

Something new in battleships. But it's only a camera trick—a wide angle lens—that gives this elongated effect to the bow of the U. S. S. Pennsylvania. The picture was made in Seattle Harbor. © Wide World Photos.

Gary Evan Crosby, three-week-old son of Bing Crosby, radio crooner, and Dixie Lee, former actress, is introduced to the big world. Photo was taken in their Los Angeles home. © A. P. Photo.

Here's a place to wet a line. A rushing California stream and Bette Davis, film star, about to land a big one. Or has the publicity man tied a sinker on her line? Anyway, it's a picture for any fly-caster's eye.

Floyd Bennett's widow takes up flying. In her first lesson at the Brooklyn field named in memory of her aviator husband, Mrs. Cora Bennett is shown being tutored by Jack Bishop. © Wide World Photos.

Eighty ringers blindfolded! Vyril D. Jackson of Kellerton, Iowa, is a horse shoe pitcher of parts. He made the 80 ringers out of 100 tosses as an exhibition stunt at the Chicago Fair. © Wide World Photos.

Loretta Young goes nautical in pajama styles. But you, don't have to own a 50-foot yacht to steal a hint or two from her smart outfit.

A woman tiller of the soil in Northwestern Manchukuo. The Mongolian women do most of the farm work there, using such primitive implements as this rake and wearing quilted garments for the cold climate. © Associated Press Photo.

Well, well! The folks at Long Beach, Calif., were taken back a bit by this bicycle built for four and its anciently costumed bathers. They were part of a beach parade. © Wide World Photos.

Japanese girls learn about war from soldiers. Tokio school girls are shown here braving a cloud of tear gas in a gas mask drill. © Wide World Photos.
