginning of their Christmas vacation, she was in bed at the home. Throughout the day she showed no signs of fever, although frequent tests were made in the evening a fever developed and she was taken to the hospital.

Although the home provided a special nurse for her and every effort was made to ward off a fatality, her condition remained doubtful throughout the week-end. She was born in Waterbury, October 7, 1911. Her only surviving relative is her mother, Mrs. Louis Constable of 18 Lorraine street.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at R. C. Porter Sons, Rev. Dr. John E. Klingberg will conduct the service. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery.

OPPOSES NEW FIRE CHIEF

Councilman Samuel Sablosky this afternoon made public a letter received from A. Gross urging the councilman to vote against creating a position of third deputy chief in the fire department when it comes before the council tonight. The writer decries the plan as a political move and points out that, if passed, it will place a chief in charge of each two companies, a condition he argues, that does not exist in other cities.

ADMITTS HE KILLED LOUIS BERNHARDT

Fred Matelich, 65, Says He Fired Fatal Shot in Indianapolis Killing

Indianapolis, Dec. 21 (AP)—Fred Matelich, 65, confessed today that he fired the shot which killed Louis Bernhardt, Jr., 21, here last night after the youth, whom he did not even know, had helped him across a traffic light in street. Matelich could assign no reason for his act. Detectives said he apparently was suffering from hallucinations. Bernhardt was walking with three young women in the western part of the city when he noticed Matelich standing on a corner, apparently confused by the heavy traffic. "I will go ahead and help the old fellow across the street," he shouted as he hurried away from his companions, who heard him say to Matelich: "I will help you across." Taking Matelich's arm, Bernhardt led him safely through the traffic to be rewarded with the bullet that ended his life as they stepped to the sidewalk.
