SECRETARY M'COY SORRY

His Remark to a Durrant Juror Cost Him $250.

PUNISHED FOR CONTEMPT

Attempt of the Defense to Prove an Alibi for the Prisoner on the Day of the Murder Not Very Successful—Fellow-Students' Memories Prove Altogether Treacherous.

San Francisco, Oct. 3.—A monotonous morning session in the Durrant trial today was relieved by the contempt of court proceedings in the case of Secretary H. M'Coey, of the Y. M. C. A., who last Thursday morning testified as a juror in the case that he would be hanged if he did not vote to convict Durrant.

M'Coey admitted the conversation, but said it had been made in jest and to a juror who was an old friend of his. He regretted the remark the moment it was uttered and had regretted it ever since. He said he had nothing against Durrant and his remark had no significance.

Judge Sanderson, of the superior court, who overheard the remark and reported it to Judge Murphy, said that M'Coey did not deliver the utterance in the manner of a man who really contemplated violence to a juror.

GOT OFF LIGHTLY. The court said he was satisfied that M'Coey meant nothing by his remark and he would impose no fine for the limit allowed by law. An alibi for the juror in jail, but suspended judgment until Saturday.

Attempt of the defense to sustain the roll call for Dr. Cheney's lecture on the afternoon of April 3, on which Durrant's name appeared, failed in an important particular to-day. The roll showed that Student C. L. Garvin was absent from the lecture. Garvin testified that he was present.

Durrant's counsel sought to show that Garvin had been absent from a clinic the day before, the roll call of which was on a page opposite to that containing the roll call of the trial, and that this caused confusion and a transposition of the absence mark. In this they failed, as Mr. Garvin said he did not know whether he attended the clinic or not.

Durrant's counsel claimed that on April 3 Durrant, accompanied by F. K. Ross, another student, left the college at 12:30 o'clock and took a walk, from which they did not return until 1:30, when Durrant went to the college and remained until the close of the lecture, at 4:30.

ALIBI NOT SUCCESSFUL. Ross was put on the stand this afternoon, but he could not positively say on what day the walk was taken. He was not certain that it was in April.

R. H. Carter, another student, who met Durrant and Ross while on the walk, could not fix the date.

Several more of the students of Durrant's class were called to-day, but none could say whether he was at the lecture on the afternoon of April 3 or not.

PROCESSION OF PRIESTS

Imposing and Brilliant Ceremony at Catholic University.

CLOSE OF THE CONGRESS

Adoption of Resolutions Touching Sabbath Observance and Christian Unity of the Divided Brethren. Title Conferred on Bishop Maes. Reception at Carroll Institute.

The first Eucharistic Congress of America was closed yesterday afternoon at the Catholic University grounds with one of the most sacred, brilliant, and inspiring ceremonies in the history of the Church, the procession of the blessed Sacrament.

The public attentiveness of the congress by resolution which will specially interest the public are the following:

"The priests of the Eucharistic Congress pledge themselves to secure the sanctification of Sunday by every means in their power. They reiterate it as the Eucharistic day of the Lord, and they purpose to carry out in letter and spirit the admonition of the Third Plenary Council of Baltimore concerning the observance of the Sabbath."

The congress deals with joy the exhortation of His Holiness, Leo XIII, that this congress may demand assistance in its mission to Christian unity of our separated brethren."

The adoption of final resolutions were offered by Father Elliot, of New York, for the committee, and were all accepted.

Other resolutions of the resolutions were that the various papers read be printed, and a copy of each of the papers be sent to every priest in the United States, that the thanksgiving resolutions be expressed in the various languages of the congress, that the papers read be printed in the various languages of the congress, that the papers read be printed in the various languages of the congress, that the papers read be printed in the various languages of the congress.

CONFERRING A TITLE. The proceedings of the congress were closed with a solemn and with prayer, offered up by Archbishop Maes.

Another important moment of the congress was the conferring of the title of "Protector of the Eucharistic Congress" on Bishop Maes.

The conferring of which was done was offered by the Rev. Father Bush, representing Father Lietz, the founder of the League.

A congratulatory message was received from Bishop Williamson, the rector of the academy, and it was read.

The resolutions of the congress were: "How to promote devotion to the blessed sacrament among the people," by the Rev. J. F. Foley, of St. Ann's Church, St. Louis.

"The manner of preparing children and adults for their first holy communion, and of grounding them in a living devotion to the most precious sacrament," by the Rev. H. L. Hoeser, D. D., editor of the American Ecclesiastical Review.

"The Eucharistic League," by the Rev. H. B. Hoeser, president of St. Gregory's, Cincinnati, Ohio. This was a particularly interesting address. It dealt with the statistics of the league, the membership, and the progress of the league, and the progress of the league, and the progress of the league.

THE MARONITE MISSIONARY. The feature of the afternoon session was the address of the Rev. Joseph Zaback, who was on the programme as the Armenian Missionary, but who requested the Times to say that he is a Maronite.

His subject was "The Holy Eucharist in the Eastern Catholic Church." His address included a description of the various sects, animating and orthodox, of the Eastern Church, including the Nestorians, the Copts, the Syrians, the Monophysites, the Jacobites, Monophysites, the Egyptians, and all the earlier churches which marked the systems of the early Christian Church.

The speaker asked the question, what is the prospect of union between the Eastern and Western churches? and proceeded to answer it by saying that with kindness and patience, and that it is a custom that children, after the injunction of the Savior, shall be brought to the altar, where their heads are bowed and the candles.

He said that if obedience to the supreme authority and a few minor points were eliminated it would be difficult to discover any difference between the Eastern Church and the Roman Church. The Christians of the East, he stated, liked the Roman Church, and would join it if certain differences were reconciled.

The Christians of the East, he stated, liked the Roman Church, and would join it if certain differences were reconciled.

By permission of the president several reports were made of societies whose work is in line with that of the Eucharistic Congress. Father Timothy, O. S. B., spoke of the institution and work of the Confraternity of Perpetual Adoration and also the Arch-confraternity of St. Paul's, Minnesota.

Arch-bishop Ryan, of Philadelphia, read the report of the Ladies' Society of the Tabernacle, of Philadelphia, which proved to be an interesting paper. Bishop Keane presented the report of the Ladies' Tabernacle, of this city, which was founded in 1876, with only twenty-five members. This report was read and a copy given to each of the delegates.

Bishop Keane, however, made a short synopsis of the work of this organization which showed that they had distributed very large sums of $90,000, had aided 1,269 churches and missions and had distributed 29,605 articles of use in churches.

They had given largely to the colored and Indian missions, and particularly to the Alaskan mission stations, each of which was fully equipped from this source. This statement was greeted with great applause.

At this point in the proceedings Father Bush offered the resolution conferring the title of "Protector of the Eucharistic League of America" in Rev. Bishop Maes, Bishop of Covington and president of the congress, to which, being present, the president made a brief and eloquent address of recognition of the honor.

On motion of Father Elliot, of New York, a vote of thanks was passed to the University officials for their manifold courtesies to the congress, after which that body adjourned.

PRACESSION AT THE UNIVERSITY. The members of the congress about half past 5 o'clock assembled in the chapel of divinity hall preparatory to the procession of the blessed sacrament. The chapel was radiant with light and flowers. In the sanctuary were Cardinal Gibbons, Monsignor Satali and eleven bishops and archbishops. Here was sung the hymn "Fange Lingua" by the whole congregation.

The procession started in the following order: Father Lynch, holding aloft the crucifix, with an attendant on either side, twenty-one acolytes in red cassocks and white surplices, then in black cassocks and white surplices, then the archbishops and bishops in purple vestments, then the cardinal in red robes, then the members of the congress.

After these a canopy of gold embroidery lined with red silk, under which walked the cardinal, Mr. Satali was arrested in a gold embroidered cope. On his right was the Rev. John Murray, and on his left Father Doyle, the deacon and sub-deacon, respectively, of the ceremony of the benediction of the blessed sacrament.

The procession moved with a division of priests, fifty in number. All of the members of the line except Mr. Satali and his attendants carried lighted candles. The candles were extinguished before the host as it proceeded, while all the priests chanted a hymn.

When the procession reached the south front of the cathedral, the archbishops and the cross-bearer passed at the steps while Mr. Satali and his assistants ascended the steps, where he deposited the host on an altar prepared for the occasion. After this altar was exposed the sacred heart.

The altar was beautifully decorated with flowers, while the portico was adorned with palms and the church bells rang. The benediction took place before this altar, and the host was exposed, at which incident the whole line knelt, and continued the chanting of the Mass. The host was then taken to a position in front of the steps around which the line passed on the return to the chapel.

MADE WAY FOR THE CARDINAL. The delegates returned to the chapel in the same order as they had left it at the entrance, making way for the Cardinal and the apostolic delegate and his assistants.

The acolytes passed on the outer edge of the stairway while the procession passed through into the chapel. There the ceremony of blessing and exposition as at previous services was held. After the exposition the candles were extinguished. The service was marked especially by the chanting by the priests and bishops of the Te Deum Laudamus.

The procession was an extremely beautiful and impressive feature. The sun, which was near setting, lighted up the line with a flood of rosy glory and brought out in relief the varied hues of the moving mass.

The air was filled with the odor from the censers and with the solemn strains of the hymn. The weather was as charming as could be desired. This and the publication of the coming event attracted a very large crowd to the grounds, many of which had been reserved for the occasion.

The solemnity, splendor, and significance of the scene will long be remembered by the thousands who witnessed the singularly suggestive and impressive pageant. It was stated by one of the officers of the congress yesterday that one of the matters of business before the archbishops and bishops was the nomination of a president of the American Eucharistic Congress. The president of the institution, he is an American. It was stated that the probable selection would be Rev. Dr. Kennedy, of New York.

ATTENDED THE RECEPTION. Catholic Notables Entertained at Carroll Institute. Carroll Institute was crowded last night with prominent Catholics in attendance upon the reception given for the members of the Eucharistic Congress by the officers and members of the Institute.

The notable guests of the occasion were Cardinal Gibbons, Rt. Rev. Bishop Keane, Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia, Rt. Rev. Bishop Keane, rector of the Catholic University, and Monsignor Schroeder.

On the stage with them were about a dozen of the delegates to the Congress, President Bogus, of the Institute, and ex-President D. J. Murphy.

The Carroll Institute Orchestra furnished the music, which was patriotic in character. The hall was decorated with the national flag and the papal flag and cushions.

President Bogus opened the proceedings of the reception with a short address in which he expressed the honor felt by the membership at the presence of their distinguished guests and then presented Mr. Murphy, who welcomed the guests and spoke of the entire sympathy of the Catholics of the city in the purposes of the Congress.

He also touched interestingly on the part that Catholics had played in the first settlement of the country and their devotion to the American republic.
