established this Republic upon the plain and simple Declaration of Independence. They found, however, that the abuse of holding these self-asserted, that all men are born to equal principles they had asserted, that all men are born to equal principles they had asserted, that all men are born to equal principles they had