

CRUISER TACOMA TO LEAVE WAYS

Invitations Out for the Launching of War Vessel.

City of the Northwest to Send Down a Big Delegation.

Invitations to the launching of the sheathed protected cruiser Tacoma are being sent out by the Union Iron Works and it is likely that one of the largest crowds that ever witnessed the launching of a war vessel in this port will be present. The day selected is Tuesday, June 2, and the hour 6:30 p. m.

It was intended that the ceremony should take place earlier, but in deference to a request from the citizens of Tacoma the date was changed.

A large delegation of prominent merchants and city officials from Washington has signified its intention to be present. An excursion in a chartered steamer has been arranged for and a big party is coming by sea.

The Tacoma people are taking a great interest in the cruiser and have opened a subscription for a silver service of a valuable character to be ready when the vessel goes into commission.

By permission of the Navy Department Miss Julia Naomi Harris, a very beautiful and popular society belle of the Puget Sound city, will do the christening. His Honor Mayor Louis D. Campbell of Tacoma will represent the municipality and there will be several merchants as representatives of the Tacoma Chamber of Commerce.

The new cruiser, besides being a powerful vessel of war from her heavy armament and capacity of defense, is notable as the first great cruiser built in Pacific waters whose hull is protected by copper sheathing, which is expected to prevent all marine growths from impeding the normal speed of the vessel.

All unprotected iron vessels have to be drydocked and cleaned once every nine months. The Tacoma, with her copper sheathed bottom, will not require docking often than once in five years under ordinary conditions.

May the joys of the fair give pleasure to the heart, even as Jesse Moore "A. A." Whiskey warms the cockles of the stomach.

CHICAGO, May 23.—Ex-Constable Martin Harty, charged with the murder of James Hart on September 8, 1901, was to-day found guilty of manslaughter.

MADNESS MARKS HER CAPTURE

Marie Miller Creates a Scene in Foyer of Occidental.

Shrieking and Kicking She Is Carried Off by Her Father.

Clasped tightly in her father's arms and attended by her mother, little Marie Miller of Chicago, whose insane antics furnished the only excitement the passengers on the Occidental experienced on their voyage over from Japan, took her departure from San Francisco last night.

With her parents she left at 8 o'clock by way of the northern route, but before leaving she entered a small-sized panic in the foyer of the Occidental Hotel. Since the termination of her trip across the Pacific on Thursday, Marie and her parents have been occupying apartments at the Occidental and during the greater portion of the time they have remained in seclusion.

In fact, Marie had not been allowed to leave her room, in which she had been constantly watched by either her mother or father. So quiet had the child been during her stay at the hotel that other guests were beginning to believe that her insanity aboard ship was due to the effects of the voyage and many awaited a time when they hoped to see Marie make her appearance in a normal condition.

Henry Miller paid his bill yesterday and engaged a carriage to carry himself and family to the ferry in the evening. Shortly after 7 o'clock the Millers left their rooms and entered the elevator, in which they were lowered to the office floor with a number of ladies and gentlemen, who remarked that Marie appeared anything but a child with a deranged mind. The elevator had barely reached the lower floor, however, before the occupants were startled by a wild shriek, and a second later Marie was sprawled on the floor, screaming at the top of her voice and going through all the paroxysms of the thoroughly crazed person. She rebelled against the efforts of her parents to place her upon her feet and for a time great excitement prevailed among the guests who were assembled in the foyer.

Finally, apparently realizing that his only recourse was to force Marie, grasped his struggling daughter in his arms and rushed out of the hotel, as her screams re-echoed through the corridors.

With his heavy burden he entered the waiting carriage, followed by his wife. Once in the carriage Marie seemed to regain her senses and the trip to the ferry was made without further incident.

his most intimate acquaintances and his least ardent friends of his departure.

He was booked on the Campania, on which he occupied one of the most luxurious suites, as "Mr. Alfred Campbell." It was not until after he had conferred with his counsel, John Delahanty, who met him at the pier, and learned that the fact of his departure from England had already been announced in the newspapers, that he admitted his identity. He then announced that he would go to the office of the District Attorney and face any charges that might be pending against him there.

Canfield drove to the Criminal Court building, where he was paroled until Monday morning.

District Attorney Jerome will not say whether or not there is a Grand Jury indictment against Canfield.

PROMISES TO REMAIN THREE MONTHS LONGER

Filcher Resigns as Manager of State Board of Trade, to Take Effect on September 1.

Commissioner J. A. Filcher of the State Commission to the St. Louis Exposition tendered his resignation yesterday as manager of the State Board of Trade. As it appeared that the board was anxious to retain his services Filcher agreed not to have the resignation take effect at once, but to remain in the service as manager until the first day of September.

The reason for resigning was the great amount of work attached to the gathering and preparation of exhibits for the St. Louis exposition, a labor which will constantly increase for many months and will require undivided attention. For three months Filcher will remain as the executive officer of the State Board of Trade and will keep in close and constant touch with the committee of the State from which the exhibits for St. Louis will come.

Arthur R. Briggs was selected by the board to take the position of manager which Filcher will relinquish at the date mentioned.

OCTOGENARIAN SENT TO PRISON FOR STEALING

AGED LAWBREAKER, WHO WILL PROBABLY END HIS DAYS IN JAIL.

Expects to End His Days Where He Has Spent Many Years.

N 82 years, almost blind, who is 82 years of age and has spent nearly half of his life in prison under fourteen different names, appeared in Police Judge Fritz's court yesterday on a charge of petty larceny. He gave his name as James Hart. He stole an overcoat from the residence of Mrs. M. Maloney, 1348 Devisadero street, on Friday afternoon and was arrested by Special Officer Delmar. He was recognized at the dock by Detective Sergeant Bainbridge, but not till after the judge had sentenced him to serve three months in the county jail. Bainbridge would have asked the judge to make the sentence six months, as the old man is now very feeble and might as well end his days in jail, but sentence had been pronounced before he was recognized.

Hart, as he calls himself now, came to this State in July, 1848, and was among the first settlers in Sausalito, where he used to supply fresh water to vessels. He first came under cognizance of the police in 1865 and in May of that year was sentenced to serve six months in the county jail for petty larceny. Since then he has served seven terms in the State penitentiaries for burglary and grand larceny, two of them being of ten years each, and he has also served a number of terms in the county jail for petty offenses. His last sentence for a felony was in June, 1896, when he was sentenced to serve ten years in Folsom penitentiary for burglary. He was discharged on December 15 last.

The police say he is not a daring burglar, but is a criminal from instinct. He was no sooner out of prison than he was in trouble again and seemed to have a liking for the life within prison walls. He is a pitiable sight now, as he is almost totally blind and is so feeble that he can scarcely walk.

A New Banking Corporation Begins Its Career in a Busy Locality.

Monday at 10 a. m. the newly organized Golden State Bank will open for business its handsome counting room at 1518 Polk street. Spanish cedar has been used for the walls, while the counters are of mahogany. The building is a handsome structure, with a deep red of walls and wainscoting. The most substantial furniture that the market affords has been purchased and two modern safes of the Herring Hall Company, provided with a double time locks, offer perfect security.

Convenient for customers, the cashier's desk is in the front of the banking-room, while the president's office, connected with a private apartment for the board of directors, is in the rear. The capital of the bank is $100,000, but when the new building, plans for which are now being prepared, is completed the capital will be increased to $250,000.

The permanent home of the bank will be at the corner of California and Polk streets and will be a modern type and as complete a banking building as there is in the city. Safe deposit boxes will be installed in the basement. George H. Shafer, an old resident of the city and a capitalist of large means, is president of the Golden State Bank. C. H. Pool, who has had many years of experience in every branch of banking, is cashier, and H. J. Satterly is assistant cashier. The new bank will conduct a general banking business and no doubt will be warmly welcomed in the busy neighborhood, where facilities offered by this institution have long been needed.

ANNIVERSARY FALLS TO-DAY

Cathedral Mission to Celebrate Important Event.

Will Expend Five Thousand Dollars for Needed Improvements.

Eight years ago to-day the first service of the Cathedral Mission of the Good Samaritan was held in a storeroom located opposite to the spacious chapel which now constitutes its home. From that day to this no single day has passed by in which its doors have been closed.

To thousands of the destitute and unfortunate the mission has been a welcome resort. The sick have been relieved and the poor helped. Thousands of men and women have been given employment and encouraged to better living and the mission has quietly pursued its beneficent work crowned with the blessing and goodwill of those, who without its active assistance, would have suffered want or may have relapsed into crime or despair.

The history of the mission has been one of strenuous endeavor and there has been no time that the demands upon its resources have not been greater than its ability to satisfy. The erection of the new chapel greatly enlarged its capacities for relief, but with expansion the calls upon it extended steadily and could only be partially satisfied.

The time has now come when the Episcopallians in the city have determined to extend the inadequate facilities of the work and to provide the means for placing the mission on a basis that will assure its future for all time.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

EXTENSION WORK.

Work on extension has been in preparation for a long time. The lot upon which the mission stands has been recently acquired at a cost of $13,000 and now belongs to the diocese. Over a small debt remains for future provision. In addition churchmen have subscribed several thousand dollars to effect necessary improvements. The plans contemplate the addition of a basement under the whole church that will be ten feet in height, and the building of a concrete wall to replace the pile foundation which was used before on account of lack of means. The new basement will afford another story for the mission and in it will be placed a splendid bowling alley of regulation size, billiard-rooms, kitchen, bath-rooms with three tubs with showers, lavatories and a complete dispensary, operating-room with x-rayed walls, oculist-room, diet kitchen and a spacious waiting-room for patients on one side and workshop, locker containing forty closets, dressing-rooms for boys and girls, dark room for photographers and laboratories for those who frequent the gymnasium. This last is to be provided with complete paraphernalia and greatly improved in every way.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

ROOMS FOR CLUBS.

The second floor will be entirely rearranged so as to increase the size of the Sunday-school hall and allow a separate room for the different clubs. The club-rooms will be furnished and adorned by the members.

Considerable alterations will be made in the chapel. The present chancel will be extended and the choirroom at the rear transformed into a sacristy. The dispensary will then be used as the choir-room.

The cost of the improvements will probably exceed $5000, and of this amount $2000 is in hand, mostly raised within the mission. More money is promised and by the time the improvements are completed it is expected the necessary balance will have been raised.

The services at the mission to-day will be particularly joyful. A review of the work of the past week, to-morrow, showing the present condition of the mission and the prospects for the future. The music will be appropriate for Whit Sunday.

YOUTHFUL VOICES THRILL AUDIENCE

Columbia Park Boys' Concert Proves Their Training.

Boyhood again and sweet voices and the deep, cool bend in the river, with the sunlight glinting through the trees, were brought back to the audience at the concert given by the chorus of the Columbia Park Boys' Club last night at Steinway Hall. Unfortunately standing room was not at a premium and those who did not buy tickets missed a glorious opportunity to renew their youth.

Sixty little fellows out of the 1200 who can march as well as sing, and who were especially remarked upon by President Roosevelt, formed a choir to render musical selections under the direction of Sidney S. Peixotto. The accompanist was Fred Maurer Jr.

The youngsters were ranged up in tiers and the director seemed to have hypnotic influence over their voices during the rendition of the many ballads and other selections which were given by them.

Beyond the charm of everything else was the selection of themes for the youthful voices. These included old-time songs that have become mosaics in the memory of the present generation and which appeal even to those unversed in musical lore. To these the youthful enthusiasts lent all their heart and the old favorites seemed to send the audience into ecstasies.

Especially deserving of mention was Master Appleton's rendition of Moore's "Believe Me if All These Endearing Young Charms," and the "Lass With the Delicate Air," given by Master Prang.

But beyond these was the pure welling of youthful voices in almost perfect accord, thrilling out music which all knew and understood, and which showed beyond question the careful training which the triumphant vocal organs of these youths have undergone. Following was the programme rendered:

A roundelay of the XVI century, Lidgely; solo by Master Penulena, "Come Live With Me and Be My Love," Bishop; "O Come With Me in the Summer Night," Van der Stucken; solo by Master Appleton, "Believe Me if All These Endearing Young Charms," Moore; "Turn Ye to Me," old Highland melody; solo by Master McKee, "Early One Morning," old English ballad; "Dodo," a lullaby, folk song of the Pyrenees; solo by Master Norton, "Nymphs and Shepherds," Purcell; solo by Master Hammer and chorus, "Walk, Jawbone Walk," old negro melody; "Fallin', Fallin'," Van der Stucken; solo by Master Prang, "The Lass With the Delicate Air," Arno; (a) "Memento," (b) "Night Thought," Cornelius; solo by Master Talbott, "The Birds' Noel," Chaminade; "Untrue," Silcher; solo by Master O'Day, "Should He Upbraid," Bishop; "Die Lerche," Rubinstein.
