over, it persistently opposed the nomination of either Taft or Roosevelt. But we now have both, so we are confronted with a condition, not a theory.
My advocacy of Mr. Roosevelt in the campaign for nomination was not in the interest of Mr. Roosevelt himself, but chiefly because I wanted to see the economic policies of the Republican party continued in force, and that this might be done meant that we must have a candidate who could be elected.
With a hundred millions of human souls in this country of ours to care for, the controlling forces of our national Government should not be selected with regard to personal preference, but with regard to fitness for the job and with regard to policy. The man who stands for industrial progress and the square deal to all.
This is a two-party fight, make no mistake about this—a fight between Roosevelt and Wilson. If Taft had any chance whatever to win, the case would be entirely different. But since his election is an impossibility, as the Press foretold a year ago, since it is probable that he will carry no more than a single State in the Union, the problem narrows down to a choice between Roosevelt and Wilson—Roosevelt, who stands for the economic policies for which this paper has always stood, and Wilson, who stands for economic policies against which this paper has always fought.

For Tariff That Protects.
The logical and honest thing, then, for this newspaper to do, under the conditions in which we find ourselves, is to support Roosevelt, who can be elected and whose election would mean the continuation of a tariff that protects the American wage against the cheap wage abroad—the continuation of a tariff that makes it possible for our industries to compete with foreign industries and that protects our markets from the onrush of foreign invasion. The Press, therefore, under my ownership, will stand for American prosperity and American industries which, after all, are the broad and better issues of the campaign. These will be as safe in the hands of Roosevelt as they would in the hands of Taft or Wilson—Roosevelt, who stands for the economic policies for which this paper has always stood, and Wilson, who stands for economic policies against which this paper has always fought.

Former Owner's Statement.
Henry L. Einstein, for nearly eighteen years owner of the Press, also makes a personal statement in connection with the transfer of the property. He says:
To the Readers of the New York Press: This newspaper, of which I have been the sole owner since February, 1896, I have sold and transferred to Mr. Frank A. Munsey, under whose ownership and direction it is issued today.
To the large number of readers of the New York Press, embraced in a circulation of some 100,000, I wish to state that various efforts have been made to acquire this newspaper from me, but that I have always refused to consider the purchase of the property by any interest or individual. I thought might be repugnant to the readers of the Press.
Mr. Munsey, who now owns and has taken full charge of the Press, is publisher of large experience and success. His magazines are known all over the United States, and he has newspapers in Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington. The addition of the Press in New York gives Mr. Munsey a closely linked federation of newspapers in all the great cities of the Atlantic seaboard from Boston to the Nation's Capital.

Suspend Rates.
The Interstate Commerce Commission today suspended until January 24 proposed increases in the rates on cattle and calves from New Mexico to Kansas City and other points in Missouri. The advanced rates were to have taken effect September 24 and represented increases of from 1/2 cent to 2 cents per 100 pounds.

PROMOTIONS TO BE GIVEN 13,000 MAIL CLERKS OCTOBER 1

Railway Service to Be Reorganized to Provide Annual Salary Increase.

Orders for promotion of 13,000 railway mail clerks effective October 1, were prepared in the Postoffice Department today, pursuant to a provision in the postoffice appropriation act which guarantees to faithful and efficient employees an annual increase in salary of $100 until they have reached the maximum salary of $1,800. Chief clerks in the mail service will receive $2,000.
The new appropriation act provides for a reorganization of the railway mail service along lines suggested by Postmaster General Hitchcock. In working out the details of the classification the Postmaster General has been in conference with division superintendents of the railway mail service from all parts of the country. The conferences are being continued at the Raleigh Hotel.
The basis of pay for clerks in the future will be their efficiency ratings. The initiation of the system has required a great amount of work. There are about 3,700 employees of the service not included in the promotion order effective October 1, but these men are practically certain of increased compensation before the first of the year.
The new law provides for three classes of railway postal lines, with their transfer and terminal offices, of compensation to range highest on the lines where the work is heaviest. Beginning with $900 a year, all clerks who render faithful and efficient service will receive annual promotions of $100 until they reach the maximum of the successive annual grades, after which they

COMPTROLLER TO PAY OFF CLAIMS ON SHOSHONE DAM

Congress' Appropriation Won by Mrs. McDonald to Be Divided.

The Department of the Interior will draw warrants payable to either the original claimants against the contractor who failed in the construction of the Corbett tunnel of the Shoshone irrigation project in Wyoming or to their assignees, according to the decision of the Comptroller of the Treasury today.
These claims are against the $42,000 appropriation made by Congress after a valiant fight made by Mrs. Katherine MacDonald, who spent the winter in Washington attempting to obtain $11,000 due her husband and herself. Congress first failed to pass the appropriation bill. The facts in the case were then presented by The Washington Times and, on the day before adjournment, Congress passed a special act for the relief of the creditors. The Department of the Interior desired to be assured that warrants should be drawn to assignees as well as to the original claimants. There were also cases where partial assignments had been made, the assignee taking part of the claim as payment for collection. In such cases warrants will be drawn to the original claimant, who will settle with his collector. The real credit for collection rests with Mrs. McDonald, whose determined fight was responsible for the final victory.
The Comptroller points out the fact that the claims are not actually against the United States, but are against the contractor and his bondsmen. Congress, nevertheless, recognized the obligation as one which the United States should meet and overlooked the technical objection raised by the Federal legal experts.
This decision is supposed to clear up all the points in connection with the payment of the claims and the Montana and Wyoming claimants will shortly receive the cash for which they have waited so long.

Virginia Progressives To Meet in Alexandria

Marines May Guard Cuban Election Polls

Progressives of the Eighth Congressional district of Virginia, were called to meet at Barepta Hall, Alexandria, at noon today to name a district Presidential elector and a Progressive candidate for Congress. The call was issued by A. S. Woodland, a member of the executive committee of the Progressive State central committee.
A number of Washington Progressives intended to go to the meeting. Any one will be admitted, the call being addressed to all voters irrespective of previous political affiliation.
According to advices here the conservatives and liberals are widely separated on almost all questions concerning the public policy of the island republic. Marines may be sent to guard the polls as was done in Panama recently.

Matchless in Brilliancy, Matchless in Magnitude—Our Fall Millinery Opening

The Fashion Triumphs of the World's Master-Milliners Are Shown in Their Entirety

Today's large and enthusiastic attendance has again demonstrated the importance in which our millinery exhibits are held. The new headwear bears the imprint of a dozen periods of history, and sizes and trimming effects are so diverse that every woman can get a becoming hat.
As usual Paris has sent us her best creations. Reboux, Talbot, Georgette, Mangin-Maurice, and other premier artists vie with each other in new ideas.
Especially noticeable is the trend toward simplicity—the air of refinement instead of elaboration that characterizes the most favored hats.
The productions of our own milliners, while much lower in price, are not a fraction behind the imported models in style or beauty.
Plush, velvet, and velour hats are most prominent, and colors offer a riot of shades! Tomorrow and Wednesday are also exhibition days.

OUR FAMOUS TRIMMED HATS, $4.95, $7.95, $9.95

The Majority of Them Worth Double

While the fame of King's Palace as a millinery center rests on hats of all grades, those at $4.95, $7.95, and $9.95 have had a big share in building up this reputation.
Duplicates of foreign and American models are shown at these low prices—hats that have the style and general excellence of materials not to be expected at several times the price. Models for women of every age. All the new styles and colors.
$3 Velour and Felt Hats $1.59
All the leading models. Velours are rich and velvety, felts comprise both scratch and bright finish.
