an exhibition flight great crowds are expected. He is the inventor of the famous spiral dive and the "ocean wave." It is this spiral dive which killed both Johnstone and Hoxsey. Neither of these two ever seemed to take such desperate chances with this trick as did Brookins himself.

As people gaze, with something of a shudder, on a man condemned to death, so people here today are looking at Brookins, for it is the universal belief that he cannot continue his air tricks and live, and today everybody here appreciates his intention to continue.

"I am the only one left, but I won't stop flying. I have got to keep up the game. I have three Johnsons, Hoxsey, and I started. I'll fly, and I'll do my best," he declares.

Parmales, the fourth man of the Wright team, is the newest of the Wright aviators, and he is as courageous about the future as is Brookins. He also saw Johnstone killed in Denver.

"My duty lies in the air, and I will not quit flying yet," is his firm statement.

Hoxsey's Mother Talks of Son. PASADENA, Jan. 1.—Mrs. H. M. Hoxsey, mother of the dead aviator, talked briefly with the newspaper men about her son.

"It was only the other day," she said, "that Arch and I were talking about the accident that killed Johnstone in Denver. He thought Johnstone must have lost his head.

"Arch was such a good boy. His every thought and deed was of kindness. He was so good to me, and no one knows how I will miss him. He was all I had. It is almost more than I can bear, but I am trying to be strong and bear it bravely."

Requiem Mass Sung For Aviator Moissant. NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 1.—Requiem mass was sung this morning over the body of John B. Moissant, who was killed by the planting of a biplane in San Francisco, near here yesterday, and the body was placed in a receiving vault to await his relatives' plans.

All the aviators and officials of the aviation meet, and Moissant's brother, Alfred J. Moissant, president of the "aviation circus," and his sister, were present at the mass. Tonight the brother and sister will go to New York.

Moissant's two brothers, who are in the banking business at Salvador, and his married sister in San Francisco, will be consulted regarding his final resting place, and it is believed that they will decide upon Chicago, his boyhood home.

All New Orleans is in mourning today, for Moissant was the idol of the aviation circles. He was the first aviator to be killed in this country, and the city has always felt a special interest in him.

Moissant's brother, who is nominally the manager of the aviators' circus, as president of the International Aviation Association, today would not discuss the story telegraphed from New York that Moissant's death was due to scrapping of his plane in the air.

Statement From Lovelace. NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—Capt. T. T. Lovelace, aeroplane builder, makes the positive statement that it was scrapping of finances by the men who furnished capital for the aviators' circus which caused the death of John B. Moissant in Louisiana yesterday.

Published descriptions of the accident, that Moissant started his flight for the Michelin cup with a machine too small and frail and imperfect to carry the extra amount of gasoline needed, and that this overload caused the death of the brilliant hero of three continents.

"His death is directly attributable to the recent row among the men composing the company that organized the aviation circus," he said.

"Moissant had three machines in New Orleans, and none of them large enough or new enough to carry the extra gallons of gasoline he necessarily took if he expected to win the Michelin prize.

"Before he went South he ordered new machines and other parts to the value of $25,000 from our factory. They were made and ready to be delivered when there was a row over money matters and I was ordered not to send them."

Commercial Men Meet. The next meeting of the Flag Council, No. 34, United Commercial Travelers of America, at which a number of candidates will be admitted to the order, will be held on January 7. Two new members were initiated at the meeting held last night, when a special New Year program was the feature.

Abattoir for Horses. BERLIN, Jan. 1.—The sum of $89,000 has been appropriated by the municipal government of Berlin for the construction of an abattoir where horses intended for human consumption will be killed. About 12,500 horses are now annually used for food.

Confederate Sons' Head Has Headquarters Here. The commander-in-chief of the United Sons of Confederate Veterans will have his headquarters in the Capital.

He is Dr. Clarence J. Owens, of Alabama, who comes here to discharge the duties of commissioner of agriculture and immigration for the Southern Commercial Congress. Dr. Owens first set to work in Washington at the mass meeting at the Confederate Memorial Hall, 1322 Vermont avenue, at 8 o'clock Wednesday night, when plans for the benefit of the home will be considered.

Oklahomans for Smith. Members of the Oklahoma Club of Washington today began the New Year with an active campaign for the election of John Lewis Smith as commander-in-chief of the Spanish War Veterans. They are working on behalf of the local department of the order, which the Oklahomans also are booming Washington as the permanent headquarters of the national organization.

Cleary's Funeral Tuesday Morning. Funeral services for Patrick Cleary, veteran employee of the Washington Gas Company, and member of the Oldest Inhabitants' Association, who died at the Georgetown University Hospital yesterday morning, will be held from his home, 706 Twenty-fourth street northwest, Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock, with a requiem mass at St. Stephen's Catholic Church. Interment will be made in Mt. Olivet Cemetery.

Insane Patient Leaps From Hospital Window. Taken to the Tenth precinct police station, this morning, on a charge of insanity, after he had declared that Black Handers were after him, Henry Martin, colored, fifty-seven years old, broke from the police and threw himself through a closed window.

He is now at the Washington Asylum Hospital badly bruised and lacerated. Policeman Wheeler of the Tenth precinct, was patrolling his beat, about 9 o'clock, when Martin approached him. "The Black Hand Society is going to kill me," said the colored man.

Wheeler questioned him, and his answers caused suspicion. When he arrived at the station, Martin would not submit to being searched. He jumped through the window and was captured on the ground, where he had been stunned.

Revellers Injured By Flying Bullets. A meeting of the Alexandria Sunday School Workers' Association is being held at Grace Protestant Episcopal Church this afternoon. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

Elkins Improved, Family Declares. Emphatic denial of the report published in a morning newspaper that Senator Elkins' condition had changed for the worst was made at the residence of the Senator this afternoon.

Magee Still Away; Mother Prostrated. The reward of $300 offered by Mrs. Molly Magee for information concerning the whereabouts of her son, Joseph Magee, the former George Washington University student, who has been missing since December 10, has failed to throw any light upon his strange disappearance. As a result, the mother is prostrated, and her condition has become a source of as much concern to her relatives and friends as the fate of the young man.

PINCHOT'S LAST BID IN COAL LAND CASE

Files Brief With President Telling of the Alleged Conspiracy.

Some Specific Charges.

It is specifically charged by the Pinchots that the Cunningham claimants entered into a conspiracy to defraud the Government.

Among other things it is urged that the whole history of the Cunningham claims shows that the claimants were from the beginning operating as members of one association, and not as separate claimants.

It is asserted the accounts of the Cunningham group and its agents, and the reports of the agents, are on the theory apparently that all the claims were one property and not separate properties.

Among other things, it is set forth that the Pinchots had advanced their entries under an agreed-to effect a combination. It is asserted that they had done so by filing affidavits that they had always acted with the understanding they could combine the claims, after securing patents.

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS IN GAS-FILLED ROOM

Burgess Sullivan's life came near passing with the old year.

He was found this morning in a gas-filled room in his home, 729 Girard street, just in time to be revived, and his life saved.

Sullivan refused hospital treatment, and declined to explain to the police why the rubber gas tube had been disconnected from a small gas stove in his room.

Sullivan is twenty-eight years old and a motorist employed on the Eleventh street car line. What time he returned to his home last night is not known, but about 2 o'clock this morning G. T. Gogan, a fellow-boarder, smelled gas in the room in his home, 729 Girard street, and there found the young man unconscious. He administered restoratives, which helped to bring Sullivan around.

Insane Patient Leaps From Hospital Window

Taken to the Tenth precinct police station, this morning, on a charge of insanity, after he had declared that Black Handers were after him, Henry Martin, colored, fifty-seven years old, broke from the police and threw himself through a closed window.

He is now at the Washington Asylum Hospital badly bruised and lacerated.

Policeman Wheeler of the Tenth precinct, was patrolling his beat, about 9 o'clock, when Martin approached him.

TELLS YEAR STORY IN SUNDAY SERMON

Dr. Wallace Radcliffe Reviews 1910 Events for His Congregation.

Taking for his topic "The Story of 1910," and for his text the words of Judges: "And out of the strong there shall come sweetness," Dr. Wallace Radcliffe, pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, this morning, reviewed for his congregation the story of the year just past, laying particular emphasis on the good work which had been done in missionary circles and for the establishment of peace, and dwelling at length on the toll of the dead for the year.

Beginning with a short resume of the political and social happenings of the past year, Dr. Radcliffe spoke briefly of the work done by the census, of the discussion concerning the discovery of the North Pole, of the advances made in aeronautical science during the past twelve months, of the political and social upheavals in Korea, Portugal and Spain, and then dwelt for a time on the work for international and universal peace.

Having reviewed, in a short space of time, the more important events of the past year, Dr. Radcliffe then touched on the deaths of prominent men during the year.

MAGEE STILL AWAY; MOTHER PROSTRATED

Offer of Reward Fails to Bring Information of His Whereabouts.

The reward of $300 offered by Mrs. Molly Magee for information concerning the whereabouts of her son, Joseph Magee, the former George Washington University student, who has been missing since December 10, has failed to throw any light upon his strange disappearance. As a result, the mother is prostrated, and her condition has become a source of as much concern to her relatives and friends as the fate of the young man.

Young Magee had not been in good health since he suffered an attack of diphtheria, about a year ago, and it is believed that this may have had something to do with his sudden disappearance from his home, in Brightwood. He is a protégé of Representative W. H. Wiley, of New Jersey, who obtained a scholarship for him at George Washington University.

ELKINS IMPROVED, FAMILY DECLARES

Emphatic denial of the report published in a morning newspaper that Senator Elkins' condition had changed for the worst was made at the residence of the Senator this afternoon.

"These stories about Senator Elkins' condition becoming worse have almost invariably been published on the days that he appeared to make the greatest improvement," said Senator Elkins' secretary, George F. Snyder, today.

"He has not been troubled with hiccoughing spells as reported. You may say that Mrs. Elkins feels more encouraged today than at any time since her husband's illness, and that there are good grounds for believing that the Senator may recover sufficiently to resume his seat in Congress before the close of the present session."

Revellers Injured By Flying Bullets

Harry Blaney, of 400 Twelfth street southwest, is in Emergency Hospital today, as the result of a little New Year celebration which he and Julius Krause had planned. Krause had had to explain to the police how the revolver with which he was going to celebrate wounded Blaney in the jaw. The police, however, are satisfied that the affair was an accident.

FALL PROVES FATAL TO BRAKEMAN SMITH

F. E. Smith, the Southern railway brakeman, injured by falling on his head from a trestle over Braddock road last Wednesday, died at the Alexandria Hospital about 8:30 o'clock this morning. Mr. Smith was about thirty years old, and was a native of Charlottesville. Smith had gone on the trestle to turn a switch, and in running to catch his train, slipped, and fell between the track to the ground below, fracturing his skull. His remains were taken in charge by Undertaker Wheatley and prepared for burial.

The New Year was greeted at midnight with the ringing of bells in the city hall and fire engine houses. The bells started tolling at ten minutes before midnight and continued up until the stroke of 12. The mournful tolling was then turned into joyous ringing to welcome. To the din of the ringing of the bells was added the blowing of the whistles of the factories, and the firing of pistols and cannon crackers in the street.

Watch night meetings were held at the First Baptist and Trinity Methodist churches. The Young People's Baptist Union held a social from 8:30 to 11 o'clock, when the watch night service began. These continued until midnight when the meeting was closed. The crowds already on the streets was augmented by the congregations from the watch night meetings, and the numerous parties held in this city.

The Holy Name Society of St. Mary's Catholic Church this morning attended a special mass at that church at 6 o'clock and received Holy Communion in a body.

The Alexandria Ministerial Association has arranged for a week of prayer, which will open at Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church tomorrow evening. The Rev. J. M. Holmes will deliver the sermon. Services will be held during the week as follows: Tuesday, at Methodist Protestant Church, the Rev. W. F. Watson; Wednesday, First Baptist Church, the Rev. Edgar Carpenter; Thursday, Bethany Independent Methodist Protestant Church, the Rev. A. W. Roddick; Friday, Second Presbyterian Church, the Rev. W. M. Poissal.

A meeting of the Alexandria Sunday School Workers' Association is being held at Grace Protestant Episcopal Church this afternoon. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

The pulpit at the Second Presbyterian Church this morning was occupied by the Rev. H. L. Telford, of Lewisburg, Pa. Mr. Telford will also conduct services this evening.

Guards Visit Crothers.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 1.—Officers of the Fourth and Fifth regiments, Maryland National Guard, today paid the annual New Year visit to Governor Crothers at his residence in this city.
