TAFT'S ADDRESSES BOOST REFORMS
Arbitration and Sound Currency Are Subjects.

Wash., July 2.-President Taft today addressed the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform Statutes at the National Press Club.

"The question of exercising the power of eminent domain, and the question of the right to resell property after taking it by such process, are the most important questions before the Conference at the present time," Mr. Taft said.

"I am not going to discuss the question of arbitration and the question of sound currency, but I want to call your especial attention to the importance of not hesitating to use the powers of the government, when the need for such use is shown by the circumstances of the case."

Mr. Taft added that the government should not hesitate to use its powers in the public interest.

"It would be a mistake," he said, "to think that the government should not use its powers when the need for such use is shown by the circumstances of the case."

The president also spoke of the importance of sound currency.

"It is important," he said, "that the government should have a sound currency, which will enable it to meet its obligations as they come due."

The president's address was well received by the conference.

WEED ADVANCED TO $4,000 A YEAR
Changes in Post-office Department Announced.

Abandonment of many changes in post-office regulations, proposed, revoked, and to take effect Aug. 1.

The abandonment of many changes in post-office regulations, proposed, revoked, and to take effect Aug. 1, was announced by the postmaster general today.

The变化 in post-office regulations, proposed, revoked, and to take effect Aug. 1, was announced by the postmaster general today.

In addition, the postmaster general announced that he had abandoned the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens.

"It is not advisable," he said, "to charge for the use of the post-office department's ovens, as the cost of operation is not sufficient to cover the cost of the service.

"The abandonment of the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens will enable the department to provide a more efficient service to its patrons.

"The postmaster general also announced that he had abandoned the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens.

"It is not advisable," he said, "to charge for the use of the post-office department's ovens, as the cost of operation is not sufficient to cover the cost of the service.

"The abandonment of the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens will enable the department to provide a more efficient service to its patrons.

"The postmaster general also announced that he had abandoned the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens.

"It is not advisable," he said, "to charge for the use of the post-office department's ovens, as the cost of operation is not sufficient to cover the cost of the service.

"The abandonment of the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens will enable the department to provide a more efficient service to its patrons.

"The postmaster general also announced that he had abandoned the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens.

"It is not advisable," he said, "to charge for the use of the post-office department's ovens, as the cost of operation is not sufficient to cover the cost of the service.

"The abandonment of the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens will enable the department to provide a more efficient service to its patrons.

"The postmaster general also announced that he had abandoned the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens.

"It is not advisable," he said, "to charge for the use of the post-office department's ovens, as the cost of operation is not sufficient to cover the cost of the service.

"The abandonment of the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens will enable the department to provide a more efficient service to its patrons.

"The postmaster general also announced that he had abandoned the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens.

"It is not advisable," he said, "to charge for the use of the post-office department's ovens, as the cost of operation is not sufficient to cover the cost of the service.

"The abandonment of the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens will enable the department to provide a more efficient service to its patrons.

"The postmaster general also announced that he had abandoned the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens.

"It is not advisable," he said, "to charge for the use of the post-office department's ovens, as the cost of operation is not sufficient to cover the cost of the service.

"The abandonment of the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens will enable the department to provide a more efficient service to its patrons.

"The postmaster general also announced that he had abandoned the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens.

"It is not advisable," he said, "to charge for the use of the post-office department's ovens, as the cost of operation is not sufficient to cover the cost of the service.

"The abandonment of the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens will enable the department to provide a more efficient service to its patrons.

"The postmaster general also announced that he had abandoned the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens.

"It is not advisable," he said, "to charge for the use of the post-office department's ovens, as the cost of operation is not sufficient to cover the cost of the service.

"The abandonment of the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens will enable the department to provide a more efficient service to its patrons.

"The postmaster general also announced that he had abandoned the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens.

"It is not advisable," he said, "to charge for the use of the post-office department's ovens, as the cost of operation is not sufficient to cover the cost of the service.

"The abandonment of the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens will enable the department to provide a more efficient service to its patrons.

"The postmaster general also announced that he had abandoned the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens.

"It is not advisable," he said, "to charge for the use of the post-office department's ovens, as the cost of operation is not sufficient to cover the cost of the service.

"The abandonment of the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens will enable the department to provide a more efficient service to its patrons.

"The postmaster general also announced that he had abandoned the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens.

"It is not advisable," he said, "to charge for the use of the post-office department's ovens, as the cost of operation is not sufficient to cover the cost of the service.

"The abandonment of the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens will enable the department to provide a more efficient service to its patrons.

"The postmaster general also announced that he had abandoned the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens.

"It is not advisable," he said, "to charge for the use of the post-office department's ovens, as the cost of operation is not sufficient to cover the cost of the service.

"The abandonment of the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens will enable the department to provide a more efficient service to its patrons.

"The postmaster general also announced that he had abandoned the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens.

"It is not advisable," he said, "to charge for the use of the post-office department's ovens, as the cost of operation is not sufficient to cover the cost of the service.

"The abandonment of the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens will enable the department to provide a more efficient service to its patrons.

"The postmaster general also announced that he had abandoned the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens.

"It is not advisable," he said, "to charge for the use of the post-office department's ovens, as the cost of operation is not sufficient to cover the cost of the service.

"The abandonment of the plan of charging for the use of the post-office department's ovens will enable the department to provide a more efficient service to its patrons.