CHANGING THE MAIDEN NAME.

When Lucy Stone married Henry B. Blackwell, it was agreed between them, and so formally recorded, that she did not surrender or change her name. The reason for this was the desire to protest against any form of inequality or inferiority on the part of woman. In many cases, it would be valuable to the woman if the husband could take the wife's name. Take Olive Logan for an instance. In a note to a New York paper she mentions her desire to use her maiden name as a nom de plume, by which to be known in her capacity as a lecturer. This is reasonable; her name is part of her professional capital; people have heard of Olive Logan, and recognize her by that name only. Olive Sikes would be a stranger, and to adopt the style of Olive Logan-Sikes would not completely make up the loss of her maiden title.

Similar embarassment often occurs. Here was Caroline Richings, well known and popular. She married Pierre Bernard. It would have been to their advantage for him to have taken her name, not she his, but she followed the "custom of marriage," and we are obliged to call her Mrs. Richings-Bernard. So with Susan Galton. Her husband is Mr. Kelleher, and she is known as Susan Galton-Kelleher. Why not let these ladies retain their maiden names.

The public debt statement for January 1st shows a total, less cash in the Treasury, of $2,243,836,411—a decrease of $4,412,956 since Dec. 1st. Cash in the Treasury: Coin, $111,432,826; currency, $15,861,493. Decrease of debt since March 1st, 1871, $76,870,435. Decrease from March 1st, 1869, to March 1st, 1871, $204,754,413.

The "Americus" ball, an affair in charge of some admirers and imitators of Tammany, and patronized by the professional politicians generally, comes off in Philadelphia, at the Academy, on January 8th. Tweed's Club was the "Americus," (a misery cuse?) and this is aping his ways. Rather a poor pattern, isn't it?

Gold closed yesterday at 109¾. Government securities were irregular—some being ¼@¾ lower, and other ¼@¾ higher. The Philadelphia stock market was active, with an advance in most of the better securities, and closed firm.

Editorial Extracts From the Great Dailies.

PHILADELPHIA'S NEW POLICE.

(From the New York Tribune.)

Philadelphia can claim the credit of having tried a bold experiment in municipal police arrangements. The old police force was bad and had proved itself untrustworthy and vicious on more than one occasion; but with a new board of city officers came a new police organization, and New Year's Day saw the whole of the old force removed, and a new one put in. Now, if the newly appointed guardian of the city's peace enter upon and discharge their duties satisfactorily and without causing any perceptible jar to the machinery, Philadelphia will have shown her sister cities how a clean sweep can be made when occasion requires.

JUDGE BARNARD'S BAILMENT OF CONNOLLY.

(From the New York Tribune.)

After all the gratulation of friends of reform over the arrest and detention of ex-Controller Connolly on criminal charges, that individual is at large on the nominal bail (as to those indictments) of $15,000. Judge Barnard, yesterday, decided that the defendant Connolly could be bailed in the sum of $1,000 each on the fifteen criminal indictments. This may be justice and equity; but it is too much like the New York variety of those articles for ready acceptance. Has Judge Barnad been seized with the madness of hoping that, having failed his friends when they needed him, he can now regain their confidence by proffering aid when it is impotent? He may well be alarmed at the apparent rareness of his disgraceful ejection from the Bench he has dishonored; but he can only deepen his shame without bettering his prospects by opening a fresh alliance with the fling.

The President's Character.

WHAT COMPETENT MEN THINK.

A Washington letter-writer says:

With all the divergence of opinion about the mental characteristics of the President, it is very notable to observe that those who know him best like him most. The highest estimate of his intellectual capacity has come from enemies—Frank Blair, for example.

But take the opinion of men who are about him. George S. Boutwell, Secretary of the Treasury, says that Gen. Grant is a man greatly underestimated by many. He has stated several times that, in cabinet, the President almost always leads; that he has distinct ideas, and valuable ones, on all the multifarious topics of importance which come under consideration, and that, instead of being a silent or stupid man, in any he is ready, quick, and almost always well and even minutely informed. Gov. Boutwell is not regarded as at all enthusiastic, and even he warms when speaking of the President.

Secretary Robeson, a very shrewd and keen-sighted man of affairs, declares that Grant is the leader of his cabinet on all important topics. In the main he has taken the initiative on all the principal features of his administration. Mr. Robeson's praise is re-affirmed by others.

George William Curtis has several times expressed surprise at not only the comprehension of the civil service question shown by the President, but his very complete mastery of its details. When Mr. Curtis first came he doubtless expected he would have both to convert and instruct the Executive. Of course that gentleman has never said this, but he stated he was very much gratified, as well as astonished, to find Gen. Grant very well posted, not only on our own, but the civil service system of other countries.

Other gentlemen whom I know, well informed on distinct topics, have at all times expressed, in my hearing, their surprise to find the President so well informed on their peculiar specialty. The matter of Ku-Klux outrages, and legislation thereon, is another one of these examples. Senator Scott, or Representative Stevenson, the two members of the investigating committee who may be deemed most thoroughly informed thereon, have said, over and over again, that the President understands the subject better than they do. Senator Scott stated last fall that he was the best informed man in the country on this matter. I could go on and spin this letter out with concurrent testimony, but forbear.

The Age of Cigars.

The question of how old a cigar should be before being smoked, is a disputed one. Cubans like a green cigar. The workmen who ought to know, smoke the cigars as they make them. If you go to a certain well known cigar store in New York, already quite celebrated for its Cuban cigars made in the city, and buy a cigar there, before handing it to you the very courteous Cuban will, with great deliberation, first apply the cigar to his ear.

You ask, "What is that for?" "To see, or rather hear, how dry it is. If too dry it will snap very short. I can hear it. A green cigar is soft and makes no noise." How old ought a cigar to be?" "In two or three weeks, in this climate, a cigar is dry enough; longer than that does not improve it."

Ice in Scarlet Fever.

The Davenport, Iowa, Gazette reports a case of scarlet fever in that city hopefully treated with ice. The patient was a little son of W. Foster, Esq. On Saturday evening, he was so far gone as to be unable to even whisper. The feet were cold, while his head and body were burning with fever.

As a desperate remedy, the attending physician tried what he had read of, but never resorted to, ice bandages about the throat. Relief came in a brief time after the application of the ice, and on Sunday the boy recognized and spoke to his parents in a clear voice. Improvement continued up to Sunday evening with a hope of complete recovery.

EVAN'S DENTIFRICE.

A superior Tooth Powder

composed of the most beneficial ingredients that can be employed in the form of powder for the Teeth.

Hard, gritty, insoluble substances, charcoal, pumice, and cuttle fish bone, for example, although much used as Tooth Powders, are utterly unfit for the purpose. Neither is it sufficient that very fine inert powders, like precipitated chalk (the action of which is entirely mechanical), should be used. A properly constructed Tooth Powder should be free from grittiness; should have an alkaline base, and decided detergent or cleansing properties. It should be mildly astringent and somewhat slightly antiseptic, and needs no "scent" or "perfume." Such a one, fit for daily use, is EVANS' DENTIFRICE.

Facing the Bayonet!

When soldiers face the bayonet, they take the chance of life or death; but when private citizens, deceived by the pretences of unscrupulous dealers, apply POISONS TO THEIR HEADS to change the color of their hair, they have no idea of the terrible risks they run. The first analytical chemists have endorsed one hair dye as "free from everything deleterious to health," viz.:

CRISTADORO'S EXCELSIOR DYE.

Let the wise and prudent stick to that. It imparts shades of color that are perfectly life-like, and is in all respects the very best.

REMEMBER, THE SWORD

is not more dangerous than the lead compounds in the market, and that the EXCELSIOR DYE contains no lead. As a dressing after dyeing, use

CHLORALUM.

A Safe, Odorless, Non-poisonous Disinfectant. The Saline Antiseptic—Harmless as Common Salt.

CHLORALUM has been found to remove bad smells, which are not readily attacked by other deodorisers. A newly-painted room or house is rendered habitable by the suspension of clothes dipped in chloralum or the exposure of basins containing the liquid. Moreover, chloralum removes the strong odor of onions, garlic and other agents, which sometimes affect the sweetness of cupboards, meat safes, and other places in dwellings.

CHLORALUM IN SMALL POX.—The Chloralum Company have received the subjoined important communication:—

Small Pox Hospital, New Street, E. C., February 20th, 1871.

The Chloralum Company.—Gentlemen:—The Patients in my Hospital feel much comfort from the chloralum or the exposure of basins containing the liquid. Moreover, chloralum removes the strong odor of onions, garlic and other agents, which sometimes affect the sweetness of cupboards, meat safes, and other places in dwellings.
