

AFRICAN REFUSES PU-RECOGNITION

Consuls to Remain in Manchuria Under Pretense That Empire Is Non-Existent.

The announced American policy of non-recognition of the new empire in Manchuria was reiterated by Secretary of State Stimson last week as the royal heir of the Manchurian dynasty in China, regarded by the Western World as a puppet of Japan, formally ascended to the throne. The State Department's new demand represents a Japanese attempt to separate Manchuria from the rest of China, to nullify the nine-power treaty and throw overboard the American doctrine of the open door. Whether or not the attempt succeeds will depend to a large extent upon the attitude of other powers, especially Great Britain, and their attitude is not yet fully disclosed.

The new emperor is a tall, thin young man of 26, wearing thick glasses, who has spent all of his adult life in the sheltered confines of the Japanese legation at Tientsin. He is Henry Pu-yi. This is the third time he has been proclaimed an emperor, once at the age of 3 and again at the age of 12. In his previous adventures as an emperor, his domain included from Manchuria but the 18 provinces of China, Tibet, Mongolia and Turkestan, 40 million people and contained 400,000,000 people.

Long Planned Strategem

The attempts of Japan to recreate the Manchurian empire in Manchuria generally regarded as the evolution of a long planned strategem. Henry Pu-yi in the opinion of most observers of Far Eastern affairs has been sedulously nurtured and guarded by Japan for the past dozen years for the role which he is now being called upon to play. The Manchurian emperor, a serious handicapped, the hate of the Chinese people for the Manchurian dynasty and his shyness, inexperience and effeminacy.

Pu-yi fell heir to all the trials and tribulations of the Manchurian when he was only three years old. Born in 1905, he is the son of Prince Chun, son of a daughter of the Dowager Empress Tzu Hsi, a concubine risen to ruler, who provoked the Chinese proverb that when women meddle in politics the state will decay.

Surrounded by pomp and ritual, watched constantly lest he be assassinated or poisoned, fed the sweetened rice gruel by Chinese attendants, his pulse felt by the court physician only through silk gauze, Hsuan-tung, as he was called, suffered four years in the unrealistic atmosphere of the Imperial Palace as Emperor of China. Peiping was at that time more unreal than St. Petersburg in the most glorious days of the Romanoffs. Around the Summer palace were the lakes and islands of the most magnificent gardens in the world. In the Winter palace were the jade and porcelain brought as offerings by the provincial governors of China, from Mongolia to Tibet.

Forced to Abdicate

Pu-yi was suddenly forced to abdicate on February 12, 1911. Sun Yat-sen had been in the United States raising money to create a republic in China, and while he succeeded, Yuan Shih-kai, his enemy, became president. However, the boy emperor, then only seven, was allowed to remain in the ancestral temples and was to receive a stipend of $400,000 (silver) annually. Yuan died in 1916. The leadership of China fell to the hands of a group of military chieftains and finally to a compromise Pu-yi, then 12 years old, once again ascended the throne. His rule lasted only eight days. After his abdication he was permitted to remain in the crumbling imperial city until Feng Yu-shiang, Christian general, invaded Peiping in 1924, drove out the last remaining vestige of the Manchus and pillaged their temples and palaces.

With Feng's arrival, Pu-yi fled one wintry night to the Japanese legation, lived there three months and then went to the Japanese concession in Tientsin. From that day until today the young Manchurian's fate has been constantly in the hands of Japanese.

Recently Divorced

In 1922 Pu-yi had his hair cut and was married to Kuo Shih-shi, a young Manchurian girl. Later he took a second wife, who recently divorced him. In Peiping his tutor became R. F. Johnston, an Englishman, who opened the young Manchurian's eyes to the forces and achievements of the modern world. There was a time when Pu-yi, inspired by Mr. Johnston, wanted to travel abroad, but the Chinese, fearing a conspiracy to put him back on the throne, would not permit it.

Though the new emperor of Manchuria is not to be recognized by the United States, the American consuls throughout Manchuria will of necessity be called upon to conduct constantly with him in the conduct of diplomatic and consular business. They will present to him no letters of credence, but as representatives of the United States they will be often at the royal palace. The situation is utterly unlike that in Russia, where the Manchurian emperor is not to be withdrawn from whatever. Our diplomatic representatives are not to be withdrawn from Manchuria. Simply they must maintain the legal fiction that the emperor and his court are non-existent. To all Chinese Pu-yi is a menace. They despise all Manchurians as foreigners, and have been known to demand any restoration of the monarchy. How long, therefore, the new ruler can remain on his throne in Manchuria before the third edition is dropped upon him is considered most problematical. (Copyright, 1932.)

FIGHTS SMITH SLATE IN MASSACHUSETTS

Representative Sawyer Says Donahue Seeks Only to Stop Roosevelt.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, March 14.—Representative Roland D. Sawyer of Ware today joined the ranks of Massachusetts Democrats who have taken exception to the personal of the National Convention delegate slate selected by State Chairman Frank J. Donahue. The Donahue slate is pledged to support Alfred E. Smith for the presidential nomination.

"The list of delegates made public by Chairman Donahue shows the fight intended to be made is not so much an honest fight for Smith as it is a fight against Roosevelt," Sawyer said. "The Democratic rank and file are for Smith and Roosevelt second, but the Donahue plan will force us to choose between Smith and Roosevelt to the exclusion of the other."

Sawyer charged he was omitted from the Donahue slate because he had indicated a second preference for Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt. Mayor James M. Curley and other Roosevelt supporters have indicated they would place a Roosevelt-pledged ticket in the primary April 26.

Apparatus Analyzes Contents of Diving "Lung"

LIEUT. LIBBY TO DESCRIBE RESCUE PROGRESS FOR Y. M. C. A.

Lieut. Lowe H. Libby, officer in charge of the experimental diving unit at the United States Navy Yard here (left), and M. Lipnick, gas chemist (right), analyzing the contents of a diving "lung" being worn by a man in the diving tank. Copper tubes attached to the "lung" run to the apparatus and bring a sample of the air inside, which is tested by the analysis apparatus developed by Dr. Martin Shepherd of the United States Bureau of Standards. The test determines the exact percentage of oxygen, carbon dioxide, etc., in the "lung."

HOW the Navy expects to prevent encombrance alive of the new in the event of another submarine disaster like that of the S-4 or S-51 will be described and demonstrated by Lieut. Lowe H. Libby, officer in charge of the experimental diving unit, Washington Navy Yard, in a free public lecture next Wednesday night under auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association.

Lieut. Libby will exhibit the latest type of "lung," submarine escape device, and will give an actual demonstration of its use as an under-water breathing apparatus, using the Y. M. C. A. pool for this purpose immediately after the lecture in the Central "Y" assembly hall, at 1736 G street.

Talking movies of the Navy's most recent submarine rescue device, a form of diving bell that can be attached to a stricken submarine to release the crew, will be shown. The pictures were taken during the first successful tests at sea with the rescue chamber of Block Island.

The naval officer also will show for the first time some under-water motion pictures of the Navy's remarkable submarine cutting torch in action. This torch is capable of cutting quickly through the steel hull of a sunken boat.

General Public Invited.

Another reel will show pioneer experiments with the "lung" near Key West by its inventors, Chief Gunner C.

L. Tibbals, Frank Hobson, Navy engineer, and Lieut. C. B. Momen. It is understood that Tibbals and Hobson will attend the lecture. Hobson is on duty at the Navy Department and Tibbals is here on furlough. Lieut. Momen is on instruction duty with the S-4, now used as a training ship for users of the "lung."

The lecture is in line with the desire of the Navy to acquaint citizens with progress in submarine safety achieved during the last few years. The Y. M. C. A. invites the general public to attend this unusual event.

CARDOZO SWORN IN TO SUPREME COURT

Assumes Duties as Associate Justice, Replacing Oliver Wendell Holmes.

By the Associated Press.

Benjamin Nathan Cardozo today took the oath which made him an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court. The judicial oath was administered by Charles Elmore Cropley, clerk of the court.

The new justice smiled as he was escorted to his seat by the marshal of the court. Just a few minutes before, in the privacy of the robing room, Chief Justice Hughes administered the constitutional oath. In it the New York jurist swore to "support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic."

The small court room was overcrowded for the final ceremony. Many attorneys could not find seats and stood against the wall.

Outside a long line of people awaited admission, among them Senator Coolidge, Democrat, of Massachusetts, and the wives of many prominent officials. Justice Roberts delivered the first opinion after Cardozo took his seat at the end of the bench beside Justice Stone to succeed Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Cases Are Reargued.

Unlike the average man taking a new job, Justice Cardozo began intensive work almost immediately after taking the oath, there being three suits set for hearing in which his opinion could easily be the deciding factor. All have been argued previously, but the court, in asking that they be heard again today, indicated there was a pronounced difference of opinion. The resignation some weeks ago of Justice Holmes left only eight members on the bench.

One suit is the claim that the Texas election law gives the Democratic party in the State authority to prevent colored voters from participating in party primaries.

Another is whether Georgia and other States may tax receipts from copyrights and whether the Government may tax income from oil and gas leases on school lands in Oklahoma.

Cardozo is also participating in a decision which may mean the end of a suit in and out the courts for more than 10 years. It is whether a lower court had the power to modify the decree under which four big packing firms agreed to handle only meat and related products. The modification—if the highest court upholds it—will allow them to handle other foods as well.

The successor to Holmes also arrives in time to help in solving a new question growing out of reapportionment.

ICE-BOUND SHIP REACHED

Krasin Delivers Supplies to Vessel.

Tied Up for Month.

LENINGRAD, United States of Soviet Russia, March 14.—(AP)—A radio message received here today from the icebreaker Krasin said it had reached the steamship Lenin, which has been held fast in the ice at Valgatch island for more than a month. The icebreaker delivered supplies of coal and food to the ship. The Lenin froze fast in the ice after leaving the Malign from a similar position. The radio message said the Lenin's crew was in good health. Valgatch Island is in the Kara Sea. The Krasin left Kronstadt, Russia, on February 7. She is the ship which rescued the survivors of the ill-fated Italia expedition.

WOMAN NOVELIST WORKS WAY AROUND WORLD SIX TIMES

Easy "if One Isn't Too Particular," She Says on Way Back to England for Honors.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 14.—Stella Benson, who has worked her way around the world six times to gather material for her novels, finds it isn't difficult "if one isn't too particular" what work one does.

Miss Benson first set out from her home in England during the World War. She crossed the Atlantic to New York and then went on to Colorado, finding New York "rather expensive." In Colorado she worked on a strawberry ranch, but it wasn't strawberry season, so she helped with the horses. In San Francisco she was mald to an opera singer, but was dismissed because she couldn't sew.

Suitor So Surprised By Girl's "Yes" He Drives Into Window

By the Associated Press.

INDIANA HARBOR, Ind., March 14.—Every time Alfred Linsemann proposed marriage to Miss Ellen Gehring during the past year she said "No," that is, until yesterday.

Yesterday she said "Yes," and her reply so surprised Linsemann he lost control of the automobile he was driving and it plunged through the plate glass window of a business house.

Linsemann and his fiancée were still in the car's seat when a policeman hurried to the scene. No damage was done—except to the building.

JOBLESS AID GROUP SEEKS D. C. FUNDS

Committee on Employment to Consider Appeal for Money Tomorrow.

The District Committee on Employment will meet at 11 o'clock tomorrow in the board room of the District Building to consider whether to ask for a District appropriation for unemployment relief, as suggested last week by its executive secretary, Paul L. Benjamin.

It will have before it a report from a subcommittee suggesting that it ask for a comparatively small amount for the unemployed to tide over the winter. The committee's funds will be exhausted, and the opening of the working season on Government and private building and other projects. The Community Chest in a statement yesterday, however, announced it faced a deficit of $250,000 to $500,000, and the source of needed funds is not in sight.

Will Last Until April 1.

The Employment Committee has been functioning on an appropriation of $250,000 made from the Community Chest, and this will be exhausted April 1.

Meanwhile the District Chapter of the American Association of Social Workers, at a special meeting yesterday, urged a District appropriation for unemployment relief.

A statement issued by Louise McGuire, president of the association, after the meeting, follows: "The social workers of the District of Columbia, as represented by the Washington Chapter of the American Association of Social Workers, after canvassing local conditions, are of the opinion that there will exist in the District of Columbia after April 1 a serious unemployment situation which is beyond the capacity of private agencies to meet."

Favors Public Relief.

"Believing that relief from public funds is essential in normal times as a basis for adequate care of dependency, the chapter reaffirms its previous declaration in favor of public outdoor relief, and urges with renewed earnestness that the District of Columbia take prompt action to meet the situation caused by the present widespread unemployment."

The principle of local public responsibility has been accepted in all large cities and is in accordance with the recommendation of President Hoover."

Hyattsville Council to Meet.

HYATTSVILLE, Md., March 14.—(Special)—The March meeting of the mayor and Common Council will be held tonight in the Municipal Building at 8 o'clock.

FEDERAL WORKERS SUE UNION HEADS

Seek to Remain in A. F. of L., Charging Referendum Was Not Legal.

Thirteen members of six locals of the National Federation of Federal Employees today filed a suit in equity in District Supreme Court to prevent the withdrawal of the Federal Employees from the American Federation of Labor.

The Federal Employees formerly declared their affiliation with the American Federation of Labor severed in December after a national referendum.

The suit today was filed by David R. Glass and 12 other plaintiffs who are members of local unions Nos. 2, 249, 252, 260, 261 and 262. It is directed against the National Federation of Federal Employees and its officers, agents and servants, and Luther C. Seward, president, and Gertrude Nally, secretary-treasurer.

It alleges that the referendum vote ordered by the defendants, under which the severance was effected, was illegal and in violation of the constitution. The plaintiffs ask the court to enjoin the defendants from putting into effect an attempt to put into effect amendments to the constitution which would sever relations with the American Federation of Labor and also asked for mandatory injunctions compelling the defendants to withdraw all notices to the membership and any other persons that the federation has ceased to be affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The court is requested to order the defendants to pay to the American Federation of Labor the per capita tax which the defendants are said to be unlawfully withholding. The plaintiffs claim that if the defendants continue to withhold the payment of the per capita tax this would actually and automatically sever relations with the American Federation of Labor in violation of the constitution and laws of the National Federation of Federal Employees.

The plaintiffs are represented by Attorneys James S. Easby-Smith and Frank S. Easby-Smith.

At the time the referendum was taken, 8 of the 11 locals here opposed the withdrawal, the total vote being 5,012 to 2,993.

The petitioners in today's action all represent locals that voted in opposition to the move.

Old Glory Forgotten As Custodian for 36 Years Dies at 73

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, March 14.—"Old Glory" flapped dismally in the darkness last night on the front of the historic old Betsy Ross House—a negligence unheard of in 36 years.

For Charlie Weisberger, who raised the flag at sunrise and turned it at dusk daily for that period, died of a heart attack yesterday at the age of 73.

He had occupied a small apartment in the house most of his life and was known to thousands of school children throughout the country as the old man who collected their dimes and let them sign the roll of those who have helped buy the property from private owners.

He helped found the Betsy Ross Memorial Association and probably did more than any other individual to preserve the birthplace of the flag as a public shrine.

11 SAFE ROBBERIES CHARGED TO TWO

Connection With Thefts Declared Established Through Fingerprints.

Two men were being held by police today on charges of staging 11 safe robberies here within the last seven months.

The pair was connected with the robberies, according to Capt. Bernard Thompson, assistant chief of detectives, through fingerprints found on some of the safes which were blown. The two are Henry Davis, 28, Elizabeth, N. J., and William Davis, 38, Hoboken. Arrested by Round Brook, N. J., police last week, the men were brought to Washington by Detective Sgt. F. O. Brass. No charges were placed against them until last night, however, the action following extensive questioning by headquarters detectives.

An additional charge of attempting to rob a safe in the Brightwood Post Office Station was placed against Henry Davis. He was linked with this case, it was explained at headquarters, when Linden, N. J., police identified him as the man who purchased the automobile used in the robbery attempt.

He bought the car, the New Jersey police said, under the name of Fred O'Grady, one of many aliases. The machine previously was thought to have belonged to a man now serving a five-year sentence for participation in the attempted robbery of the post office station.

List of Safes Robbed.

The robberies of which the men are accused are: Washington Paper Co., 80 L street northeast, $550 stolen; John H. Wilkins Coffee Co., 525 Rhode Island avenue northeast, $2,500; Hahn's Shoe Store, Seventh and K streets, nothing stolen; Loxes-Wiles Biscuit Co., 513 Rhode Island avenue northeast, $340; Whistle Bottling Works, 1990 Bladensburg road northeast, $1,285; Abraham Davidson, 1319 Second street, $400; Jacob Herman, 1306 H street, $75 rug destroyed; Home Movie Theater, 1230 C street northeast, $100; Schindler Peanut Factory, 1319 Second street, $100; nothing; Patrick M. Deck, 180 M street northeast, $313, and William T. Doyle, 1310 H street northeast, $100.

It was attempted to connect John Kendrick, held in the District Jail pending grand jury action on a charge of shooting a first precinct collector, with the robberies. Both Henry and William Davis deny knowing Kendrick, however.

JAPANESE LECTURER JEERED IN BALTIMORE

Large Audience Hearing Discussion of Far East Question Cheers Chinese Speaker.

BALTIMORE, March 14.—Chih Meng, associate director of the China Institute in America, was applauded and Dr. Roy H. Akagi, visiting lecturer in Japanese history, Columbia University, was jeered by a Baltimore open forum audience during a Sino-Japanese discussion here last night.

After giving a brief history of Chinese treaties and explaining his views of the situation in Shanghai, the Chinese speaker was cheered by the large audience, which a few minutes later hissed and booed Dr. Akagi, who stated that "China didn't appreciate" the Japanese attempt to readjust her foreign policy from imperialism to international cooperation. "And we began to reject it," he explained the Japanese attitude toward Manchuria.

Dr. Akagi declared he was personally insulted when he attempted to readjust his speech to challenge the Chinese speaker's intimation that the 60-odd treaties in which Dr. Akagi said China and Japan had joined since 1905 actually were non-existent.

MARY NOLAN THREATENS SUICIDE RATHER THAN SERVE JAIL TERM

Former Imogene Wilson Faces 30-Day Sentence in West.

Accused of Failing to Pay Wages of Employees in Shop.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, March 14.—Mary Nolan, stage and screen actress, is quoted by the Los Angeles Examiner as saying that she would kill herself rather than serve a jail term.

Miss Nolan, formerly Imogene Wilson of the New York stage, and her husband, Wallace Macrery, were sentenced in Municipal Court last week to spend 30 days in jail on charges of not paying wages of employees in their fashionable Hollywood gown shop.

They are free on bond pending appeal.

In the presence of her attorney, Arthur S. Guerin, and a reporter, the Examiner related, the actress said: "You may see my body on a slab in the county morgue, but you'll never see me in jail."

"I'll kill myself before going to jail for a debt I did not incur, and a debt that already has been paid."

POSTAL ECONOMY UP TO CONGRESS

Higher Rates, Not Merely Retrenchment, Necessary, Says Brown.

By the Associated Press.

Postmaster General Brown today informed Chairman Byrns of the House Economy Committee that further savings in the postal service depend largely on fundamental changes in employment policy which only Congress can authorize.

Brown expressed the opinion in a letter to Byrns that the post office budget could not be balanced by a retrenchment of expenditures only, but it would be necessary to increase postal rates with a view to obtaining increased revenues.

"The bulk of the post office budget," the Postmaster General said, "goes for salaries and wages, and the question of reducing the cost of post office operations is, therefore, very largely a question of reducing the pay roll."

"To the greatest possible extent the department is cutting down its expenses for transportation, housing, supplies, but the pay roll, practically speaking, is beyond administrative reach."

Brown suggested the possibilities of reducing the force, of modifying the wage scale, and the consolidation of rural routes as possible means of saving.

He said the department did not wish to be understood as advocating these changes, but presents them as matters "to which the select committee must give attention if any effort is to be made to reduce postal expenditures."

He assured Byrns the department would co-operate "to the fullest possible extent in any effort made to reduce the charge upon the general Treasury for the support of the postal function."
