EUROPEAN INTERVENTION FEARED.

Officials of the government said that there is no real comparison between the intervention now a fact in Haiti, and the intervention which has been proposed to settle the affairs of Mexico. It was admitted by one official close to the President that the United States was the alternative of European intervention obliged to act by force in Haiti or accept there. The French, in fact, landed marines and took control, but withdrew when Admiral Caperton arrived with a sufficient American force.

BULGAR ULTIMATUM TO SERBS?

Cession of Serbian Macedonia Demanded as Price of Continued Neutrality, Says German Dispatch—Roumania Impassive, While Neighbors Continue Warlike Preparation.

Special Cable to The Washington Herald.

London, Sept. 27.—A Berlin message today states it is rumored there that Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria has served an ultimatum on Serbia demanding the immediate cession of Serbian Macedonia as the price of Bulgaria's continued neutrality. A Daily Telegraph special from Bucharest says: "In certain political circles here it is believed Bulgaria will not attack Serbia, so as not to provoke the intervention of Greece. It is thought she will wait until the Austro-Germans triumph over Serbia and then achieve her object by occupying Macedonia without Greece having had a pretext for intervention."

Special Cable to The Washington Herald.

London, Sept. 27.—The allies, launching smashing attacks from their newly won positions, are keeping up their great offensive from the sea in the Vosges mountains. Today, however, no such spectacular success as had marked the fighting of the last two days was reported. Berlin claims that by violent counter-attacks the French and British have been checked on the German second line. Tremendous losses are reported to have been suffered by both sides. The allies have captured more than seventy field pieces and heavy cannon, of which twenty-three were taken by the British. More than 23,000 Germans have been taken prisoners. Berlin reports the capture of 7,000 prisoners. On the entire front the fighting has taken on the aspect of furious attacks and counter-attacks in which the carnage has been fearful and which may continue for weeks before a definite decision is reached. The fighting is the bloodiest of the entire war, with 2,000,000 strongly entrenched Germans pitted against French and British armies estimated to number 4,000,000. The Germans are reported to be rushing strong reinforcements to the front, and Amsterdam dispatches says that Emperor William himself is rushing to Luxembourg to urge on his armies.

Special Cable to The Washington Herald.

London, Sept. 27.—The allies, striking successes on Saturday and Sunday. In Champagne the fighting is continual and the losses on both sides unprecedented. Fully a German army corps has been wiped out, correspondents report, while the claim is made in Berlin that the French losses approximate 40,000. Of this fighting the French night official statement says: "The battle is without respite. Our troops are now holding a tight front before the German second line of defense, the landmarks of this front being Hill 155, west of the Navarin farm; the Souan knoll, the tree on Hill 156 and the village and knoll of Tauber." On this front the French are within two and one-half miles of the German supply railroad and at points nearer a bombardment of the important line is being kept up continually, hampering the Teuton movements of troops and ammunition. Total of Successes. The allies' successes so far may be summed up as follows: 1. On the road from Souvain to Somport an advance of from one to one and a half miles has been gained, the French reaching as far as Cabans. This brings the French within two and a half miles of one of the most important supply railroads of the Germans. 2. On the Souvain-Tuzare road the French have penetrated beyond La Baraque, where they are very near one of the chief German lines of communication. 3. North of Beaulieu the French have won one and a half miles of terrain from the Germans and have captured between Beaulieu and Mason de Champagne a farm dominating Ripont and the valley of the Dornoise. British Rejoicing. The British claim a further advance to the east of Loos and the repulse of numerous German counter-attacks at Hulluch, where the Teutons have suffered tremendous losses. Berlin claims that in this fighting the allies have been brought to a standstill. The French communique says: "North of Arras the situation is unchanged. The Germans have reacted but feebly against the new positions occupied by our troops. The number of prisoners taken in this region now exceeds 1,600." In an effort, apparently, to relieve the pressure on other sections of the Ypres line, the crown prince's armies launched a series of violent attacks in the Argonne region. In every case the attacks broke down before a trenching fire of shrapnel and machine gun bullets. In adjoining sectors also the Germans suffered heavy losses, according to the French report.

Dan Sayles' Want Advertising Talk. Life is Just One WANT After Another. "The man who lets it be understood that he wants but little here below" is likely to be left even without that," remarks the Albany Journal. True! The whole of human progress is founded on WANTS—little wants, most of them, such as you see in the Want Columns every day. If a man didn't always WANT something better than he has, we would still be living in "dog-out" and wearing a fig leaf for a full-dress suit. This is why the Want Department serves a human need. It is the hand-maiden of progress. It is the great clearing house for the daily wants, little and big, of the people in this community. When you want to hire or buy or sell or exchange ANYTHING, tell the 150,000 readers of The Washington Herald through a Want Advertisement. More than likely some employer will be ready to take you on. When you lose anything, except time and temper, a Want Advertisement will probably locate it. Put your little Want problems up to us and watch us solve them double-quick.
