Their Sail Boat Capsized: They Took Turnas Clinging to the Bottom—They Also Shared Life Preserver—Bishop, Cardin and Waters Add to Story of Thrilling Experience Told in Yesterday's Farm.

New Haven, May 11—Monday's storm left many of the people of New Haven in a state of great distress. The storm lasted for several hours and caused much damage. The people were left without power and water. The storm also caused much damage to the city's infrastructure.

In one of the most tragic incidents of the storm, a sail boat capsized. The boat was carrying several people, including two children. The people were clinging to the sides of the boat, trying to stay afloat. The keeper of the Breakwater noticed them and alerted the authorities. The boat was eventually found and the people were rescued.

Furthermore, the storm caused much damage to the city's infrastructure. Many houses were damaged and some were even destroyed. The storm also caused muchdamage to the city's power and water systems. The people were left without power and water for several days.
