

Right—New Yorkers who remember Broadway and Forty-second Street as a cow pasture will welcome back the old farm plow. Here it is drawn by motor tractor, assisting in clearing the streets of snow and ice.
Kodak & Herbert

The recent snow piles afforded New York's amateur sculptors splendid opportunity to show their talent. Here's a bust of Abraham Lincoln modeled by Joe Castellana, of the Bronx, at 178th Street and Webster Avenue, in just forty minutes, with this long handled shovel.

Ex-army men who talk about missing trench life had a chance to prove it last week. Here's George B. Compton, chairman of the American Legion unit, digging trenches in the snow at Waverly Place and Christopher St., the one of many Legionnaires who volunteered.
International

"Babe" Ruth puffs contentedly on his pipe and plays "Home Sweet Home" on the organ to Friend Wife. "Babe," erstwhile Red Sox pitching ace and home-run king, who was purchased by the Yankees for $125,000, has recently been insured by his new owners for just double his purchase price.
Reston View

Snowdrifts

equipped with a life gun from the ice-covered Savannah, the equipment as a mother
Underwood
Two locomotives push new whirling snowplow in effort to clear the tracks of drifts that have crippled railroads up Dunkirk way.
Underwood

and in the general pure fire hose driv- Bridge approaches. streets has made days.
Underwood

Right—Thousands gather in the Busch Circus Building in Berlin in a patriotic demonstration to protest against the Allies' demand for the surrender of about 900 German citizens for trial by a non-German tribunal.
Wide World

Right—Talk about your heavy seas! Here's one being taken aboard by the U. S. Nishmaha, a 9,500-ton freighter, en route from Portland, Ore., to Philadelphia with a cargo of flour, while weathering a terrific gale off the Virginia Capes.
Underwood

A new photograph of the charming first lady of France, wife of President Paul Deschanel. Mlle. Germaine Brice, accomplished daughter of multi-millionaire Rene Brice, and granddaughter of the late Camille Doucet, of the French Academy.
Underwood