HOMES MADE HOMELIKE

Fashionables Returning and Putting Their Residences in Order.

Mrs. Lamont's Indian Room—Chinese Minister Will Leave on Sunday for Spuino to Present His Credentials.

There are the days of household confusion, the season when half the Lanes and Penitens of many city homes are standing on their heads, in obscure corners, or smothered in undignified fashion under heaps of trampled garments.

The gay housewife back from the luxurious sea side cottage or rustic mountain "villa," is full of new and pretty decorative ideas, learned from a staid nature at work, and from her fellow-cottagers or cabiniers. Every easy drawing room and boudoir bears some trace of her summering, and she arranges and rearranges, moving off to watch the effect of her latest artistic venture, and strolling satisfaction as she brings tactical order out of gay colored chaos.

Mrs. Lamont, wife of Secretary of War, is busy superintending the "fixing up" of her hospitable home, days every-where are sojourns of her distinguished guests, her tour through the West, in the shape of gaiters, and gaiters, and Indian knick-knacks of every sort. Mrs. Lamont is faced with a dilemma over the most proper reception to tender her, and is undecidedly impressed by all she saw of life at the army post. So numerous and beautiful are the gifts of Indian work received by the secretary and herself, that she is fitting up a special room hung and ornamented with them, which will soon be prepared for the reception of her friends.

The Chinese minister, Mr. Yang Yu, and suite will leave Washington Sunday for New York, and after a few days there will sail on the French line steamship La Touraine for Havre. Mr. Yang Yu expects to remain in Paris three or four days, after which he will go by rail to Madrid, Spain. The object of this visit of the minister to Spain is to present his credentials, he being accredited to that country as well as to the United States. Returning, he will spend some weeks in England, and expects to arrive in Washington a few days before Christmas.

Commodore Thomas G. Safford, U. S. N., closed his cottage at Newport yesterday.

Col. T. H. Anderson, who was minister to Bolivia under President Harrison, has returned from abroad. Mrs. Anderson, who has been quite ill, is rapidly recovering.

Rogers' staff, and will be stationed at Governor's Island. Mrs. Lyman will join her husband as soon as the health of her little son permits.

Mrs. James K. Young, of Lisbon, N. H., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. R. L. O'Brien, at her home in this city.

Mrs. F. W. Coleman and son, of the Richmond, are stopping in New York for a few weeks.

Senator and Mrs. Calvin Brice and the Misses Brice, accompanied by Mr. Sanford Beattie, will return to Concord House, their elegant winter home, November 1.

Miss Page Carr, of No. 2127 B street, who has been enjoying the summer months in Canada, will return to the city tomorrow. Miss Lemley, of Chevy Chase, niece of Gen. James Palmer, is the guest of Miss Carr.

Senor Don Miguel Corraubias, first secretary of the Mexican Legation, is in New York.

Mr. Robert Lehr, who has for some time been Portuguese consul at Baltimore, has resigned that office.

Mrs. L. Z. Letter and Miss Daisy Letter have left Switzerland for Paris, where they will be met Monday by Mr. Letter and will go at once to the handsome country seat of Mr. George Nathaniel Curzon, in Derbyshire, to visit their daughter, Mrs. Curzon. After remaining two weeks, they will leave England October 20, sailing on the steamship Majestic, of the White Star Line. Mr. Joseph Letter is again in Chicago.

Mr. Harold Camp has returned to his home in Washington, after a visit of several weeks to Lake Champlain, N. Y., and Vermont.

Lieut. Remy, U. S. N., and family, have returned to the city, and have taken apartments at the Elmside.

Col. L. L. Livingston, U. S. A., and Miss Livingston, his daughter, will be at the Richmond for a few days in the early part of next week.

Mr. and Mrs. James Franklin and Mrs. Ross have returned after a season's absence, and are at the Cairo.

N., will occur at noon Wednesday, October 9, in New York. The ceremony will be performed at the home of friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Raymond, No. 269 West Seventy-third street. Father Taylor will officiate, and among the guests will be Mrs. U. S. Grant and Mrs. Algeron Sartoris. Mr. and Mrs. Dent are residents of Washington.

The home of Capt. Richard H. Remington, in Alexandria, was yesterday evoking the scene of a pretty wedding. Miss Olive V. Bradshaw becoming the bride of Mr. Thomas L. Callish. The ceremony took place promptly at 7 o'clock in the handsome parlors, and Rev. J. T. Williams, pastor of the M. E. Church South, tied the knot.

MRS. SHREYVES' GRIEVANCE

She Testified That He Threatened and Abused Her Cruelly.

Detective McDevitt Thought It Was a Case of Deep Love on the Man's Side.

Charles E. Shreyves, an usher in one of the theaters, was in Judge Miller's court yesterday morning charged with threatening his wife, Maud E. Shreyves.

Mr. and Mrs. Shreyves have been married but thirteen months. Mrs. Shreyves was called to the stand again and said that her love for the defendant was entirely dead.

Mrs. Shreyves told the judge how Shreyves has abused her for some time, that he is a hard drinking man, and that on Saturday night he came home drunk and abused her, struck her and prevented her from leaving the house, when she tried to go to her mother's house for protection.

Shreyves, who is about five inches smaller than his wife, took the stand and told of the incident, stating that he had not been in question and drawing blood. He swore that he was not drunk, but had liquor about him. He said he loved his wife and she would have to leave him.

They have been rooming at Fourteenth and H streets, and he is making $4 a week as usher. He declared since he lost his position as lithographer he had been treated like a dog.

Mrs. Shreyves, who is a very pretty brunette and only seventeen years old, was informed by a gentleman whom she had promised to marry that he had broken the matter that neither she nor her daughter were safe from this man.

"Probably the lady refers to me," spoke up a voice from the crowded courtroom, and when the owner appeared on the scene it proved to be Detective McDevitt.

Mr. McDevitt was sworn, and said he thought the whole thing was a case of deep love on the young man's side. He had come to him and told him of his troubles, and (McDevitt) had gone up to see Mrs. Gilbert to attempt to bring about a reconciliation.

Col. Kelly and Maj. Harris accompanied the Indians.

CAN NEVER COME TO PASS

Cardinal Gibbons Repudiates Stephan's Political Plan.

TIMES GIVEN AN INTERVIEW

Head of the American Church Says Its Mission is to Teach, and Not to Interfere With Temporal Affairs. Archbishop Ryan's Lively Comment. Next Meeting October 2, 1895.

The momentous question now before the public concerning the political organization of the prelates and members of the Roman Catholic Church received an authoritative denial yesterday from the great head of the American church, Cardinal Gibbons.

A Times reporter had an interview in the morning with the Cardinal in his private room on the second floor and just above the main entrance of St. Matthews Hall. The apartment is a stately one, furnished in rich, dark leather and Turkish hangings.

Here the Cardinal, clothed in his crimson silk cassock, was seated in a large armchair just before a western window that commanded a magnificent view of the Soldiers' Home.

The Cardinal said: "The subject of a political organization to be formed by the officials and members of our church was not discussed at our meeting yesterday. It is contrary to all established rules and precedents to entertain such an idea, still less to form plans for a course of action."

"The Catholic Church has always held itself aloof from all political entanglements. Its great mission is to teach and direct in things spiritual. With temporal affairs it never interferes."

"The laymen of the church are free to form such societies as may tend to promote their temporal welfare, but to expect the archbishops and bishops formally to approve or to ratify such plans is to expect what can never come to pass."

In regard to the Indian Bureau, the cardinal said: "The new commission, consisting of himself, Archbishop Corrigan of New York, and Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia, had held their first meeting last night, and that the director general of the bureau, Mr. Stephen, had been present. The transfer had been made from the old commissioners, Archbishop Keardon, of San Francisco, and Bishop Marty, of South Dakota, to the present board."

In reply to the direct question, "Will Mr. Stephan still remain in charge of the bureau?" the cardinal answered immediately:

"Most assuredly, Mr. Stephan will remain the director. He has spent a long life in this good work, his management has been marked by his integrity and executive ability unquestioned."

Replying to a further question about the attitude of the bureau toward the present administration, the cardinal said:

HAVE NO GRIEVANCE.

"We have no grievance whatever against this government. It has long been known to us that the appropriations would at the end of a specified time be entirely withdrawn from our Catholic missions. We had no objection to providing for this contingency, and will now take active steps in making all our schools self-supporting."

The cardinal said further that the archbishops and bishops would never make a united petition to Congress, no matter how grave the circumstances or how grievous the complaint. If the Catholic Church had reason to believe that its rights were being infringed, it would simply ask for justice as citizens of the United States; they would never demand satisfaction as a body of powerful prelates supported by millions of voters. Such action would be contrary to their high prerogative of the exponents of the great teacher of charity and humanity.

In concluding his interview, the cardinal expressed great satisfaction at the magnificent inaugural of McMahon Hall, and said that the Catholics of Washington had cause for true rejoicing, that such a monument of learning and munificence should have arisen in their midst. Answering the oft-repeated question, "Are you not to be admitted to the new business?" the great dignitary laughingly replied:

"Our board had not held a meeting for eighteen months, and we had such a quantity of grave and important business to transact that we did not get around to this question, which seems to be agitating the Washington ladies so greatly. When we meet in the spring we hope to remedy this oversight. In the meantime, tell the ladies to study diligently in order to be ready for the golden opportunity."

THE CARDINAL'S PERSONALITY.

Cardinal Gibbons is remarkably gentle and kind in his manner. To all who approach him he extends the same dignified, cordial welcome, and at all times, and under the most trying circumstances, he is accessible, patient and sympathetic.

Another member of the Indian Bureau, Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia, said that Mr. Stephan would undoubtedly remain in charge of its affairs as long as he desired to hold the position. He spoke very warmly of the mission's work in this field, and said that his mistakes, if such his utterances could be termed, were only the mistakes of overzeal. He had devoted his life to these missions, his only thought, and he would not have been so conscientiously attached under importance to all that concerned them. The political part of Mr. Stephan's report had not been discussed at their meeting, and there was no reason that it should have been mentioned.

The attitude of the Catholic Church has always been strongly defined. Politics never enters into their religious meetings or discussions. The Indian Bureau will conduct no political war.

THEIR WORK AT AN END.

Archbishop Kahn, of St. Louis, expressed some lively opinions on the subject. He said that Catholics would scarcely care to imitate certain other quasi-religious organizations that band together

SUED THE METROPOLITAN.

Ninth Street Line Sued to Infringe or Baltimore Patents.
The Metropolitan Railroad Company was yesterday made defendant to a suit for injunction because of alleged infringement of patents in its new system on the Ninth street line.

Elis E. Rice and Albert Henderson, both of Baltimore, are the complainants in the case. It is claimed that the company is using a device which was granted letters patent March 23, 1886. One-half interest in the invention was assigned to Mr. Henderson, making him a joint owner in an equal fraction.

The petitioners claimed the sole ownership of the patents and said they had notified the company of its infringement, but the notice has been disregarded, and since January 1 last the railroad had been making and using the various devices.

To prevent the further manufacture and use of the patents an injunction was there fore asked and payment for the profits derived from the apparatus already used asked for.
