Valuable Farm for Sale.

WILL be sold at private sale, agreeably to the last will and testament of William Lindsey, deceased, THE FARM on which he resided, near Newark, said to contain 137 acres, 30 of which are Woodland—seven Meadow, and the balance arrable. It lays adjoining lands of F. H. Haltzbecker, John Pitner, Zachariah Jones and others, on the road leading from Christiana to Elkton. It is a desirable situation, and well worth the attention of those who are disposed to vest their money in lands. If the above farm should not be sold at private sale, before the 2d day of February next, it will on that day be offered at public sale, at the house of James Fraizer, in Newark, at 2 o'clock, P. M. DELAWARE CITY.

LOTS in Delaware City, five miles below New Castle, are now offered for sale, or to let on ground rent on reasonable terms. The buildings to be erected in the ensuing spring are numerous and extensive, and tradesmen, mechanics, manufacturers and others disposed to make improvements there, may find profitable employment, and make investments yielding a great income for the capital employed.

The Chesapeake and Delaware Canal at its termination in the Delaware river, passes obliquely through the centre of the city-plot; which, from its eligible location promises to become a place of extensive commerce, as well as of great deposite; and must largely participate in the benefits of the Susquehannah trade, that will here after pass through the canal to the Delaware river. The spacious artificial harbor into which the canal opens, offers an important convenience to shipping, in the secure birth which it will afford to vessels at a point whence they may reach the ocean with almost any wind; and the facilities of the place for storing coal, lumber, flour, &c., and shipping them for foreign markets, especially in the winter, when the navigation to Philadelphia is obstructed by ice, do also be of prime importance to the shipping interests. The immediate vicinity of Delaway City furnishes an abundant supply of the best clay; and the manufacture of bricks is now in extensive operation there. Wood and timber of the best quality can be had at the most reasonable terms, and every other material for making good, cheap and profitable improvements. Two lines of steam boats will run daily during the ensuing season between Philadelphia and this place. Passengers will be carried on the canal in packets provided for the purpose, to the west end, whence steam boats will daily convey them to Baltimore. This will be doubtless the cheapest, most expeditious, and most popular route to the latter city.

Every encouragement will be given to persons disposed to build, improve and settle in this place. A plan of the City can be seen at the counting house of the subscribers, or at the house of the agent at Delaware City.
