

STONING ON THE TST TO CHANG IS SURPRISE HERE

State Department Fails To Explain Order Affecting Nicaragua.

Whether fear of grave international complications with Latin-America, or whether there are sufficient reasons to guard American interests in Nicaragua, was the impelling motive that suddenly caused President Taft to change his mind and recall the order issued by the dispatch of the Tenth Infantry from Panama to Nicaragua, was not cleared up by official information given out today at the State Department.

Department officials stated today that it was suddenly discovered last night that enough marines, including those on board the Pacific now in transit, could be thrown into Nicaragua in a brief time, thereby obviating the necessity of sending American troops.

This conclusion was reached so suddenly that late yesterday afternoon none of the officials of either the State or War Department knew of the supposed change in conditions. The order from President Taft canceling the proposed expedition, came late at night, and if any reassuring news came from Nicaragua, it may have arrived during the intervening period.

Want Protection.

State Department officials reiterated today that it made no difference to them whether the men sent into Nicaragua were marines or infantry. They said they were interested only in protecting Americans and were not particular about the method resorted to.

It has been frequently asserted that the sending of soldiers into another country was equivalent to a declaration of war, and the landing of American marines has been construed from an altogether different standpoint. It is stated that Mexico would have been greatly alarmed by the United States sending soldiers to Nicaragua, looking upon it as a precedent which might lead to the same action in United States relations with her.

Consul Serves Notice.

On the following day the committee returned, and the American consul informed the leaders that the commander of the American forces would allow no armed force to enter Corinto. The militant Nicaraguans then retreated crestfallen and chagrined. Order is now being maintained there. Ninety officers and marines entered Corinto from Managua on Monday, having marched the distance.

Commander Washington, of the Denver, in a cablegram sent from San Juan del Sur, declared that conditions in general are bad, and the food supply is being rapidly exhausted.

Late today the dispatches received were promising saying that the rebels had promised the consul at Corinto that they would have the railroad connecting that port with the capital within eight days, and that all telegraph wires would be restored in the next forty-eight hours. This is the most reassuring news received here in some time.

Four hundred bluejackets landed early this morning at Corinto, and were taken from the cruiser California and took charge of policing the railroad to Managua, the Nicaraguan capital, according to advices received today at the State Department. Two thousand marines and sailors will be mobilized in Nicaragua by next week.

Action Disapproved.

The President's action in receding the order directing the entire Tenth Infantry to sail from Panama City to protect Americans in Nicaragua, met with disapproval on all sides today.

At the War Department, it was declared it is understood, believe the situation in the southern republic is a "second Boxer uprising."

Telegrams from American citizens in the country indicate that a massacre is feared at any moment. The 2,000 additional marines who are to be sent to Corinto next week may be adequate to quell the disturbance that is general in the republic, but it is feared their arrival may be too late.

Prominent officials hold to the belief that no time should be lost in landing the troops now en route to Nicaragua, and they base their opinion on the many telegrams from Nicaraguan government officers and on the pleas of United States Ministers and various consular agents.

News dispatches sent from aboard the President's train late last night indicate that Mr. Taft is still "hoping" for a cessation of hostilities in Nicaragua. Even the sending of marines to the turbulent country several weeks ago, was with reluctance on the part of the Chief Executive.

The order to dispatch the Tenth Infantry yesterday stated that the President would "follow it through" if his hands conditions in Nicaragua do not improve. Judging from past events, the chances for improvement in the war zone are slim.

Backing Men.

About the State Department today it was reported that American interests are financing General Menes's revolution. To back up this assertion it was pointed out that about $30,000,000 of Nicaraguan paper money representing by reason of its debased standard perhaps $10,000,000 United States dollars had been issued by the revolutionists soon after the outbreak occurred.

Vermont Candidate

REV. FRAZER METZGER.

"AVOID VENAL BOSS AND COME WITH US," URGES ROOSEVELT

Hyattsville, Md., Aug. 28.—The first gun of the Progressive party in Prince George county will be fired tonight when a large rally will be held at Seat Pleasant near the District line. If the expectations of the Progressive party men bear fruit Colonel Roosevelt will poll an overwhelming vote in this county next November.

Last spring in the primaries he defeated President Taft by a large majority, and in this election district, where most of the voters are Government clerks, and where it was expected Taft would get the greater part of his strength, the President was defeated by an almost two-to-one vote.

A great many of the Republican leaders in the county are out for the Progressive party heart and soul, and are doing everything in their power for the success of the Roosevelt and Johnson ticket.

William R. Smallwood, member of the last house of delegates of the Maryland Legislature, announced himself as a candidate for Congress on the Progressive ticket, but has in the past few days withdrawn.

It is said that a certain prominent Democrat in Bladensburg district is going to organize a Roosevelt club in that village, and that one will soon be started in Hyattsville. The fight in this county is going to resolve itself into a contest between Roosevelt and Wilson. Taft is sure to run third. As far as the Congressional candidates are concerned it appears on the surface that the Democratic candidate, Frank O. Smith, of Calvert county, has a slight advantage in the counties over his Republican opponent, Thomas Parran, but as this district contains part of Baltimore city the fight will, no doubt, be decided there.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton E. Smith, of Columbia avenue, are spending a few weeks at their beautiful country home, "Montebello," near Branchville, this county.

Messrs. Jackson F. Ralston and James M. Vincent have returned from a two weeks' trip to New York city, Providence, R. I., and Plymouth, Mass.

The School of Horticulture of the Maryland Agricultural College has sent notice to farmers throughout the State that it desires to conduct as many demonstrations in packing apples as possible. Any farmer desiring to have a demonstration in his orchard can have an expert sent to show how apples should be packed in boxes and barrels. In its statement the school states:

"There is no doubt that our growers should give more attention to the proper packing of this fruit. It is in the packing that the Western growers are ahead of us. For many orchardists have not yet learned how to pack and market it properly."

Owing to the fact that a great number of the men are absent it has been decided that the long lunch for the celebration to be held on Labor Day. The naval gun factory band has been obtained to play in connection with the firemen's outing and picnic.

Prince George County Leaders Say Roosevelt Will Win Over Taft.

WILSON DISCUSSES TARIFF IN OPENING CAMPAIGN SPEECH

He Tells Farmers They Do Not Have Proper Share in Government.

WILLIAMS GROVE, Pa., Aug. 28.—Gov. Woodrow Wilson fired his opening gun here today in his campaign for the Presidency. Addressing the farmers gathered for the meeting of the Pennsylvania State Grange, the Democratic nominee appealed for support upon the tariff plank in his platform. He promised economic reforms not only beneficial to the farmer but to all.

Governor Wilson likened our Government to a vast partnership with every citizen holding a share in it. He declared that a great economic change is going on and cited the passage of the farmers' free list by the last Congress as an expression of it.

Governor Wilson said in part: "Our idea of it has been down for the first time that it was a genuine partnership and that all of us were partners and that there was no rank-order of junior or senior citizens. No one had any preference over anybody else in the arrangement, but that all were upon one footing and were to share alike."

"But a very interesting thing has come to light. That is not in fact the way the Government has been administered in our time, but something very different. It has been in the hands of a few men, and these men have seldom been heard from in the governing voice in its administration."

"We had supposed that all were conducted in the national business along lines laid down by Jefferson, but we find as a matter of fact we have been conducting it along the lines laid down by Hamilton. Hamilton believed that the common run of men had little qualification for such business that it could be really comprehended and wisely directed only by those who led in commercial and industrial enterprises and owned the chief bodies of property in the country. And in our time the leaders of the Republican party have unconsciously or unconsciously adopted this notion."

"These men financed party campaigns and were always on the inside when party policy was to be determined. They were the trustees, we were their wards and took part in the common life as they planned and directed. What went on in the trustee meetings we were very seldom allowed to learn, we learned only by Congressional investigation or trials in court which the trustees had explained sadly interfered with the regular course of business."

"We have not yet got to the end of the inquiry. Why have we found out enough to make it certain that we shall change the whole method and spirit of conducting our Government?"

SIGNAL CORPS LAST OF GUARDSMEN TO REACH DISTRICT

Overland March From Camp Ordway Is Made In Forty-Eight Hours.

With the arrival in Washington at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon of the "mounted detachment of the Signal Company, the last of the 1,900 troopers of the District National Guard reached Washington from the two weeks' maneuvers which ended at Harpers Ferry Wednesday.

The overland march from the camping ground, near Bolivar Heights, was made in exactly two days.

In command of the company was Capt. Oliver C. Terry. The signal men marched to their armory in Missouri avenue, checked their property, and left immediately for their homes.

The army and guard inspectors will now take up the work of inspecting the property used in the maneuvers. Harpers Ferry maneuvers by the militiamen.

When all this is accounted for, the 1,900 or more guardsmen will be granted leaves of absence, and all work, both on the range and at their armories, will be suspended till after the first of October.

Tents Are Dry.

It will be unnecessary to spread the tents out in the open for any length of time, as has been the custom at the end of the last two or three encampments. They will be unrolled in the drill hall of the Center Market Armory, brushed and repacked, then stored away for another encampment.

Suspension of Drills.

It will require three or four days for the final inspection of the guardsmen and their property. Orders calling for suspension of drills are expected from the brigade headquarters today or tomorrow.

The First Battery, Field Artillery, commanded by Capt. J. Harry Shannon, which completed its overland march from Harpers Ferry yesterday afternoon, and the mounted section of the Signal Corps which arrived here this afternoon, will be paid off by Major Boyd Taylor, paymaster of the guard, tonight.

The members of these organizations left camp before the work of paving the guardsmen for their services in the field this year was begun.

SECRETARY KNOX HAS A CHANCE FOR PRESIDENCY

Electoral College Deadlock May Lead to His Succession.

brings forward the realization of the endless complications which would be imposed. There would have to be new nominations for President. The State Legislatures which would be in session next winter would be appealed to, with more urgency than ever before, to pass primary laws. Congress, before passing the special legislation necessary to provide for the extraordinary election, would consider proposals from the Progressives to have a national Presidential primary; and without doubt this would be strongly supported by progressives in all parties and by a powerful sentiment from the whole country.

Would Fight for Cause.

In such a crisis, of course, the advocates of reform measures would find opportunity to press their cause. They would fight hard for every possible gain.

It may safely be assumed that, in an extraordinary election in 1913, Mr. Taft would not be the Republican nominee. It would have been demonstrated already that he could not win. The nomination of Colonel Roosevelt by the Progressive party would be a foregone conclusion, and the possibility of the Republicans also nominating him, and thus making him the candidate of both parties and paving the way for a restoration of the old solidarity of the Republicans, would attract wide attention. Wilson might or might not be nominated by the Democrats, but presumably he would be.

SENATE TO DECIDE PLACE TO SETTLE TOLL CONTROVERSY

Question of The Hague Will Meet With Opposition.

It will be up to this Government to decide whether it will permit the controversy with Great Britain over Panama canal tolls to be submitted to The Hague.

Under existing law, such action cannot be taken by the President without the consent of the Senate.

The British formal protest, which was filed with the State Department yesterday through the British charge, Mitchell Innes, says a more extended statement of the matter will be made later.

It is already clear that there will be strong opposition in the Senate to permitting the case to go to The Hague inasmuch as it is inevitable the controversy would be heard by a court prejudiced against this country.
