The Inevitable Inpouring of Malcontents, and the Vigorous Way They Were Handled

NEW YORK TRIBUNE, SUNDAY, MARCH 2, 1919

Wichita's Way With a Wave of I. W. W. Bolshevism

The Recent Flurry in the Home Town of Governor Allen—A Result of the Lure of Oil

By Geoffrey Parsons

The recent flurries in the home town of Governor Allen in Kansas are the result of the lure of oil. It has been suggested that the recent outbursts of anti-oil sentiment in Wichita were caused by the oil companies trying to win the votes of the people in the oil-producing areas. However, this is not the case. The recent disturbances in Wichita were caused by the recent influx of oil workers from the southern states.

The influx of oil workers has caused a great increase in the population of Wichita. This has led to a great increase in the demand for oil wells. The oil companies have been unable to meet this demand, and as a result, the oil workers have been forced to work long hours in order to meet the demand. This has caused a great deal of unrest among the oil workers.

The oil companies have been forced to increase their wages in order to attract workers. However, this has not been enough to satisfy the demands of the workers. The workers have been forced to strike in order to get a better wage.

The strike has caused a great deal of trouble for the oil companies. They have been forced to pay large sums of money in order to settle the strike. This has caused a great deal of financial hardship for the oil companies.

The oil companies have been forced to take a number of steps in order to settle the strike. They have been forced to pay large sums of money in order to settle the strike. They have also been forced to promise to pay better wages in the future.

The oil companies have been forced to take a number of steps in order to settle the strike. They have been forced to pay large sums of money in order to settle the strike. They have also been forced to promise to pay better wages in the future.

The strike has caused a great deal of trouble for the oil companies. They have been forced to pay large sums of money in order to settle the strike. This has caused a great deal of financial hardship for the oil companies.

The oil companies have been forced to take a number of steps in order to settle the strike. They have been forced to pay large sums of money in order to settle the strike. They have also been forced to promise to pay better wages in the future.

The oil companies have been forced to take a number of steps in order to settle the strike. They have been forced to pay large sums of money in order to settle the strike. They have also been forced to promise to pay better wages in the future.

The strike has caused a great deal of trouble for the oil companies. They have been forced to pay large sums of money in order to settle the strike. This has caused a great deal of financial hardship for the oil companies.

The oil companies have been forced to take a number of steps in order to settle the strike. They have been forced to pay large sums of money in order to settle the strike. They have also been forced to promise to pay better wages in the future.