ALBRIGHT'S Columbian Syrup.

THIS Medicine, for the short time it has been before the Public, has proved itself superior to Paines, and other remedies of such a nature, as to give confidence to the Proprietor, that its efficacy alone will support its distinguished merits. It is the most useful spring and autumn alternative ever yet discovered. It is so perfectly innocuous, that no evil effect need be apprehended from it, when applied agreeably to the directions. It may be given, without any apprehension, to the most tender infant, or feeble adult.

THE COLUMBIAN SYRUP will relieve and eventually remove the following diseases—Necrosis, Caries, (or ulcerations of the bones), King's Evil, or Scrofula, Rheumatic affections of the joints, gonorrhoea, Syphilis, Mercurial, and all complaints originating in the improper use of Mercury; Ulcers of the mouth and throat; White swelling; cancerous, and inveterate Ulcers; discharges from the Ears; diseases of the Skin; Liver complaints; Jaundice, Indigestion, and Debility.

As a general depurative article, or purifier of the blood, this medicine possesses invaluable powers. It improves the appetite, and has the remarkable quality of depriving the skin of that yellow bilious tint, which is so common in bilious constitutions. Besides the diseases above enumerated, it is also recommended as a remedy for that still more disorder, the ulcerated sore head, under which children suffer the most excruciating torments for years.

Whenever a newly discovered medicine is recommended to the public, justice requires that some testimony be offered in proof of its superior remedial powers. The Columbian Syrup has now been used a sufficient length of time, to warrant the declaration, that in a variety of diseases it is a remedy of uncommon virtues. In several cases where large quantities of Painexia and Syrup had been used with only transient and evanescent success, the Columbian Syrup, in a very short time, effected permanent cures.

The following certificates of cures performed by the Columbian Syrup, furnish ample proofs of its superior efficacy over every other popular remedy, even Swann's Panacea, which in the opinion of some of our Professors and Physicians, when first brought up, was a medicine of inestimable value.

The following certificate was received by the proprietor of the Columbian Syrup, from the subscriber. It was the first proof it had given of its superior efficacy over the Painexia.

CERTIFICATE.

My son, George Hinkle, about 13 years of age, was seriously affected with a cancerous ulcer of the throat about three years, which destroyed the tonsils and uvula, and so corroded the fauces and palates, (root of the mouth) that it laid bare the bones, and made its way into the nose. It eventually increased to such a degree, that it caused a free communication between the nose and mouth, so that when any liquid was administered, as coffee, tea, &c. it would immediately return by the nostrils.

I applied to several eminent physicians, but all their efforts to check the disease were in vain. Having heard of Swann's Panacea, I procured some; but after using three bottles of it, and finding my son not benefited by the same, discontinued it.

I now began to be very much alarmed concerning his situation; there appeared no ray of hope left. His eyes were for some time highly inflamed and irritated, and he eventually lost the sight of his left eye. This I impute to administering mercury improperly.

A respectable citizen of Philadelphia recommended me to the use of the newly discovered and valuable medicine, called J. Albright's Columbian Syrup. By the advice of a Physician, the syrup was prescribed; the use of two bottles of which completely eradicated the disease, and performed a perfect cure.

JOHN HINKLE. Of Abington Township, Montgomery co. Penn. Philadelphia, June 10, 1826

The following certificate furnishes a second proof of the superior efficacy of the Columbian Syrup over the Painexia.

CERTIFICATE.

I, Mary Peterson, of Wilmington, Delaware, aged 44 years, was taken with a scrofulous disease about July, 1823, which commenced with a severe pain in the side; and about the latter end of September and beginning of October, I was again attacked, but with a violent pain in my head.

In the spring of 1824, a lump made its appearance on the left side of my neck; during that time, and the ensuing summer, I was relying on medical aid. The lump in the neck shortly disappeared, but in the fall of the same year it ulcerated in the left shoulder, and continued with incessant pain, followed by an enlargement of the breast on the same side of the body; shortly after, two lumps appeared on the left side of the neck.

Two respectable surgeons of Delaware performed an operation in August, and one in October, but to no effect. My situation became very alarming. The pain and torments I endured day and night were indescribable. I had to take large quantities of laudanum to afford me momentary relief.

The affected side of my head was drawn down by the disease, and rested upon my shoulder. The skin increased; my left arm was swelled twice the thickness of its natural state, and the swelling extended down to the ends of my fingers; I could not even bend my finger joints, and for eighteen months I could not move my left arm, but with the assistance of the right.

In September, 1825, I came to Philadelphia, and applied to several eminent physicians, but they gave me no hope of relief. I commenced the use of Swann's Panacea, and continued it until I had consumed nearly four bottles, without producing any effect.

The latter end of April, 1826, I commenced the use of J. Albright's Columbian Syrup, and after using it a short time, the swelling in my arm was reduced so as to enable me to use it freely, and in six weeks I was restored to perfect health.

Philadelphia, June 10, 18 6. Note.—The foregoing case is well known to several of our respectable physicians; and one, particularly, candidly expressed his opinion to Mrs. Peterson, that her disease had extended itself beyond the reach of medicine. It is that gentleman's attention particularly to her certificate.

The following communication was received by the proprietor of the Columbian Syrup, from Gen. Thomas C. Reid, residing in the Northern Liberties, Philadelphia Co. COMMUNICATION.

MR. ALBRIGHT, SIR—I was afflicted with a rheumatic affection of the head for nearly two years, during which time I had tried almost every remedy; but the disease being very obstinate, baffled all medical aid. I was in constant pain and misery during the time I was afflicted.

A respectable physician recommended the benefit of sea bathing; accordingly, in July, 1825, I took a journey to the sea shore to bathe, which in a few days increased the malady to such a degree, as to cause an obstruction in my nostrils, and prevent a free inhalation and exhaling of my breath. The regular course of breathing being thus obstructed, the upper jaw and cheek bone became very sore, and my face appeared to be in a high state of inflammation; my situation became very alarming; my spirits were depressed, and my appetite failed.

I heard of your Columbian Syrup. I procured some of it in a very short time it allayed the inflammation, and I was enabled to breathe freely, my appetite returned, and I was restored to perfect health.

THOMAS SNYDER, Philad. June 23, 1826. No. 375, North Third-st. Philadelphia, 15th March, 1827.

MR. J. ALBRIGHT, SIR—My youngest child, a girl of about two years of age, had, from her birth, been sickly. In the latter end of January last she was taken with an inflammation in the head and mouth, together with a soreness of the gums, and decay of the teeth. A scurf had also formed on the tongue and roof of the mouth, in a few days, a very offensive discharge of matter from the right ear took place. In the time the child suffered the most excruciating agonies, crying day and night.

When my child was in this distressing situation, I was told of the wonderful cures performed by your Columbian Syrup. I procured a bottle, and an happy to state, that after given the child the Syrup about seven days, it slept sound at night, the inflammation of the head and mouth was allayed, the scurf disappeared, the gums were healed, and the offensive smell accompanying the discharge from the ear left it; by this time it broke out into sores all around the ear, but healed in a very short time after.

After the child had taken about two-thirds of the bottle of Syrup, the discharge from the ear gradually stopped, and, astonishing as it may appear, the child is now perfectly cured, gay, and lively.

Since my child has received these extraordinary benefits from your invaluable medicine, my wife has commenced using it in chronic rheumatism, and one of my sons is scald head and sore gums, and from the effects your Syrup has already produced, I have every reason to think that shall shortly be enabled to communicate to you the pleasant intelligence of perfect cures.

ANTHONY MUSICK, Kuncle street, Northern Liberties.

MR. ALBRIGHT, SIR—My son, Stephen, aged 13 years, was taken with severe pain in the instep of his right foot in September, 1823. In October following it swelled very much. A physician ordered bread and milk poultices to be applied, which reduced the swelling. Soon after the cap of his knee swelled considerably; poultices were again applied, which reduced the swelling. A large lump made its appearance on the shin; in a very short time his leg swelled to double its ordinary size, was very much inflamed, and had a purple appearance. The boy suffered the most excruciating pains, and from the loss of his appetite and want of sleep, he became so debilitated and helpless, that he had to be fed like an infant. At length the swelling opened, and produced a copious discharge of matter, accompanied with a very offensive smell. The physician lanced the leg at different times, in various places, and attended him for upwards of three months, and got him so far as to be enabled to move about on crutches. In a very short time the pain almost entirely left him, he could walk very well without the use of crutches, the swelling continued, and the leg broke out into ulcers.

In the summer of 1826, his shin bone became affected, accompanied with a very offensive smell; small splinters of bones would occasionally work out; his legs from the cap of the knee to his ankle, was one ulcerated mass of corruption, and the bone was in a state of rotteness. Physicians who saw the case while in this situation, gave it as their opinion that he could only be cured by laying the leg open to the bone, and taking off the affected parts, which would be a painful, as well as a very dangerous operation.

In November last, I heard of your Columbian Syrup. I got a bottle, and after my son used it about five days, it changed the matter to a healthy appearance, and took away the offensive smell; by the time he was on the use of the third bottle, large pieces of the affected bone came off, some of which were several inches in length, and about the thickness of a dollar; after which the leg began to heal up, and by the time he had used the eighth bottle, he was completely cured.

STEPHEN SNARE, Butenwood, near Sixth-st. Philad. March 20, 1827. The above case of Necrosis, Caries, (or affection of the bones), is considered by several physicians as a very remarkable cure. Some of the carious bones are in the possession of the proprietor of the Columbian Syrup, and may be seen at any time.

Other certificates may be seen at the store of the Agent. Each bottle of the genuine medicine has a label, representing the Eagle and Hydra, with my signature.
