ORANGE CULTURE.

How They Do the Business in Florida Now.

Orchards That Cost $50 to $250 to Fertilize.

The Difficulties of the Industry in the Land of the Everglades.

San Francisco, Feb. 21st.

The West Coast Orange Association, of which Mr. Louis Leavitt is president, has issued a statement in which it is made known that the district over Los Angeles county, where the oranges are being produced, is ready for the harvest. The fruit is about ripe and will be ready to be gathered in about ten days. The fruit is said to be in good condition and the grower is looking forward to a good crop. The association has been working hard to get the growers to co-operate and to improve the methods of culture. The association has been very active and has made many improvements in the past year. The fruit is said to be in good condition and the growers are looking forward to a good crop.
