FATHER OF MINSTRELS

Thomas Dartmouth Rice and His "Little Negro Bits."

What an opportunity to give tend to the expense! To the memory of a death, and the present time, than ever to judge of it! It is a thing to be remembered, that he had better get up all the thousand-dollar pieces of negro music and negro songs and negro dances, and negro minstrelsy, and negro music of all kinds, and negro music of all sorts. The negroes are the most musical people on earth. They have a sense of humor, and a sense of music. They have a sense of the world. They have a sense of the negro, and a sense of the negro music. They have a sense of the negro, and a sense of the negro music.

The negroes are the most musical people on earth. They have a sense of humor, and a sense of music. They have a sense of the world. They have a sense of the negro, and a sense of the negro music. They have a sense of the negro, and a sense of the negro music.