Kate Stoddart.

HER CONFESSION IN CONTROVERT.

BROOKLYN, August 26.

It is said the disagreement between Chief of Police Campbell and Commissioner Jordan, which led to the retirement of the former from office, was in reference to Kate Stoddart, the self-confessed murderer of Goodrich. Campbell believed the mystery was solved by that confession, whilst the Commissioner believed that confession was merely made to shield Roscoe. There is much discussion in police circles regarding doubt of the truth of Kate Stoddart's confession, and it is said the confusion merely consisted of answers to persistent questioning of Chief Campbell when she admitted the killing of Goodrich. Commissioner Jordan is still searching for Roscoe. It is reported that during Kate Stoddart's early life, she was a schoolmate of Roscoe's, and this acquaintance was renewed in New York when Goodrich appeared on the scene. This Roscoe is believed to be the one who killed Goodrich and the man whom Jordan is searching for. The Commissioner is said to be following up clues which eventually will lead to his arrest.

The End of the Modoc Matter.

With the approval of the sentences of the Modoc captives by the Executive and War Department, the question of dealing with the Indians of that tribe is ended with the United States authorities here, so far as the six murderers who are to be hanged on the third of October are concerned; but others of that tribe are charged with serious offenses, for which the Oregon authorities have requested from this Government their delivery into the custody of the State officials, the Indians now being held by the General Government.

The conduct of these Indians, preceding as well as subsequent to the capture and trials by court-martial of the leaders in the plot and assassinations at the lava beds last April, has been officially communicated here, and it is certain the proper department will give due consideration to the request that they be given up to the State authorities. What the definite result will be is not at present known, though it is probable that within a few days the whole matter will be decided.

Curious Means Seizure of Diamonds.

New York, Aug. 27.

A heavy seizure of diamonds was made on board of the steamer City of Chester, which arrived from Liverpool. Among the passengers of the steamer was N. Lancaster, a wealthy citizen of Chicago, for the last few months has been engaged in prospecting in the gold diggings of South Africa, for diamonds. He brought with him nearly two hundred diamonds, cut and uncut, some of great size, and valued at about $30,000. The seizure was made by the Custom House officers, who state that Lancaster denied having any valuable goods in his possession. Lancaster says he had no intention to smuggle the goods, and claims there is no duty on the uncut diamonds seized. It is said he will visit Washington, to demand the restoration of his property.

Political News.

The Chester County Republican Convention yesterday adopted a resolution endorsing the Senator to Delaware county, and appointed committees to meet those from Delaware. The Convention nominated E. W. Bailey and Peter Geary for Assemblymen, and Jesse E. Phillips for County Treasurer.

General Butler opened the Republican campaign in Massachusetts, by a speech at Worcester, last night. His appearance was greeted by "hoarse cheers faintly given" and a "colley of hiss." He was heard with attention, however, and portions of his speech were applauded, and he closed "without interruption from any source." A San Francisco dispatch says the Democratic Convention in that city made another attempt, on Monday night, to "harmonize on a Legislative ticket," but without success.

The BALLOON EXPEDITION.—From the midst of a multitude of several thousand persons, the Philadelphia Evening Herald's balloon ascended Monday afternoon—starting into the upper atmosphere from Forty-first street and Powelton avenue. It was under the charge of Professor Light, a well-known aeronaut, who was accompanied by Mr. Richard Chism, of Norristown. After striking several air currents, with various directions, the balloon was lost to the vision of those gazing at it from our city, and it landed safely in New Jersey, about eight miles from Atlantic City, as will be learned from the following despatch:—

EGG HARBOR, Aug. 25.—9.21 P. M.—Struck township, Burlington county, seven miles east of Egg Harbor, all right. Everything in perfect order. Travelled fifty-two miles in fifty minutes. RICHARD E. CHISM.

The carrier pigeon, released from the cage near the city returned to its home in the afternoon bearing a ribbon indicating that it had left the balloon at a height of 4600 feet. Another pigeon arrived yesterday morning, having left the balloon at a height of 8000 feet. The observations are said to be "the first on record," but have not yet been published.

A RAILROAD CASE.—Indiana is suing one of her railroads for a sum of money claimed to be due the school fund. The State law under which the action is brought is that when the aggregate amount of dividends declared amount to the full sum invested and ten per cent. per annum thereon, the Legislature may so regulate the tolls of the company that not more than the amount of dividends shall be declared on the capital employed, and the residue of the earnings shall be paid over to the school fund.

Sunday evening, while the wife of Professor Lightner, of Carlisle, was visiting her sister, at Clearfield, accompanied by her little boy, aged about six years, a dog belonging to a neighbor, named Mills, sprang upon the child, threw it down, and almost tore it to pieces. The breast, side, throat and arm are frightfully lacerated, and it is now lingering in terrible agony, with no possibility of relief or recovery.

The drill of the San Francisco cadets in New York last night was witnessed by nearly 5000 persons, including General Shaler and other military officers. The movements of the cadets are said to have been executed with a promptness and precision "unknown to the National Guard and regiments" of New York city.

The Italian steamship City of Limerick ran into the new stone pier, near the Battery, in New York Harbor, yesterday, and "knocked in the massive masonry to the depth of three feet." She is said to be uninjured, but will take no passengers on her return trip.

The ship St. Louis, Captain Pierce, from Liverpool for Philadelphia, with a general cargo, struck on Cape Hen during a dense fog, on the 19th inst., and sank. Her crew escaped and have arrived at St. John.

Ex-Secretary Wallis is in good health, and bids fair to live another half century. He is now 71 years of age.

Captain Joshua Binney, a well-known shipmaster of Baltimore, died on the 23d inst., aged 68 years.

Savage Life in Africa.

HUMAN SACRIFICES AMONG THE AMAZONS IN DAHOMEY.

An Englishman, Mr. J. A. Skelchey, has just returned from Dahomey, on the west coast of Africa, and is now furnishing some interesting illustrations from his sketch-book to the Illustrated London News.

For six months Mr. Skelchey was the guest of the King, by whom he was hospitably treated. He is the only white man that has been admitted into the private apartments of the King. There is no town in Dahomey. The capital is merely one of the high officers and the servants; while the Amazons reside within the palace in long, barn-like buildings immediately outside and surrounding the King's private apartments. At each of his nine palaces there are four thousand of these Amazons. Before Mr. Skelchey was admitted to the palace he went through ceremonial lasting three days, during which he was created a prince of the royal blood, a duke, and a general of the army, but not of the Amazons. He was then permitted to see the various customs. He was an eye-witness to the grand annual ceremonial when the principal human sacrifices take place. For the sacrifice called the Men-hoo-who, the King reclines on a wicker-work lounge in his palace. He wears only a blue cotton robe, as he considers his dignity so great that he can afford to dress in ordinary clothing. Neither the King nor the members of the royal family ever dress in gaudy attire. Above the King's head an umbrella is extended, and this is gorgeous with scarlet, blue and yellow fixtures, cut with a knife from velvet, silk and damask. The Amazons sew the pieces together so as to form emblematic devices. The bird is indicative of royalty. None but the princes of Dahomey are allowed to adopt it. The top of the umbrella is surmounted by a wooden ornament, representing a man with a bird in his hand. The Amazons are seated round the King. Between them and the people a number of bamboo rods are placed in a line on the ground. Any man who crosses one of these rods suffers immediate death. Soldiers bring in the victims—lately taken in war and generally old men. They are gagged by means of a stick with grass rope wrapped round it, which fills up the whole mouth, and is tied at the back of the head. Their hands are fastened together, and they are carried on the soldiers' heads. Their bodies are entirely naked, save a single cloth around the loins. Conical hats are kept on their heads until just before decapitation.

The prime minister lies prostrate, and receives in that position a message from the King to the victims. This message is to be carried to the father of the present King, who died about nine years ago. For their subsistence on the way he gives them each a bottle of rum and a head of cowries. The men are then taken to a platform twenty feet high in an adjacent courtyard; there they are cast headlong, still bound to their baskets. The executioners then cut off their heads and exhibit them to the people, after which they are placed on wooden altars to furnish the place of the victims. Three days afterwards the heads are taken within the palace where they are cleaned by the Amazons, and are then used for State drinking cups, ornaments for drums, flagstaffs and other purposes. The bodies of the victims are dragged by the crowd through the market place, and are finally thrown into a ditch outside Abomey, where the hyenas soon make short work of them. Thousands of skeletons are in this ditch, but not a single skull. The men appear to have no fear of death. Mr. Skelchey states that he has frequently looked into a man's face just at the moment when he was about to have his head cut off, and not a muscle seemed to indicate either emotion or fear. The present King is more merciful than his predecessors were. He is endeavoring to reduce the fearful sacrifices of human life entailed upon him on his succession to the throne by the customs of the country. He generously spares the lives of half the number of victims intended for sacrifice. No women are ever killed for sacrifice, although they, like the men, are brought out on the heads of the Amazons, to be carried around the courtyard.

SALES OF LIQUOR BY DRUGGISTS.—Judge Dean, at the recent term of the Blair county (Pa.) court, in sentencing the Tyrone druggists for selling liquor without license, took occasion to remark substantially as follows: "Druggists are authorized to sell liquor for medical purposes, subject, however, to the risk of indictment. A physician's prescription is not of itself a safeguard for the druggist. If the latter, even on the prescription of a regular physician, sells liquor to persons of known intemperate habits, or to those who are known to use liquor as a beverage, he is liable to indictment, and if found guilty will be punished to the extent of the law. In short, in the opinion of the court, a druggist who sells liquor for any purpose whatever, or upon the prescription of the most eminent physician in the county, does so at his own risk."

In San Jose, California, a young Chinaman, employed as a cook by Mr. Orion Dubois, fell in love with his employer's daughter, aged 17. She did not respond to his passion. He obtained possession of her photograph, and she demanded its return. On Monday he handed back the picture, at the same time firing three shots at her from a revolver. The steel in her breast turned aside the bullets, and she escaped injury. The Chinaman finished by blowing out his brains.

AMERICAN IRON FOR ENGLAND.—We learn, incidentally, of two lots of Lake Superior pig iron, one of 2,000 tons and one of 6,000, ordered at the furnace for shipment to England. One of the lots is ordered nominally for Montreal, but it is understood to be for English consumption. Our information is so nearly direct that we entertain no doubt of the facts as stated.—Pittsburg Commercial, 23c.

An Immense Fortune.

Two Ladies of Modoc, Georgia fall heir to Treasures Millions of Dollars in France.

(From the Atlanta Constitutionist August 22.) We stated about a week ago that it was reported that an old lady living near Washington, Wilkes county, in this State had fallen heir to eight millions of dollars in France. Mr. Benjamin, after thoroughly investigating the case, wrote to Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Chambers that there was not a question of doubt in regard to their claim, and advised them to come on to Europe at once. This property descends to those ladies through a Mrs. Rennauleau, grandmother of Mrs. Campbell, and great grandmother of Mrs. Chambers. Mrs. Campbell's maiden name was Magniere, and that of her mother, Madeleine Rennauleau. They are connected with one of the best families in France.

It appears that a certain party who resided in the United States and for a number of years transacted business for several old families of the French speaking families living in this city, in connection with their indentures from the French Government for land in Louisiana, became so much interested in the case that he was induced to go to France to be claimed. He, therefore, hurried post-haste to that country, hunted up a remote branch of the Rennauleau family, and succeeded in marrying one of the female members of it. He then presented proofs of the death of all of the American and nearer branch of the family, and claimed the estate for the distant branch into which he had married. Mr. Benjamin, in his letter to Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Chambers, remarks that this man will soon find out that the dead can be resurrected. By the terms of an agreement between Mr. Benjamin and the two ladies, the former will take one-half of the whole amount of the estate, and the other half, six million dollars, will then fall to Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Chambers, the share of each being the real little sum of three million dollars. Of the entire amount of two millions, seven millions and a half are in the bank of France, and four millions and a half in the hands of the Rothschilds, the celebrated bankers.

Mrs. Chambers was in the city yesterday making arrangements for the voyage of her aunt and herself to Europe. This will be accomplished by a lawyer from Savannah, and Mr. Antoine Piquet, of this city, who goes for the purpose of identifying them. They will also carry papers signed by old citizens of Augusta, proving their identity. They will leave for Europe, we understand, next Tuesday.
