

LOSS OF FOURTEEN LIVES IN WRECK LEAD TO BUSINESS GREED

"What Will It Cost to Have Passengers Taken Off?"

ALLEGED WIRELESS MESSAGE TO SKIPPER

Government to Find Out If Reported "Hagging" Led to Pacific Coast Disaster.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9.—The loss of fourteen lives on the steamer Santa Rosa because her owners are alleged to have let pass a day of calm weather while they haggled over the cost of saving a ship's company of more than 200, is one of the charges that the owners, the Pacific Coast Steamship Company, will be called upon to answer by the United States Government, which has ordered an investigation.

The Santa Rosa struck in fair weather 4 o'clock Friday morning, and within a few hours her wireless apparatus had summoned three vessels, which stood by in the easy sea, ready and willing to take them off. And while the passengers pleaded that they be taken off or sent ashore in the small boats, the officials of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company, it is charged, were dickering on the price a head that would be the cost of saving passengers and crew.

Alleged Hagging Begun. The Centralia was the nearest of the vessels, and Captain Faria, of the Santa Rosa, had interchanged messages with the ship about the removal of passengers and crew. The company's officials in San Francisco had been so notified.

And then across the waters the wireless is said to have brought the message of greed:

"Ask the captain of the Centralia what it will cost to have the passengers taken off," is the alleged message.

And the captain of the Centralia is said to have told the captain of the Santa Rosa that it would cost just what the Pacific Coast Steamship Company thought it was worth.

The alleged hagging cost fourteen lives, it is estimated, and possibly more. The sea was calm and the weather clear when the negotiations were begun, but during the hours the Pacific Coast Steamship Company is said to have been trying to make up its commercial mind, the fickle sea had made up its mind.

When the Centralia finally was asked to take the passengers off, the sea was running too heavily for her to stand close enough in to make a quick transfer.

Life Boats Launched. When it was seen the sea was rising several life boats were launched. Many containing fourteen passengers, many of them women, capsized. Officials of the company insist all were rescued, but those who remained on board the Santa Rosa insist they were drowned.

A little raft with an equal number of people aboard capsized. One Londoner and three members of the crew were ordered to take a life ashore. They had not rowed a hundred yards from the vessel when a huge sea wave swept their boat and they were drowned before the eyes of the horrified passengers.

A life saving was finally succeeded in getting a line to the vessel and the remaining 150 passengers were brought through the rising surf to the beach more dead than alive.

English Advertising Men Will Gather at Boston. BOSTON, July 9.—Twenty-five of the leading English advertising agents will attend the International Convention of Advertising, to be held in Boston from August 1 to August 4, according to a cablegram just received from London by the Pilgrim Publicity Association of Boston.

Lord Northcliffe, the great English journalist, has promised to come in person or send his ablest representative. The party will leave England July 22 on the Celtic.

The Pilgrim Publicity Association has raised $25,000, and the Boston City Council has voted $15,000 for the entertainment of the visitors. Twelve halls have been engaged for the meetings. The convention will open in Faneuil Hall, and headquarters will be at Ford Hall. The public meeting on August 2 will be held in the Boston Opera House, and the banquet will take place August 4 at Symphony Hall.

Transom Thief Takes Underwear and Neckties. Gaining entrance through the front door transom, a thief visited the store of J. L. Kline at 235-237 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, about 3 o'clock this morning. Clothing to the value of nearly $50 was taken, although the cash register, containing a small sum of money, was not tampered with.

The robbery, said the police, was evidently done by a man who was in need of underclothing and neckwear, and who was not on the lookout for cash. Several boxes of fancy ties and about a half dozen suits of underwear were taken.

Funeral of Morris Price Will Be Held Tomorrow. The body of Morris Price, who died in Rochester, Minn., will reach Washington tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock, and the funeral services will be held at Union Station. Interment will be in the Hebrew Congregation Cemetery.

Mr. Price was sixty-one years old, and had made his residence at the Astor, Eighteenth and V streets. He is survived by three sons, Joseph, who lives in New York; Adolph and Harold, of Denver, Colo.; and two daughters, Clara and Florence, of this city.

Two Negroes Slashed In Fight With Razors. In an altercation in which razors were welded in deadly earnest, George Miller, colored, received slashes on the face and neck early this morning which sent him to Georgetown Hospital in a dangerous condition. Hezekiah Brown, also colored, did the carving on Miller's face. Brown received only several slight wounds and is now resting in the Seventh pre-dent station house, waiting the results of his eye's injuries.

In Odd Accident

MRS. EDNA SEAMARK, Who was run over by automobile while riding bicycle, and little hurt.

Mrs. Edna Seamark, 1249 Ninth street, will hop on her bicycle in a day or two and ride away as jauntily as if she had not been run over by an automobile the other day while out bicycling. But she will keep a keen eye out for automobiles.

Just why Mrs. Seamark did not have a few ribs crushed in when the automobile driven by Mrs. J. N. Thompson, wife of a Glensapeake Supply Company official, passed over her body is beyond explanation. Men and women have been killed even when run over by smaller cars.

Mrs. Seamark is now as well as ever, except for a bruised side of the chest where the wheels of the car first struck her.

Mrs. Seamark Ready For Bicycle Again. Mrs. Edna Seamark, 1249 Ninth street, will hop on her bicycle in a day or two and ride away as jauntily as if she had not been run over by an automobile the other day while out bicycling. But she will keep a keen eye out for automobiles.

Changes Announced At Lyceum Theater. For the comfort of the burlesque patrons of the city many changes will be made in the New Lyceum Theater before the coming season opens. A. C. Mayer, who has been for years connected with theatrical interests in Washington and nearby cities, and who built the Casino Theater, at Seventh and F streets northwest, has been employed to take active management of the playhouse commonly known as "Kernan's."

Mr. Mayer will see each production prior to its appearance in Washington, thus assuring its suitability to the theatergoers of this city. Eugene Kernan, for many years manager of the house which bears his name, will not sever his connection with the house, but will act in an advisory capacity.

Mr. Mayer, who owns an interest in the Casino, recently resigned the active management of that house, although he will continue to maintain his business holdings. Besides his share in the success of the Casino, he has business interests in several Washington theaters, among them Dreamland. For several seasons past he has presented Sunday night concerts at various theaters.

Solder From Tin Can Poisons Teeth and Jaw. WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 9.—Drum Heiser, of this city, has supplied the dental experts of this section of the State with a peculiar case, the first of the kind they have ever known. It is a rotting of the left side of the underjaw, due to lead poisoning, caused by a small piece of solder from a tin can which lodged in the cavity left by an extracted tooth. Heiser was eating corn several weeks ago, when he got a piece of solder, which he believed, he believed, dropped into the cavity, where it remained unnoticed.

A short time ago all the lower teeth on the left side of the jaw became loose and dropped out, and then the poisoning attacked the jawbone itself.

This week the unfortunate man was examined by a number of specialists, an operation was performed, which, it is expected, will relieve him, and photographs taken of the affected section, and these will be used by lecturers on dental diseases, a number of whom were present when the operation was performed.

Washington Shriners to Leave for Rochester. Headed by Potentate Adolphus Gude, a score of members of Alma Temple, Order of the Mystic Shrine, will travel across the hot sands tomorrow to the annual convention of the imperial council at Rochester, N. Y.

Deotona, manager of the Annapolis bank, and Mrs. Otterback, will be in the party, and so will Robert P. Bradbury, of Twining City.

New Potato Bug Pesters Pennsylvania Farmers. WASHINGTON, Pa., July 9.—Farmers of this section are greatly alarmed by the appearance of a new pest, the gray potato bug, which is threatening devastation to not only potatoes, but other crops already endangered by the long and excessive hot spell.

This bug, which differs from the old-time black potato bug, and is believed to have been introduced from the West, travels in great droves, settling down on a potato patch and ruining it in a remarkable short time. Paris green solutions have been tried, and while they seem to drive the bugs away temporarily, they are, apparently, not fatal to the pest.

REPLICAS OF ROYAL INSIGNIA TO BE SEEN AT PALAIS ROYAL

Famous Higbee Collection of Crowns Will Be on Exhibition Tomorrow.

The crowns worn by the rulers of the great nations of the world, exactly reproduced as to cutting of jewels, settings, and colorings, will be on view in Washington tomorrow. The management of the Palais Royal, Eleventh and G streets northwest, has obtained the famous Frank D. Higbee collection that was prepared for the St. Louis Exposition.

Mr. Higbee conceived the idea of gathering the collection of reproductions of royal crowns as a means of education for the general public. His first thought was that he could readily get the necessary data for the making of the diadems from books in any of the large libraries of the United States. But he found that not even in England or France could books be found that could serve as a guide to the jewelers of Paris in making working models.

Three Years of Work. From royal court to royal court of Europe Mr. Higbee went, securing permission to view and copy the crowns of the nations. After three years of effort the collection was complete, as it will be shown at the Palais Royal, beginning tomorrow.

The recent crowning of King George in England has aroused interest in the subject of crowns, so that the coming of the Higbee collection now is especially timely.

The collection includes an exact reproduction of the crown that was placed on the head of King George in Westminster Abbey. The crown, a symbol of his political power, is shown among the Higbee reproductions.

The crown of the German emperor, called one of the most beautiful and costly in the world, will form one of the chief features of the exhibition.

Pope's Tiara to Be Seen. The tiara and scepter of the Pope claim a large share of interest. The Iron Crown of Lombardy, of rare old workmanship, and first used in 591 A. D., with the crowns of Sweden and Norway and of Denmark and other places in the collection, it has been said, of the Higbee exhibit that the wearers of the originals could not distinguish between them and the copies at a short distance.

And the "crown" that Theodore Roosevelt wore, a plain silk hat, when he ascended to the office of highest honor within the gift of any people, is shown in contrast to the "pomp and pageantry" of kings.

The slightest reproductions of the crowns will be exhibited in the show window of the Palais Royal, beginning tomorrow. The exhibit comes heralded by a great interest to lovers of beautiful gems.

Takes Leading Role

GEORGE W. BARBIER. The trader in "The Barrier," at the Columbia this week.

The story of "The Barrier," which will be produced at the Columbia Theater tomorrow night, and for the remainder of the week by the Columbia Players, is described as being big, buoyant, bracing, strong, rugged, irresistible—just what a story of Alaska, the land of the last frontier, should be. Washingtonians are not unfamiliar with it either in the form of the thrilling narrative which originally appeared in book form from the pen of that master of Western character study, Rex Beach, or the more thrilling dramatic version, arranged by Eugene W. Presbury.

"The Barrier" is the story of a young army officer suddenly transferred from the South to the far North. The venturesome hero goes into the Yukon country to preserve order. The picture of the gold fields is the background, but it is the love of the soldier for the half-breed heroine that lends power to the combination of romance and adventure.

Interest centers in the man who is to play the rough, but big-hearted, trader, John Gale. For this, George W. Barbier has been cast. Mr. Barbier is a finished and capable actor, who, both physically and by reason of artistic finesse, is admirably suited to the part.

The cast includes Captain Burrell, U. S. A., and Nica, will keep A. H. Van Buren and Frances Nelson, in the respective parts of John E. Kilmer and Nica. Then there are several additional members of the cast that must not be forgotten. One of them is little Helen Hayes, whose portrait has been traced in front of the theater all season, though this will be her first appearance this year with the company. She is to be the Mollie, whose antics and frolics have delighted John, calls into the cast John Hitts to play the part.

Glen Echo's Sunday Concerts Prove Popular. Glen Echo Park starts today upon another week of what is proving a highly successful season, with the usual Sunday concert by the United States Soldiers' Home Military Band, under the directorship of John S. M. Zimmerman. These sessions of instrumental music have been received with popular approval. Glen Echo's success up to the present time having demonstrated the profitable field Washington offers for a progressive and up-to-date outdoor playground, the management of Glen Echo is determined to keep this popular resort in the front rank of local summer amusement enterprises by the frequent introduction of novelties, so that the hundreds of patrons who visit the park regularly will always find at least one new feature to interest them.

This policy will be put in operation tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock, when the new open-air moving picture theater at Glen Echo will give its opening performance. This new attraction has been admirably situated on the spacious lawn adjacent to the dancing pavilion and accommodations have been provided for 1200 persons. There will be an entire change of program nightly and only the most recent and interesting films will be shown. Through an arrangement just completed the pictures displayed at Glen Echo Park will not be offered for public exhibition elsewhere in Washington.

Following the launching of the moving picture theater, several surprising novelties will be introduced shortly in the dancing pavilion. Washington never had a more attractive outdoor recreation, and this year it is at the present time, and its ready accessibility through adequate car service is an important factor in its success.

Adrift on Pacific in Launch, Rescued by Ship. SAN PEDRO, Cal., July 9.—Starving and half frozen, after spending two days and a night drifting at the mercy of the wind in a disabled launch without food, and with but little water, O. L. Grimley, president of a gold mining company, left for his home in Los Angeles, with his wife and two Mexicans. They were picked up thirty miles south of San Pedro by the steamer Chehalis just in time to save their lives.

Mr. and Mrs. Grimley had left Catalina Island for a fishing trip, the Mexicans acting as the crew of the launch. On Monday when the craft was a considerable distance from the island the motor failed, leaving the party adrift on the Pacific.

Helen Hayes to Have Role of Cedric Errol. "Little Lord Fauntleroy" is underlined for production by the Columbia players next week, with little Helen Hayes in the role of Cedric Errol. The part is really the star part of the play. The author, Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, is a Washington woman, and has a host of admirers in this city. Her play is in general important parts with the Columbia company last season, notably in "Prince Chap," but has been held in reserve this year in order to permit of her mastering the fifty odd pages of typewriting that constitute the part of the little lord.

Goddess of Light Tops Cosmos Vaudeville Bill. The management of the Cosmos offers a strong vaudeville show this week. The program contains five acts, headed by the spectacular dancer, "Phasma, Goddess of Light." This is the most costly and magnificent feature ever produced at the Cosmos Theater. Phasma is noted for the exceedingly gorgeous effects she produces by the clever manipulation of expensive silken skirts worn in the various dances. In one of the dances to be performed at the Cosmos, Phasma whirls 500 yards of the finest draperies. Four dances are given at each show. The "Spirit of the North" will be another of her offerings. Phasma carries a load of mechanical effects.

Another unusual and pretty feature will be the novel comedy playlet of Du Vaul and Letta entitled "The Artist's Dream." Jolly Jack Atkins will be seen in his big comedy character, the "Census Taker," a highly humorous monologue. Gardner and A. P. Krer, two dainty little girls, will present a singing, dancing, and whistling turn with many costume changes. Harry Fields, the original tramp juggler, will complete the vaudeville bill. New picture plays also will be shown.

ALASKAN DRAMA TO BE WEEK'S OFFERING AT THE COLUMBIA

"The Barrier" to Be Presented, With George W. Barbier in Leading Role.

The story of "The Barrier," which will be produced at the Columbia Theater tomorrow night, and for the remainder of the week by the Columbia Players, is described as being big, buoyant, bracing, strong, rugged, irresistible—just what a story of Alaska, the land of the last frontier, should be. Coronation Tonight At Columbia Theater. Those who were fortunate enough to witness the wonderful pictures of the coronation of King George and Queen Mary at the Columbia Theater last Sunday will be delighted to learn that with the best of those pictures as a nucleus, the International Amusement Corporation will this evening present for the first time in this country the pictures of the magnificent display incident to the coronation of King George and Queen Mary. The pictures are of the greatest interest to all of the processions, including thousands upon thousands of soldiers on foot, in cavalry brigades, full batteries of artillery, marines, sailors, and the great assemblage of colonial regiments in all the glory of their trappings. The pictures have just arrived in this country, and word comes from New York, where they were privately reviewed, that they far exceed in their consistence all sound accompaniments are furnished, materially adding to the realism.

With the exception of the requested reduction of the price of last week's coronation pictures, everything this evening will be new, the program including moving pictures of the great English fox hunt, scenes in Switzerland, Siam, the Hawaiian Islands, Paris, and elsewhere, together with a liberal assortment of humorous subjects.

Take Off the Fat Where It Shows. Most women suffer much humiliation and inconvenience, especially during the hot summer months, because of great quantities of fat, so located that, no matter how they dress, everybody sees that they are abnormal. This is the season and the day of the slender figure, and fat women are simply not tolerated either in business or social affairs. Women may not know it, but men when they see a fat woman pass them on the street make all manner of sympathetic remarks about her. They do not mean to be unkind or to seem unmanly, but it is natural for a man to dislike fat on a woman. Where fat shows the most the place is where it must be removed, and as quickly as possible. Hot weather dresses seem to be made for the fat woman's misery and the body at the charms of woman and her ugliness as well. Exercise and diet will not remove fat. This has been proved. The famous Marmola prescription which has met with such phenomenal success and has so many of our society women as its sponsors, is now being sold in tablet form to meet the demand of the public for fat reducers. These little tablets go into your system just like food. They stop the stomach and digestive apparatus from producing fat and reduce the fat upon the body at the rate of from 12 to 15 ounces a day. They are harmless in hot as well as cool weather and can be taken with your purse and taken even after you have indulged in a hearty meal away from home. They are sold at all drug stores at 25 cents a case, or if you prefer you may write the Marmola Company, 281 Farmers Bldg., Detroit, Mich.
