Tyrone Power Fights Again
In Palace's Melodrama

"Son of Fury" Is Furious Tale of Hate
And Love, Backup West, and Life
In Feudal Times in England

BY JAY CARNES

The work has started on the stage of the Palace. A new play, "Son of Fury," makes its bow tonight. This is the second in the series of three four-act plays, and is based on the themes of the previous two. The script is by J. B. Priestley, and directed by A. E. Martyn. The cast includes Tyrone Power, Donald Crisp, and Muriel Pavlow.

Veidt Stars
In Nazi Role
At Columbia
Sabotage Methods
Hurled at Him in Melodrama

The story is set in Nazi-occupied Germany, where a high-ranking official is arrested and accused of treason. The official is none other than the popular actor, Conrad Veidt, who has been playing Nazi roles in recent years. The plot involves a complex web of intrigue and betrayal, as the official's past is brought to light. The casting includes Veidt, Carole Lombard, and Erich von Stroheim.

There's Plenty in a Name
If It's a Movie Title

The phrase "There's Plenty in a Name" is a popular saying that has been used in films for decades. The phrase is often used to convey a sense of irony or humor. The saying is often used in situations where a person's name is more important than their identity or achievements.

"Joe Smith, American," Is A Fellow You'd Like
Capital's Film Unpretentious,
But Has an Easy Naturalness;
Glenn Miller on Stage

BY HARRY McINTOSH

One of the most popular films of the season is "Joe Smith, American," which has been receiving rave reviews. The film is directed by Sam Wood and stars Spencer Tracy and W. C. Fields. The film is described as unpretentious, with an easy naturalness that is appealing to audiences.

The Green Screen show above is one of the most popular attractions in the city. The show features live performances by various artists, including Glenn Miller on stage. The show is a hit with the public and is expected to continue for several more weeks. The show is held every Friday night at the Green Screen theater.