

DROWNED GIRL'S BODY IS HELD FAST IN KELP

Alito Ghirardelli's Father Secures Japanese Divers to Engage in Search

Tangled Formation at Carmel Is Believed to Prevent Remains From Rising

[Special Dispatch to The Call]

CARMEL, Aug. 22.—Under the surface of the sea, entangled in the rank masses of kelp, the body of Miss Alita Ghirardelli, the San Francisco artist and society girl, is now thought to lie, uncertain of release and restoration to her relatives. Miss Ghirardelli was drowned while swimming off the Carmel beach last Monday, and although every means has been undertaken to recover the body of the beautiful girl, the utmost efforts have been futile.

D. Ghirardelli, father of the dead girl, who is a wealthy chocolate manufacturer of San Francisco, has offered a reward of $500 for the recovery of his daughter's body. Fearing that this incentive might not be sufficient, Ghirardelli has brought a crew of Japanese divers from San Simeon to Carmel to search for the body.

WILL DIVE IN KELP
The divers are experienced and hardy abalone fishermen, adepts in the waters of the bay and the ocean. The crew uses its boat as the kelp belt and there the men dive successfully.

The kelp formation off the Carmel beach is peculiar. The belt stretches in a great semicircle across the mouth of the Carmel river. It forms a barrier below the surface of the water, and the belief is that the body of Miss Ghirardelli was carried out against it and became entangled in the slimy meshes of the seaweed. The divers are experienced in handling the matted weed. They are diving to the bottom of the bay and working upward, exploring the tangled growth. As yet their efforts are unavailing.

BODY PROBABLY ENTANGLED
The friends of the deceased girl share the grief of her parents, and every resident of Carmel is always on the lookout for sight of the body if it should be cast up by the waves.

It is believed that if the body were entangled in the weeds it would have risen to the surface and have been washed ashore on the beach.

"CAMEO KIRBY" PRAISED AS CLEVER PRODUCTION

New Play Is Second Production of Tarkington and Wilson

"Cameo Kirby" is the second play written in collaboration by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson. It followed their other play, "The Man From Home," and is duplicating the tremendous success of their initial effort at play making. It will be produced at the Van Ness theatre, with Dustin Farnum in the title role. The play is said to be one of the best seen for many seasons, and it has been highly praised by the audience.

Good Bill at Chutes
Marino, the 350 pound German who allows himself to be run over by a 70 horsepower automobile containing seven passengers, is the feature of the new bill at the New Chutes this week.

Appearances would indicate that a 70 horsepower machine would have no weight with Marino, but it is evident that he notices the weight when the machine passes over his body. Le Roy, who makes a desperate slide for life from a platform 150 feet high, hanging from his teeth all the time, is another feature of the new bill.

The Royal Marine band, conducted by Major Hunter, is a great attraction. The devil's slide is a hit, with not only the youngsters, but with the older folks. The human roulette wheel continues with his ride down the chutes on a bicycle enveloped in flames. Towers, the high diver, makes a dive of 97 feet into a tank containing only four feet of water. Miss Florence Spray also makes a high dive.

Woman Charged With Kidnaping
Appeals to Court

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 22.—Sheriff Norton and Deputy County Attorney Berlinger went to Jefferson City today with a regular appeal to the governor in charge of the Kansas City police in charge of the mother, Mrs. Bleakley, and John Gentry, charged with kidnaping Marian Bleakley here yesterday.

Last Conflict Begun
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 22.—Marian Bleakley, the St. Louis world's fair incubator baby, that was kidnapped yesterday and later recovered, will remain in charge of the Kansas City police until Wednesday, when the Jackson county circuit court will be asked to decide whether the mother, Mrs. Bleakley, or Mrs. Barclay shall have the child.

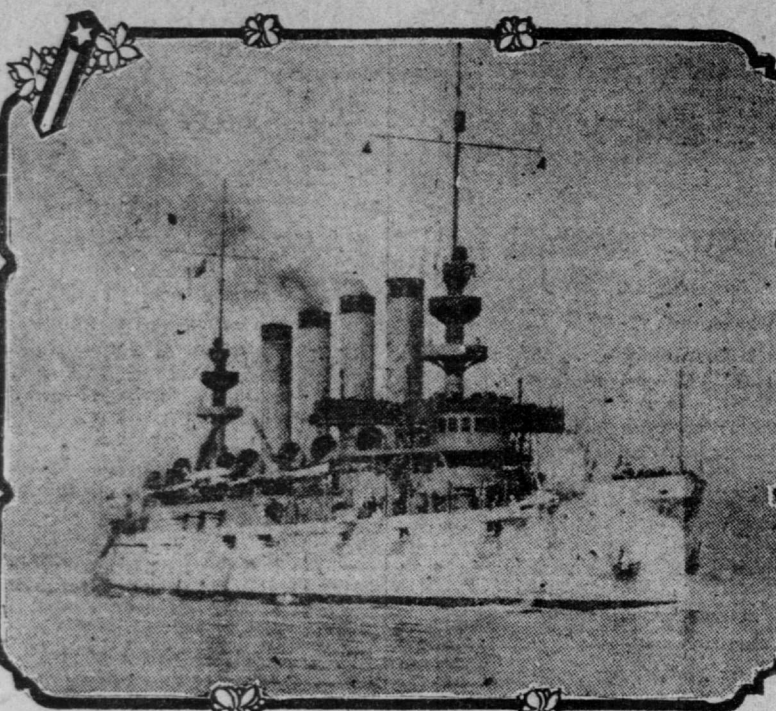

To prevent the Kansas sheriff taking charge of them when the requisition papers arrive, Mrs. Barclay and Gentry secured a writ of habeas corpus from Judge Porterfield today.

The order provides that Inspector Boyle shall bring the baby and the prisoners into court Wednesday afternoon.

"I am very well satisfied with your Missouri laws," remarked Mrs. Barclay in a sell in the matron's room. "I have spent $12,000 in what has so far been a futile attempt to gain possession of the child. This is positively the last time I shall try to regain her. It has to be settled one way or the other now."

Cruiser St. Louis Makes Record Run From Hawaii

MAKING A RECORD

Cruiser St. Louis, which arrived in port yesterday, making record run for warships from Hawaiian islands, covering the distance in 4 days 22 hours.

MAKES A RECORD RUN FOR WARSHIPS

Cruiser St. Louis Steams From Hawaii to Port in 4 Days and 22 Hours

The United States cruiser St. Louis, which arrived yesterday scored the star record of warships in making the run from the Hawaiian Islands to this port. It made the voyage in the remarkable time of 4 days and 22 hours and this time has only been beaten by the Japanese steamship Tenyo Maru, which made the run on its first voyage in 4 days 18 hours and 46 minutes, reaching here June 20, 1908. Captain Gleaves says the vessel was not forced at any time.

The St. Louis has 16 boilers, but only 15 of these were used and these under natural draft. It steamed up at the rate of 17 knots an hour.

The St. Louis sailed from San Francisco June 19 for Honolulu. It remained at that port until July 4, when it sailed to the leper settlement. It then sailed to Suva, where it remained from July 16 to July 22. Captain Gleaves says that at Suva they were handsomely entertained by Chief Justice and the English colony, and that the crew was given a large smoker. Dinners and banquets were given the officers of the American vessel.

July 22 the St. Louis reached Samoa. After a short stay at that port the vessel sailed back to Honolulu, which point it reached August 7. From Honolulu the cruiser went to Hilo. At that place the officers and crew went ashore, and from there went to see the wonderful volcano of Kilaua. The mountain was in a state of unusual eruption and officers and crew were amazed at the grandeur of the scene and the magnitude and volume of the flames, burning lava and smoke being thrown into the heavens. After a few days at Hilo the St. Louis started for this port.

The St. Louis will go to Los Angeles September 9 to take part in the ceremonies attending the completion of the breakwater. It will return to this port to remain in the harbor until after the Portola festival. After that the cruiser's movement are uncertain.

He was taken to the central emergency hospital, where he was found to have had scalp wounds. His skull may possibly be fractured.

LIMITS CODE WORDS TO FIVE LETTERS

Western Union Strikes at Condensed Messages by Fixing
Rates on New Basis

Short Circuits Mutilation of Language by Lovers
and Merchants

The Western Union and the Postal telegraph companies will, after December 1, short circuit the mutilation of the English language by use of telegraphic codes, an order having been issued that after that date any word not to be found in a standard dictionary will be allowed only five letters and the telegraphic rates will be made on that basis.

This, the officials of the company say, has become absolutely necessary, the commercial telegraph world having been swamped with combinations of letters so fanciful, so wondrous in their dazzling array that an operator is driven to nervous prostration almost in sending them over the wire, and that they are greatly hampering the working capacity of the company.

Thus, a brain fagged operator having thrust before his blurred vision the following cold blooded and brutal assault on etymological science, "Pbytyqerq torbjkw" is at a loss to know whether it is an extinct animal, a printer's "pi" line, an intentional periphrasis or budding insanity on his part. In his heart of hearts he knows. It probably means "Send me two cars per freight" by first outgoing freight. But that does not help him in his agony.

IT MYSTIFIES MAY
Why merchants and others do not use words in the English language is a mystery to Adolph H. May, local superintendent of the Western Union. He says that by the elimination of such horrors the merchants will be given a better service, not alone in the matter of rapidity of dispatch, but also in regard to the elimination of errors.

The business world is not the only object of assault. Lovers there be, newly married wives and flurried husbands, fiancées with a brand new diamond ring on the left hand, who in times of separation pine and grow pale unless they receive a telegram something like the following:

What this means to the recipient is a matter of romance and poetry. What it means to the operator is a matter of sizzling profanity. Hereafter the lover who desires to say that "as he gazes at the stars dotting the velvet heavens and heard the gentle sighing of wind passing through the pines, his thoughts harked to her who by the glance of her eye and touch of her hand had lifted him out of the prosaic state of single contentment into the exalted haven of erosal doubts," must use Noah Webster or pay space rates.

CODE OF LOVERS
The lovers codes are usually arranged by the woman in the case and it has been the experience of the company that a woman who seriously sits down to combine letters into a code evolves a something so black in its hideousness, so horrible in its ingenuity that it would drive to raving frenzy all but the particular little clay god to whom it is sent. A woman's "No" may mean "yes," but the experience of the telegraph company is that a woman's "rtupozn" means four closely written pages of persiflage, a dissertation on her emotional tendencies and 10,000 kisses.

In the face of the order the merchants are revising their code books. What the lovers are doing in a mystery unto themselves.

TRIED TO COLLECT FARE WITH A STOMACH PUMP

Young Woman Swallows $5
Piece She Owed Chauffeur

A handsomely groomed young woman who gave her name as Virginia Wellington came into the central emergency hospital at 2 o'clock yesterday morning with the complaint that she had swallowed a $5 gold piece. With her was a taxicab driver who seemed greatly concerned.

The treatment suggested was too severe for Miss Wellington's taste, so she declined to remain. The taxicab man thereupon implored her to submit. He pronounced it her duty to submit, even at serious discomfort to herself. It then developed that Miss Wellington had with her only the $5 she had swallowed, with a taxicab bill to pay of equal amount.

Miss Wellington left the hospital in company with the chauffeur, who was still arguing.

YOUNG EASTERNER DRAWS THOUSANDS

"Stomach-Man's" Success Is Shown by Growing Number of His Converts

His Theories Receiving Strong Support From San Franciscans

Beginning the eighteenth week of his stay in San Francisco, the young Cooper "stomach man" was consulted by hundreds of persons yesterday at his headquarters at the Owl drug store in the Phelan building. His remarkable theories have aroused increasing comment in the bay cities, and he is kept busy explaining them. He said yesterday:

"My belief that 95 per cent of all ill health is caused by stomach trouble is borne out by the number of ailments that a common sense treatment of the stomach will cure. Most of the droopy, peevish, half sick people you meet are suffering because their stomachs are slowly starving and poisoning them."

"After a hard day's work at his office, with almost no exercise, a man's system is at its lowest ebb of strength. He eats a hearty meal, mostly of starchy food and meat. Since the stomach is unable to take care of the mass of food, the starches ferment. This fermentation spreads to the meat, which literally rots, causing the same results as eating partly decayed meat. The whole system is poisoned. The effects range from la grippe, headaches, constipation, catarrh of the stomach, to chronic dyspepsia, and even rheumatism."

"Instead of giving the stomach a chance to get rid of the poisons the sufferer usually keeps right on eating heartily and begins to choke. He may take tablets for constipation, which make matters worse. He may take nerve remedies, blood purifiers, tonics or stimulants. All the time the poor stomach is struggling along, weakened by drugs and pumping poison into the blood from decayed food."

"Get the stomach back to its normal work and nature will take care of the rest. What the food you eat is changed into healthy nourishment. The blood races through your veins, feeding nerves and muscles, eliminating waste matter, clearing away unhealthy, clogged conditions. You couldn't be sick if you tried."

"I consider that my remarkable success here and in the east is due to my simple, natural methods. My treatment goes to the root of the trouble. It gets the stomach working properly, and unhealthy conditions vanish as if by magic."

"Many of the men and women in San Francisco who have come back to thank me for their radiant health, would not want their names made public, but there are hundreds whose names you can publish."

MRS. F. A. WILDER, 380 Twentieth avenue, had catarrhal stomach trouble for twelve years; food fermented in her stomach, causing gas to form, with the most excruciating pains; had headache, dizziness and chronic constipation; after taking Cooper treatment food digests perfectly; good health restored.

W. E. LEVICK of Webster street, suffered 35 years with catarrh of the stomach; was skeptical of the "stomach man," but on friend's urging gave him a trial, now can eat anything; is completely well again.

SIDNEY M. CLARK, 723 Andover avenue, suffered from indigestion; tried Cooper's treatment; found his general system was built up and health restored.

MRS. J. F. MURRAY, 479 Claremont avenue, Oakland; sick two years with catarrh of the stomach; could not sleep; did not know a well moment; under Cooper's treatment recovered perfect health.

MRS. C. W. DAVIS, 1624 Fifth street, Berkeley; husband had stomach trouble for years; suffered untold agonies; tried many remedies without result; took course of Cooper treatment and now is entirely well; she also took the remedies with great benefit.

Make Record Salmon Catch,
One Weighing 43 Pounds

F. W. Bohle of 1045 Fifty-fifth street, Oakland, and J. B. Phillips of 504 Market street, and O. L. Scott of 2923 California street, returned yesterday from a fishing cruise in an 18 foot launch off Bolinas bay, and with a fish story. They had caught, Bohle being the lucky man, a salmon weighing 43 pounds, 43 inches long and 2 1/2 inches around the body, which they say is the largest salmon they have a record of in these waters. But this was not all. There were three salmon besides weighing 40 pounds, one 35 pounds, one of 25 and another of 20, and three smaller ones, making in all 273 pounds of fish in their haul.

The men left at dawn and returned at 2 p. m. They went through the heads, fishing the muddy water off Willow camp in a rough seaway. A No. 18 line and an automatic spoon hook were used.

The fish are of the kind found off Monterey bay and up the Sacramento river. They are thoroughly game, according to the fishers, and were landed with a cast after a hard struggle. Several large fellows got away during the effort to land them.
