JOTTINGS

(By D. J. L.)

It takes a heap more nowadays to convince a man...

Rambler ask, "How can a man work a typewriter and keep his trousers creased?"

Stupidity to some isn't a falling, it's an acquiescence.

And why not? Maybe we'll ask some producing friend the answer...

And then again some folks would never seem natural unless they were stupid.

Vaudeville seems to be a matter of are you or are you not working.

There's many a good man beneath a shabby hat and many a fool all dolled up.

Some day we hope to get a clever last line.

THE REVIEW OF THE RIALTO

(By Dixie Hines)

New York, May 21—Last week saw the departure of many plays and the gloom which appeared to pervade the workers for the Victory loan.

Of the plays "Moliere," "The Unknown Purple," "Cappy Ricks," "A Prince There Was," "Bonds of Interest," and the unhappy Spanish company at the Park Theatre...

The new plays added to the Broadway group last week included a timely and tuneful musical comedy, "She's a Good Fellow" which possesses melodic merit and exhibits a clever cast of players...

THE AUDIENCE

It is quite acceptable for what it professes to represent.

The announcement is made this week by Richard G. Hendon and his associate, Frank Taylor Kintzing...

The French Players, another French enterprise, will be formed for a trans-continental tour early in the season.

"Who Did It?" is the title selected for the melodramatic farce by Stephen Champlin which Lyle D. Andrews and Walter N. Lawrence are preparing for a rather quiet entry into New York next week.

Madame Marguerite Sylva has been recalled to the Palace Theatre for a return engagement after an absence of but two weeks.

"Oh, Boy" after two solid years of activity and success, was brought to a close last week and the members of the company responsible for this success have entered other fields of activity.

George Broadhurst is presenting "A Crimson Alibi" this week in Baltimore.

CAN'T BE US.

It was during the interval and the principal comedian of the show was being bombarded by a reporter, who came from the office of a paper which rarely made truthful statements.

"I tell you what you want, old chap," he said to the journalist. "What you really need is a bishop on your staff."

"Whatever for?" said the puzzled reporter.

"Well," answered the comedian, "some of the statements in your paper are badly in need of confirmation."

TODAY'S ANNIVERSARY. Slow's Chronicle relates that on May 21, 1382, there was a great earthquake in England, at nine of the clock, fearing the hearts of many; but immediately afterward and this was sung all over England. It treats the earthquake as a great warning to an overcareless people.
