Fort Belvoir May Get Some D. C. Rookies

Engineer School Unit Requisitions 67 From Fort Meade

(Picture on Page A-2)

By THOMAS C. HARDMAN.
Star Staff Correspondent.

FORT GEORGE G. MEADE, Md., Nov. 29.—A number of Washington rookies may be included among the 67 selective service recruits who will leave this reception center tomorrow for permanent duty at Fort Belvoir, Va. It was understood here today.

Coded classification cards on the District's vanguard of selectees, who were nearing the completion of their second day in the Army, were to be placed by this afternoon into files from which names of men to fill the Belvoir assignment will be pulled tonight.

Requisitions for the 67 recruits, 30 of them colored, have been received in a move to augment the ranks of the Engineer School Detachment at Fort Belvoir. It is believed the proximity of the post to the District will be a factor in placing as many Washington men as possible in tomorrow's shipment.

Aptitude Tests Given.
During the forenoon today aptitude tests and personal interviews occupied the 27 trainees who were the first inducted in the District. Permanent records compiled from this classification process, including the recruits' own choices as to the branches of the service they would prefer, will be used tonight in determining who shall be ordered to Fort Belvoir or to other posts and branches of service.

Virtually all Washington men in the first contingent are expected to be assigned to permanent military posts in the 3d Corps Area by the middle of next week. Requisitions from Fort Myer and Arlington Cantonment are understood to be among those yet to be filled.

The examinations lasted for an hour, beginning at 8 o'clock, after which the men were marched in close order drill—a training step at which they excelled, in the eyes of their superiors, on the first day.

"Fine Bunch" of Recruits.
Following about 30 minutes of drilling across a wind-swept field yesterday afternoon, Capt. W. A. Robinson of Company D commented (but not without hearing distance of the trainees):

"That's as fine a bunch of recruits as I've ever seen."

The first sergeant who snapped commands during the drill agreed the men apparently would require an unusually brief time to "look like any other soldiers."

Vaccinations and first typhoid shots were scheduled for the trainees later today.

New Arrivals Get Uniforms.
Meanwhile, two additional groups from the Washington induction station, including Maryland and Virginia trainees as well as District men, who arrived four hours apart among the overnight check-ins at the reception center, were issued uniforms this morning and put through a short formation drill. Classification officials will give the new men aptitude tests tomorrow.

The space problem at the barracks for selectees became a bit vexing last night, when it was found necessary to dispatch a few of the men to quarters with companies other than ones assigned originally, but officers expected this situation would be ironed out today when 195 trainees leave for Edgewood Arsenal, Md., and Carlisle Barracks, Pa. No Washington men are included in the shipment, however.

The advance group of Washingtonians was among recruits who were given time off after dinner last night to go to the motion picture theater, located a short distance from the barracks, or otherwise spend an hour, as they pleased.

The picture, "The Rampart We Watched," drew most.

Eleven selectees from Virginia and Maryland, who arrived at the Washington induction center yesterday afternoon too late to receive their final physical checkups, were being examined today. Also held over for re-examination were three District and three nearby selectees. Final tests on most of these were expected to be completed by late today and those approved will be sent here.

In the two detachments that arrived here late yesterday, in charge of John Clinton Swank, Jr., selectee from Alexandria, Va., and R. T. Goodwin, selectee from Arlington, Va., while en route were:

From the District:
Francis Westline of 1233 Wisconsin avenue N.W., James E. Williams of 3008 W street N.W., William D. Nye of 3819 Kanawha street N.W., Lucien Bowen, Jr., of 1429 Columbia road N.W., Morgan Smith of 1205 Fifteenth street N.W., Prince Woodbury of 1524 T street N.W., Andrew Candelaria of 1124 Twelfth street N.W., Eugene Futorney of 38 O street S.W., Julian E. Glover of 238 Third street N.E., Maurice Campbell of 804 Second street N.W., Harry Boone of 2611 Monro street N.E., Daniel Robert of 1424 W street S.E., Theodore Hutton of 3601 Austin street S.E., Clarence Graham of 1326 Eighth street N.W., Joseph L. Bailey of 1611 Twenty-first street N.W., and George W. Jones of 3010 Adams street N.W. The last two were held over from physical examinations that began Wednesday.

From nearby Virginia, and Maryland—E. L. Oakes, Jr., 6303 Ridge-wood avenue, Chevy Chase, Md.; W. W. Connell, 7121 Wisconsin avenue, Bethesda, Md.; Garfield Dorsey, R. F. D. 3, Rockville, Md.; Fraise A. Cook, Kensington, Md.; Robert C. Christie of Silver Spring, Md.; N. C. Bollinger and J. La Marea, Brentwood, Md.; G. S. Shogogue, Hyattsville, Md.; King Stone, Warrenton, Va.; G. H. Gallaher of Alexandria, Va.; B. J. Pemberton of Fairfax, Va.; C. A. Reid of Front Royal, Va.; H. N. Jefferson, Luray, Va.; H. A. Lawson of Elkton, Va.; J. F. Boothe, Drayden, Md.; T. E. Simmons, Chincodan, Md.; J. H. Simms, Bel Air, Md., and C. H. Phillips, Burgess Store, Va.

IRVING C. ROOT.

Root Is Named National Capital Parks Head

Quits Maryland-D. C. Planning Commission Post to Accept

Interior Department officials today announced the appointment of Irving C. Root, chief engineer of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission for 13 years, as superintendent of National Capital Parks.

It was said that Irwin Kaplan, assistant chief engineer of the Maryland commission and an employee of that agency for 10 years, probably will be named acting chief engineer of the Maryland commission at a meeting called for Silver Spring this afternoon to select Mr. Root's successor.

Mr. Root, who passed a special civil service examination given to applicants for the post of superintendent of National Capital Parks, conferred with Interior Department officials today and the announcement of his appointment was made after the parley.

Gartside and Gillen Acting Now.
The position formerly was held for many years by C. Marshall Finnian, who was transferred in 1939 to take charge of Zion and Bruce Canyon National Parks in Utah, and more recently by Edmund Burrell Rogers.

Mr. Rogers, brought here from the superintendency of Yellowstone National Park to fill the vacancy pending the civil service examination, has returned to Yellowstone. Frank T. Gartside, the assistant superintendent, and Frances F. Gillen have been acting superintendents since Mr. Rogers' return to Yellowstone.

Mr. Root resigned his Maryland position on Wednesday after declining an offer of an increase in the $6,000-a-year salary he has been receiving from the commission, which handles the development of public parks in Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties and serves as an advisory body to the commissioners of those counties on zoning matters.

Directed Park Areas' Creation.
In his 13 years with that commission Mr. Root has personally directed the establishment of park areas in Rock Creek and Sligo Valleys and along Cabin John Creek and the Northwest Branch. Public playgrounds also have been opened.

School Tie-up Advised.
Any recreation program should be closely integrated with the school, he said.

As an illustration of how progress has been made in greater planning in this field, Dr. Bowman pointed out that terms progressed from "play" to "recreation" and finally to "supervised recreation."

Political Leaders Back British Aid Program

Arlington County Republican and Democratic leaders last night joined in supporting the Arlington County Committee to Defend America's program of aid to the allies.

Lawrence Michael, chairman of the Republican Executive Committee of the county and Charles Wenwick, chairman of the Democratic Committee, both supported the program. It was pointed out that both national candidates pledged all possible aid to Britain.

Fred Windridge and Leo Lloyd, rival candidates for the county board, indicated their accord with the aims of the committee.

A resolution adopted by the committee session at which Harrison Mann presided, called for turning over to Great Britain 100 additional over-age destroyers and other over-age vessels suitable for convoy protection as well as merchant vessels to relieve the empire's transportation program.

Czecho-Slovak Bazaar To Open on Tuesday

A sale of Czecho-Slovakian ethnics, jewelry, embroidery and cooking will be held next Tuesday through Thursday at 1210 Eighteenth street N.W. by the Czecho-American National Alliance.

Sponsoring the annual bazaar are Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr, wife of the former United States Minister to Czecho-Slovakia; Mrs. Vladimir S. Hurban, wife of the Czecho-Slovakian Minister here, and Dr. Alice Masaryk, former chairman of the Red Cross in Czecho-Slovakia, now a refugee in this country.

Proceeds of the bazaar, open from noon to 9 p.m. with tea served every afternoon, will be used for relief in Czecho-Slovakia.

Inventors' Council Plans Three-Day Session

The National Inventors' Council, established by the Commerce Department to consider inventions and suggestions for improving the Nation's defenses, will hold a three-day session here beginning December 3. Dr. Charles F. Kettering, council chairman, announced today.

Since its creation several months ago, the council has received 6,000 ideas and suggestions from the public. They are now coming in at an average of 125 a day.

In addition to considering these ideas the council and its staff are working on specific inventive problems submitted by the Army and Navy.

Navy to Honor Four on First Eleven That Defeated Army

Special Gridiron Guests Tomorrow Remember Thrills of 24-to-0 Victory In 'Push and Pull' Encounter Fifty Years Ago This Week

Fifty years ago this week end Navy and Army battled each other on the football field for the first time. Navy won, 24 to 0.

When the two service schools meet again at Philadelphia's Franklin Field tomorrow four members of the Navy team of 1890 will be honor guests of the Annapolis midshipmen. They are Brig. Gen. R. H. Lane, U. S. M. C., retired, of Falls Church, Va., and Rear Admiral J. D. Beuret, U. S. N., retired; Capt. C. F. Macklin, U. S. N., retired, and Capt. Adelbert Althouse, U. S. N., retired, all of Washington. A veteran of the Army team of that year who will be present is Col. E. J. Timberlake.

The Navy veterans had other names when they were learning a ship's rigging and wrestling with smooth-bore cannons. "Ruf" Lane was 170 pounds of stone wall at left guard, and "Sandy" Beuret was a slashing left end. "Stuffy" Macklin didn't weigh more than 170 pounds, but he was a stalwart at right tackle, and "Bert" Althouse carried the mail at fullback.

Old Game Was Bruising.
It was push and pull football in 1890, with the flying wedge keeping the stretcher bearers busy. Navy scored five touchdowns and converted twice to win over Army on November 29 of that year. Touchdowns fifty years ago scored four points, with the conversions counting two points each.

The New York Herald of the following day explained the victory this way:

"The military cadets were strong and quick, but the Annapolis team understood the rules."

A subhead announced: "Sweet girls there, too." According to Capt. Macklin, the Navy team not only understood the rules but cunningly spread confusion in the Army's ranks by their system of signal calling.

"For instance," he explained, "say we wanted to drive off tackle. 'The quarterback would follow: Rise tackle and sheets. Let go and overhaul the weather lifts.' Then one of the boys would get the ball and off we'd go."

It Was All Pretty Confusing.
"The next time maybe it would be: 'Ready about. Station for stays' or 'Haul well taut. Let go and haul.'"

"It was pretty complicated," admitted Capt. Macklin.

Complicated it may well have been, and Capt. Macklin doesn't say who was most befuddled.

The Navy team knew their rigging, however, he hastens to add. "We trained at the academy in sailing ships," he explains, "and we were in first-class physical shape from running up and down the rigging. The only practice the team got was in the morning between 5 and 6 o'clock."

"We didn't have any helmets or any padded clothes. Every one wore a knit cap, a full head of hair and a jacket laced up the front."

A trainer apparently was only somebody who read a horse for racing in those days. Athletes massaged their own lumps, and when one of the boys was knocked out his mates revived him, propped him up and kept on going.

Playing Was Rough.
Of this phase of the game, the Herald says:

"Young Walker, the West Point end, had the wind knocked out of him early in the game. He recovered and a few moments later was walked upon by three Annapolis men and hurt again. Still he played on. The second half begun and a hard tackle of Althouse stretched him out limp as a rag on the hard ground. When he recovered after a fall of water had been poured over his head he refused to heed the cries of the cadets that he should give way. Ten minutes before the game ended he was again stretched out and was this time carried off the field. His place was filled by Lyon..."

Heaviest man on the Navy squad, Capt. Macklin recalls, was N. E. Irvine, the center, who tipped the scales at about 190 pounds. The team averaged about 175 pounds. The Herald found the Army a big team.

"What giants they were in the West Point line," the account read. "Think of it! They averaged 10 pounds more to the man than did the Yale forwards and 18 pounds more than the Princeton Tigers! One hundred and eighty-four pounds was the average of the team that lined up against the 175-pounders from Annapolis."

The Chicago Bears of 1940 operate behind a line of laddies averaging 225 pounds.

Rohrich and Small Named To Local Draft Boards

Two new draft-board appointments here, both replacements, were announced today by Brig. Gen. Albert L. Cox, District director of selective service, after the appointments had been given approval by the President.

George John Rohrich, radio instructor, who lives at 4327 Iowa avenue N.W., was named to Board No. 6 to fill the vacancy created by the death of Clarence Redman. Mr. Rohrich is a graduate of McKinley High School, a former student at George Washington University, and a World War veteran.

John O. Small, garage owner of 5712 Nebraska avenue N.W., was named to Board No. 19, replacing Thomas Amato, whose legal residence is now outside the District.

Both men were sworn in today and began their new duties immediately.

Killed in Traffic Same Date Last Year—77

One of a Series of Factual Analyses of D. C. Traffic Fatalities

Analyses of traffic deaths Nov. 25 and 63 have not been published pending completion of official investigation.

The place: The Park Road Bridge in Rock Creek Park.

The accident: A 29-year-old milk truck driver was killed when his westbound vehicle skidded as it turned on to the bridge and crashed into the south rail, pinning the victim to it. His skull was crushed and death was probably instantaneous, police said. There is a curve as the road runs into the bridge and when the truck started to skid in making the turn, the driver apparently lost control, according to police investigation.

The time: About 7:15 a.m., November 24.

The weather: Rainy.

The street: Wet and a curve.

The vehicle: A milk truck whose brakes could not be tested due to the damaged condition of the vehicle.

The driver: A 29-year-old man, whose driving experience was not indicated.

Coroner jury's verdict: No inquest held and the coroner issued a certificate of accidental death.

Diagram shows how a 29-year-old milk truck driver was fatally injured when the vehicle skidded against the south rail on the Park Road Bridge in Rock Creek Park. The circled "X" shows where the man met his death.

When the sports writer of 50 years ago made disposed of the social aspects of the occasion, here is how the account went:

"Time is called. The West Point Military Band starts up 'Annie Laurie.' Annapolis having won the toss takes the ball. She guards the north goal, a strong wind blowing somewhat against her. The game is begun with a V and before it is demolished by the military heavyweights the ball has been carried 20 yards."

"Then Emrich is pulled down and about a dozen young giants pile on top of him while the pretty girls outside the ropes exclaim: 'How cute' or 'Horrid,' according as they sympathize with the soldier or sailor boys..."

Cadets Lacked Teamwork.
The Herald adds: "Assistant Surg. Cookson was on the field and saw the game, but unfortunately found no one was very badly hurt."

Traffic Record

The traffic record, as revealed at police headquarters, for 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. today:

Fatalities, none.

Motorists injured, 249.

Pedestrians injured, 3.

Pedestrians arrested for violation of pedestrian control regulations, 2.

Motorists arrested for failing to give right of way to pedestrians, 1.

Killed in 1940 traffic, 65; by November 29 in 1939, 77.

Freeman Dental Group To Mark Anniversary

The 40th anniversary of the Robert T. Freeman Dental Society will be celebrated at a banquet at 9 p.m. tomorrow at the Whitelaw Hotel.

The group, said to be the oldest colored dental group, was originally known as the Washington Society of Colored Dentists but in 1907 changed its name to the present one to commemorate the first colored student to finish in the first graduation class of the Harvard University College of Dentistry in 1867.

Guests will include officers of dental groups in nearby Maryland and Virginia.

Parking Lot Operator Held in Fatal Shooting

Clarence M. Datcher, 30, colored, died at Providence Hospital last night from the effects of a bullet wound received an hour before.

Police said that Samuel L. Berry, 40, colored, operator of a parking lot in the 100 block of Quander street S.E., reported he saw two youths, apparently tampering with an automobile on his property. He fired one shot from a 32-caliber rifle, police said, and one of the figures fell as the other fled.

Datcher lived in the 600 block of Delaware avenue S.W. The other youth, who, police said, was Reginald Lyons, 15, the victim's half brother, was captured shortly afterward. Police said he told them they wanted a fog light.

Berry is being held for action by the coroner.

Navy had teamwork in 1890 and the Army couldn't match it.

The West Pointers, explained the Herald, "don't know how to play the game very well. There is no semblance of teamwork. Michie (for whom the present West Point stadium is named) makes a good run, and then Timberlake dodges and squirms for 15 yards. But they do it all by themselves, while their rusers look on without knowing that they ought to interfere in behalf of their runners..."

It's different now.

When the four veterans root for Navy on Saturday they will see that both the Army and the Navy backs will have whole platoons of padded blockers who know too well "that they ought to interfere in behalf of their runners."

In the process somebody is going to win. Stuffy, Sandy, Ruf and Bert hope it will be Navy.

Montgomery Women Hear Talks on Juvenile Court

Miss Ruth Shoemaker, member of the Maryland House of Delegates, and Miss Lavinia Engle, former Delegate, addressed the semi-annual meeting of the Montgomery County Federation of Women's Clubs yesterday. They urged the women to study provisions of the law under which the County Juvenile Court was created and is administered.

Mrs. Minier Hostetler, president of the Montgomery County League of Women Voters, also discussed the league's recommendations with regard to changes in the court's present setup. Delegates were asked to make suggestions to the Legislature regarding changes in the present juvenile court law which would result in closer relation between the court and other agencies dealing with the delinquent child.

Mrs. Harry Harcum, president of the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs, urged the delegates to attend the annual meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs at Atlantic City, N. J., next spring.

Reports by the delegates to the federation reviewed activities of individuals in the clubs. The meeting was held in Grace Episcopal Church, Silver Spring.

Airport Tool Sheds Damaged by Fires

Two fires, said to have caused minor damage, broke out yesterday afternoon and early today in temporary tool "shanties" at the Washington National Airport.

The first blaze occurred at 3:28 p.m. yesterday and is believed to have started from the backfire of an air-compressor motor. The second fire broke out at 1:42 a.m. and demolished a shed in which tools were stored.

Three Arlington County (Va.) fire companies responded to both calls. Engineers at the airport said they had not checked materials to determine the loss, but that they believed it to be slight. They indicated that the second fire started from defective wiring or a careless cigarette smoker and stated there was no cause for an investigation of possible sabotage.

Band Concert

By the United States Army Band in the band auditorium of the Army War College tomorrow morning at 11:30 o'clock. Capt. Thomas P. Darcy, leader; Karl Hubner, assistant.

Program:
1. March, "The Diplomat"..... Sousa
2. Overture, "Ludovic"..... Herold
3. Minuet from "Beverly Hills" Handel
4. Fantasy, "Rhapsody in Rumba"..... Bennett
5. Waltz, "Daughter of Love"..... Bennett
6. March, "Progress"..... Geiger
7. The Star Spangled Banner.

Eklund Pleads Not Guilty in Sniper Cases

Court Allows Usual Five Days for Motions 'Hitting Indictments'

John Eugene Eklund, 25, pleaded not guilty in District Court today to indictments charging him with the sniper murder of three colored men.

A request by Defense Counsel James R. Kirkland for three weeks in which to file motions attacking the indictment was overruled by Justice F. Dickinson Letts, who allowed the usual five days.

In making the unusual request Mr. Kirkland stated to the court that "the police have handled this case in an unusual manner." He pointed out that the coroner had signed the complaint against Eklund and declared "it was stated in the press that a dictograph was used in a conference the accused had with another attorney."

U. S. Attorney Objects.
United States Attorney Edward M. Curran objected to giving Mr. Kirkland three weeks in which to file motions against the indictments. He agreed, however, that would be a reasonable time in which to prepare a defense before the case comes to trial. When motions are disposed of the court will set the trial date.

It was believed the case will take several weeks to try. The Government has announced it has approximately 40 witnesses, while Mr. Kirkland has about a dozen witnesses in prospect now.

Defense counsel told the court he wished considerable time to
