As the result of hazing four of the younger students of the Taft school for boys, all of whom are the sons of prominent men of the country, and one of whom is John N. Garfield, son of James R. Garfield, secretary of the Interior, were suspended from the institution to-day. The boys suspended are: Kenneth Montague of San Francisco, Fred Andrews of New York, Henry Fournes of Pittsburg, John N. Garfield of Washington, D. C. Three of the students will be gone for six weeks, while young Garfield is suspended for only three weeks. Three of the malefactor were members of the regular football team and Garfield was center on the second team. Everything was quiet about the school building when the older boys went to the rooms of the new men and, taking them from their beds, without giving them time to dress, led them to the wash room, which is on the lower floor, and there "paired them off." This part of the programme consisted of giving them boxing gloves and allowing them to test their prowess on one another. The fun was at its height when J. S. Dutcher, a master of the school walked in.

Hartford—The train that left Hartford for Springfield at 4:28 o'clock yesterday afternoon in charge of Conductor Miller was delayed for five minutes because a herd of cows decided to cross the track at Wilson station just at the moment that the train was passing that place. The train stopped for the cows, but not before two of them had been struck and killed. The cows belonged to a Mr Anson.

Marlborough — Raccoon hunters, who were going through the woods in the northern part of the town Wednesday night, found the skeleton of a man in a section of woodland near the Glastonbury line. The man had been dead perhaps a year, as all the flesh had disappeared from the bones and the clothing was in fragments. In what remained of the clothing was found a dollar watch, 60 cents in money and a jackknife, but nothing else which would tend to identify the remains.

Manchester—George L. Wilkinson will leave town Sunday and on Monday will start the manufacturing of acetylene tanks of his own invention. Mr Wilkinson has invented many different acetylene contrivances, but was unable to get them onto the market owing to financial conditions. An East Hampton man has become interested in the new tank, which is to be used on automobiles, and has come forward with the money. A place is being fitted up in Cobalt where the tanks are to be made.

Greenwich—It was learned late last night that the burglary here in connection with which the New York police arrested two suspects, was in the residence of W. W. Hyde, who lives on Field Point road. The jewelry stolen was the property of Mrs Howard Morton, daughter of Mr and Mrs W. W. Hyde, who is visiting her parents. Mrs Morton was called to the telephone at dinner time last night and she left the light burning in her bedroom after she had answered the call. After dinner she returned to her room and found that the light had been turned out, and that her jewelry was missing.

Glastonbury—About 9 o'clock last night Michael Wierdak, aged 30 years and unmarried, called at the home of Peter Rusha, aged 54 years and married, and told the latter that Rusk's dog had bitten him. Wierdak wanted the owner of the dog to make good the damage and dispose of the dog. Rusk had different ideas on the subject and, being of quarrelsome disposition, commenced an argument which led to the death of Wierdak. John Saverock, aged 24 years, was implicated in the murder, it is thought, by Dr H. G. Richards, the medical examiner. His hands showed that he had been in the row and one of the two, either Saverock or Rusk, struck Wierdak in the left side of the neck, severing the artery.

Hartford—There was a high old time in a home in the center of the city about 4:15 this morning. The man of the house was awakened by a chorus of screams and exclamations and descended in slightly garmented array to the first floor. He made out in the ghostly dark the form of an intruder and closed with the man, contriving to get word to the police at the station, from which the patrol was sent in hot haste to the theater of the war. After the smoke of battle lifted the intruder was discovered to be a well known friend of the family, who had in some mysterious way entered the house in the early evening and found the atmosphere so composing that he had gone quietly to sleep in the front parlor. Awakening in the early morning he had unwittingly aroused the ever watchful owner, and the adventure followed. Explanations ensued and the intruder was released from the cool-
