52 REPUBLICANS IN SENATE, 218 IN HOUSE; CLAIM DUPONT ELECTED FOR SHORT TERM

CHANGE OF FIGURES GIVES DUPONT LEAD OF 73 FOR SHORT TERM

Discrepancy in Fourth Ward Returns on Unofficial Sheet Reduces Bayard Vote Considerably and Overcomes Early Majority of 79

REDUCES LONG TERM LEAD TO 411

Check up of the unofficial returns of Tuesday's election shows that Senator T. Coleman duPont has been elected United States Senator for the short term from election day to March 4 next by 73 majority. An error in entering returns for the Third district of the Fourth ward in the figures printed yesterday has been discovered that reduces the vote for Thomas F. Bayard, Democrat, by 156 votes, and reduces the vote for Senator duPont by 8. This turns the majority of 75 credited on the unofficial figures to Mr. Bayard in the State for the short term into a majority of 73 for Senator duPont on the face of the unofficial figures. The State Judiciary sitting as a board of canvass at noon began a tabulation of the official vote. The change in the Fourth ward figures also reduces the unofficial majority in the State for Mr. Bayard (Continued on Page Sixteen.)

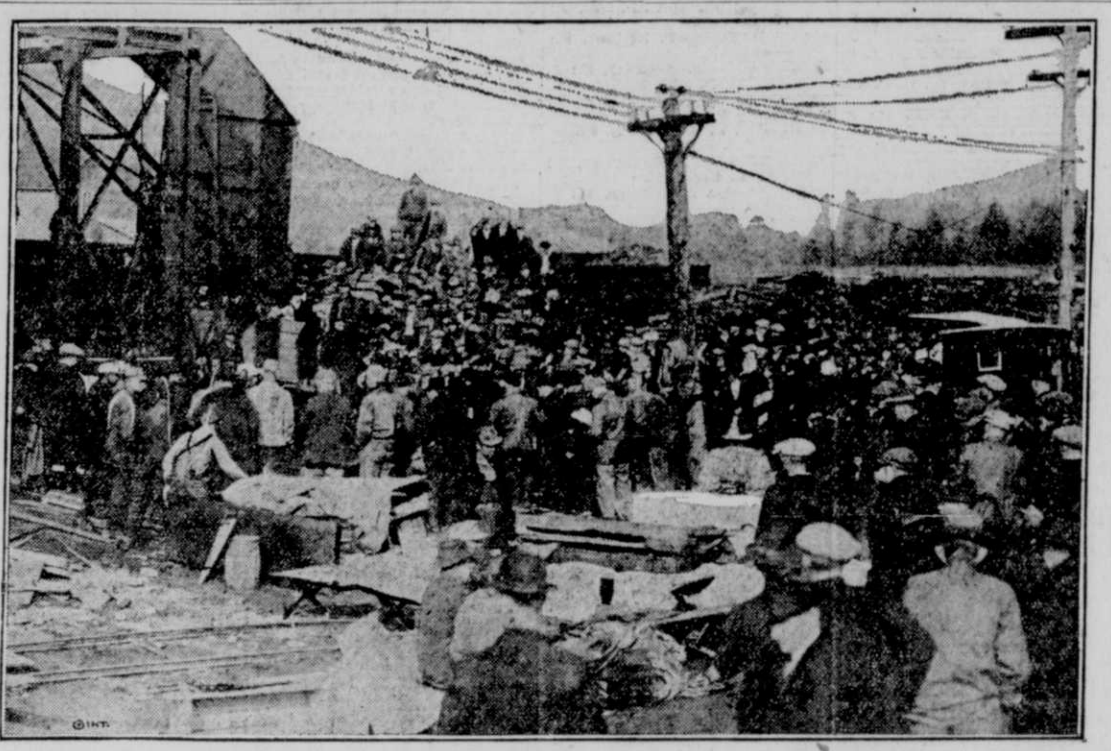

MOTT TALKS DUAL CRIME WITH COURT

Jersey Prosecutor Will Present Hall-Mills Case Early

2 MEN, 1 WOMAN MAY BE INDICTED

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 9.—(United Press)—Wilbur A. Mott, special prosecutor in charge of the investigation of the murder of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, met Justice Charles W. Parker, of the Supreme Court and Alfred B. Gibbs, foreman of the Somerset grand jury in the Somerset county court today. Further delay in arresting the alleged slayers of the Reverend Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, developed today. After a conference of prosecutors and detectives at Somerville today, special prosecutor Mott stated no decision had been reached as to when the grand jury would meet to hear the evidence—but that it would not meet this week and there would be no arrests this week. Officials investigating the murder declare that the jury will be asked (Continued on Page Sixteen.)

The Death Pit at Spangler Where Eighty Lives Were Lost

Relatives and friends eagerly scanned the faces of the dead brought from the pit of the Reilly mine, at Spangler, Pa., where the greatest disaster in American mining history took place. This photograph shows the mouth of the mine pit, out of which rescue parties carried the bodies of miners who had met death from poison gas or fire. Bodies are shown covered with canvas on hastily constructed litters. The men equipped with gas helmets are members of rescue parties hastily rushed to the scene.

REPUBLICANS IN CONTROL OF THE NEW CONGRESS

LODGE HOLDS LEAD OF 8,000 FOR SENATE

Frazier, Non-Partisan, Wins Senatorship in North Dakota

BOSTON, Nov. 9 (United Press).—Democrats insulated today upon a recount of the senatorial vote, although final figures indicate that Senator Lodge's plurality over Col. William A. Gaston, the Democratic candidate, was more than 8,000. Petitions for a new tabulation are being prepared. Republicans claim that a recount will have no effect upon Lodge's plurality, but the Democrats and the Massachusetts Liberal Republican League, which supported Gaston, refuse to concede the election, and say that a recount will send their candidate to the Senate. FARGO, N. D., Nov. 9 (United Press).—Latest returns indicated the election of Lynn J. Frazier, Non-partisan, to the United States Senate from North Dakota, by a majority of about 800. With 738 precincts out of 1,118 in the State yet to elect, J. F. T. O'Connor was leading by 734. O'Connor's lead was being constantly cut down and all of the precincts to be heard from are in heavy Non-partisan territory. O'Connor's chief supporters privately conceded his defeat.

Senate and House Balance of Power, However, Seems to Be in Hands of Radicals. Republicans Lose 10 States, Democrats 2. Wets Add to Representation in Both Houses

REVISION MAY SHOW CHANGES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 (United Press).—Virtually complete election returns which will not alter very far the final official count today, showed that the tremendous Republican Congressional majorities of 1920 had been slashed to such narrow margins that Republican control on much important legislation is certain to be jeopardized. In the Senate the Republican plurality will not exceed ten and may be less. In the House the Republican strength will only be about 19 more than the combined strength of the Democrats and the so-called radical parties. The Senate stands 52 Republicans, 42 Democrats, one Farmer-Labor one doubtful. Returns yet to come probably cannot affect more than two seats—the doubtful contest being in Utah, and a slight chance existing in North Dakota that the Republicans will win. The House stands 218 Republicans—an exact majority of the 435 members; 204 Democrats, four of other parties including one Socialist, one Independent, and two Farmer-Labor; with seven districts doubtful or too incomplete to justify a prediction. Most of the doubtful districts were favoring Democratic candidates at last reports. These figures would insure the Republicans nominal control of the House organization, carrying with it the speakership and the chairmanship of committees. But the working margin would not insure passage of Republican administration measures favoring Democratic candidates at last reports. In the past, the Representatives of the so-called radical parties generally have voted with the Democrats. In Utah, Senator King was not yet certain of his re-election though he was leading in early morning returns, by more than 1700. North Dakota's returns were not complete because of bad weather and consequent delay in getting the count in from remote rural sections and it was therefore uncertain whether J. F. T. O'Connor, Democrat, or Lynn J. Frazier, had won. Returns now indicate the election of L. J. Frazier, Non-Partisan, by 8,000 majority. Returns exact today seemed to make conclusive the defeat of two more Republican stalwarts in the West—Senator McClellan, of Colorado, Washington, who was ousted by C. T. Dill, his Democratic adversary, and Senator Frank B. Kellogg, Minnesota, who will be succeeded by Henrik Shipstead, Farmer-Labor Non-Partisan League candidate. Kellogg's defeat by Shipstead was one of the most surprising upsets of the campaign, although it was evident for some time that Kellogg (Continued on Page Two.)

CAPTAIN HAUGHAN TO COME AGAIN

Although Wilmington's new $2,000,000 Marine Terminal, on the south bank of the Christina, will not be finished and formally opened until after the new year, it began business today by unloading a cargo from the three-masted schooner "Maid of France." The vessel sailed up the Delaware yesterday afternoon, inbound from Annapolis, Nova Scotia, anchored for a time off the mouth of the Christina, while its skipper, Captain Creighton Haughan, visited the Customs House in the Engineer Building, Sixth and King streets. This formality over, Captain Haughan piloted his ship to the Terminal and made fast alongside the 1210-foot quay, now rapidly nearing completion. He made the brief trip through the mouth of the Christina and to the Terminal without the least difficulty. The "Maid of France" draws only 14 and one half feet of water, while there is from eighteen to twenty feet in the (Continued on Page Eight.)

NEAR EAST WAR SEEMS CERTAIN

LONDON, Nov. 9 (United Press). Declaration of martial law in Constantinople is imminent, it was understood on good authority here today. Allied high commissioners were said to have decided on this drastic step as the Turkish Nationalists openly defied Allied warnings and continued to extend their authority. British soldiers have been killed at Constantinople, apparently in a clash with Turks, and the situation is extremely grave, according to latest advices from the Near East. Mustapha Kemal sent a note to the French high commissioner reiterating his demand that the Allied forces be withdrawn from Constantinople and that Allied warships be removed from their strategic positions.
